FILIPINOS HELD NOT READY FOR FULL FREEDOM

Hoover Says Isles Need to Set Up Economic Independence.

COLLAPSE IS FEARED IF PLANS ARE RUSHED

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The 10,000,000 or more inhabitants of the Philippine Islands are not yet ready for absolute independence, in the opinion of President Hoover. There are indications, however, that the President has in mind some plan to make the Filipinos self-sufficient and therefore eligible for independence at some future time.

Like every American Executive since McKinley (who was in the White House when Admiral Dewey captured Manila and Spain ceded the islands to the United States), President Hoover believes that the Philippines should be given independence as soon as a stable government in the islands is assured.

In a formal statement yesterday, however, President Hoover pointed out that economic independence must be achieved before political independence can be successful.

Would Result in Collapse.

"Independence tomorrow without assured economic stability," the President said, "would result in the collapse of the Philippine government revenues and the collapse of all economic life in the islands.

"We propose to give further consideration to the whole question in the immediate future."

It was this last sentence that led some observers to believe that the President is planning to work out some scheme whereby the Philippines could be gradually weaned away from their economic dependence on the United States, and could thus be prepared for absolute political independence.

President Hoover made his statement with regard to Philippine independence at yesterday's 12 o'clock press conference, after Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley, who has just returned from the islands, had taken up the better part of a two-hour Cabinet meeting to outline the conclusions he had reached as the result of his tour.

Realizes Fight Is Brewing.

In making his statement yesterday, the first definite statement he has made with regard to Philippine independence, President Hoover realized that a determined fight is to be made in the next Congress to enact legislation to give the Philippines their independence.

Moreover, he must have realized that this fight will be led by men who will be motivated not so much by altruism as by local political considerations.

For example, Representative Harold Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, will be one of those who will introduce a bill for Philippine independence. It might be asked why Mr. Knutson should be so much concerned. The answer is that the dairy farmers in his State claim that they are being hard hit by the large, duty-free importation of cocoanut oil from the Philippines. Cocoanut oil is widely used as a substitute for butter.

Beet Sugar States Aroused.

The representatives in Congress from Colorado also will agitate for Philippine independence. Colorado abounds with beet sugar plantations. At the conference of Progressives here last March it was pointed out that 650,000 tons of Philippine sugar come into the United States every year duty free, thus damaging the American beet sugar industry.

The Philippine Islands, whose inhabitants, in the words of former President Coolidge, have the "rights and privileges of American citizens without the obligations," are permitted to send sugar, cocoanut oil and other products into the United States without paying a tariff duty.

Garfield Nurse Fights Off Attack on Grounds

A Garfield Hospital nurse last night fought off a heavy set man about 45 years of age who sprang at her from shadows as she walked between two buildings on the hospital grounds. She captured the man's hat in the affray but he struck her in the mouth, inflicting a slight injury.

Miss Minnie Fields, 23 years old, told police she was walking between the study hall and the hospital annex when the man grasped her and attempted to drag her under some steps. She fought him off she said, but he struck her across the mouth with his fist. Her screams attracted internes and other nurses and the man fled.

French Growers Change Name of "Hoover Wine"

Strasbourg, France, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—The Rheinish wine growers today announced a change in the name of the 1931 wine crop, which was scheduled to be known as the "Hoover wine," in tribute to the United States President's action in the European financial crisis.

Instead, it will be called "The Crisis Vintage."

Yard Open All Day to Largest Crowds in Its History; Sailors Save Four, Plunged Off Gangplank in Partial Collapse.

Unleashing the dogs of war in mimic exhibition to honor past glories and future hopes, the Navy played host to the Nation on Navy Day yesterday.

All attendance records of past celebrations were broken at the Navy Yard, the focus of Washington attention. There 137,040 persons crowded throughout the day. Four vessels, decked in flags, joined Marines and civilians in providing entertainment for the visitors.

Mimicry changed to reality for a few minutes when a dozen bluejackets jumped to the rescue of four persons who were plunged into the water between the cruiser Richmond and the dock at the partial collapse of a gangplank.

Those who fell into the water were Betty Jean Babb, 7, and June Babb, 11; Mrs. F. B. Grant, of 901 G street southwest, and Alexander Glendenning, 9, of 325 N street southwest.

Several others on the plank escaped falling. Mrs. G. H. Babb, of 312 Fifth street northeast, mother of the two girls, was thrown to the wharf and her right foot slightly injured. John L. Meade, of 3805 Benton street northwest, received contusions of the left leg when thrown against the sagging side of the plank.

The injured were removed to the ship's sick bay, where they were treated. The Glendenning boy did not seek treatment, and his younger brother ran home, saying he had been drowned. Divers were about to search the river bottom when he was located.

Despite talk of a $60,000,000 slice from its next budget, the Navy paused for its anual ceremony. Sea-

JAPAN ASKS RUSSIA TO END MANEUVERS

Tokyo, Wednesday, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Baron Shidehara, the foreign minister, in a memorandum forwarded today to Moscow, requested that Russian troop demonstrations on the Manchuria-Siberia border be discontinued. He declared the military operations might be misinterpreted.

Shidehara's communication stated the Russian troop demonstrations were causing an unpleasant effect on Japanese as well as Chinese soldiers. The foreign minister said he was deeply concerned.

Chinese reports to the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar indicate that between 20,000 and 30,000 Russian troops are concentrated in the vicinity of Pogranitchnaya, or Suifenho, north of Vladivostok, and also west of Manchouli on another front.

Tokyo vernacular newspaper today published Harbin dispatches stating the Russians have sent arms and ammunition to the Amur army, composed of Chinese and Mongols, which was reported aiming to establish Amur as an independent state, with Tsitsihar as the capital.

The dispatches said the Amur troops are endangering Japanese interests on the Taonan-Anganchi Railway.

Secretary Stimson began yesterday the examination of the final recommendations of the two American experts, who have been observing conditions in Manchuria as guests of the Chinese and Japanese governments. The experts, George Hanson and Laurence E. Salisbury, have been ordered to return to Harbin and Tokyo. Their final reports were immediately forwarded to the State Department and will constitute the basis of any further American action in the troubled region.

As the date for evacuation from Manchuria of Japanese troops grows nearer, November 16, the concern of the State Department is more acute.

Hale's Successor Forced To Wait for Certification

Concord, N. H., Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Gov. John G. Winant announced tonight that at least 64 days must elapse after he calls a special election before New Hampshire's new representatives to succeed the late Fletcher Hale can be certified.

As Gov. Winant said he would call the election tomorrow his statement meant the new representative could not be certified until December 31, 24 days after Congress convenes.

TREASURY-BUSINESS TAX PARLEYS BEGUN

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Fears that half a dozen major programs for tax increases in the next session of Congress, as now in prospect, may result in a long period of uncertainty to retard further the business recovery have prompted Treasury officials to initiate a series of taxation conferences with business and financial leaders, in the hope that a single program, which will command widespread support from the outset, may be presented in Congress.

At the same time, a second influential group, composed largely of industrial managers, have launched an effort to avoid all tax increases this winter, on the ground that the prevailing economic situation could only be aggravated by opening the question on Capitol Hill.

The sharp division of sentiment indicated by these two moves apparently reflects to a degree a corresponding division of opinion among both officials and legislators. And it is this want of a strong controlling sentiment which gives rise to question in many quarters as to the wisdom of attempting to deal with the problem in the December session.

Preliminary compilations in the Bureau of Budget having indicated that the 1933 budget may be held down to the 1932 figures, those who oppose new taxes contend that a further increase in the national debt of perhaps $750,000,000 to meet the prospective deficit for the current fiscal year would be far less burdensome to business. At the same time, it would avoid the necessity of business organizations piling up tax reserves this winter against levies which never may be enacted into law, a step which would be necessary in many cases should the whole range of pending tax proposals go into the legislative hopper in December.

Police Head and 16 Held In 10-Million Rum Plot

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Morris Grossman, chief of police of Long Beach; seven of his subordinates and nine other persons were indicted today by a grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

They were charged by Federal authorities with having smuggled contraband liquor valued at $10,000,000 into the United States in the last three years. Alfred C. McKenzie, assistant United States attorney, made the estimate.

Castaways Lived 6 Months Like Crusoe on Cocos Isle

Wearing Loin Cloths, Trio Are Found Existing on Wild Pigs, Nuts and Fish by Crew of U. S. S. Sacramento.

Balboa, Canal Zone, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Three American castaways, wearing nothing but loin cloths, were found on a beach of the lonely Pacific island of Cocos today by the United States gunboat Sacramento after they had lived a Robinson Crusoe existence for six months.

The refugees are Paul Stachwick, of Huron, S. Dak.; Gordon Brawner, of Springfield, Ill.; and Elmer J. Palliser, of San Diego, Calif.

They were shipwrecked April 15, the rescue ship reported by radio. Tonight they were on their way to Balboa aboard the Sacramento.

Until they were first found by a searching party from the yacht Camarco of Julius Fleischmann, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who happened upon traces of them while cruising in that vicinity, they had lived on cocoanuts, fish and wild pig, they said.

They managed to keep themselves supplied with food with the aid of guns and fishing tackle salvaged along with a few other articles from the wreckage of their boat.

The three men were sighted this afternoon by the Sacramento, which had been sent out from Balboa to search for them.

A launch, with a whaleboat in tow, was lowered over the side of the Sacramento but it was unable to land on the beach.

The castaways, apparently in excellent physical condition, thereupon swam out to the boat through the surf from Dampier Head on the south end of the island.

(Associated Press.)

Three men who lived as castaways on a tropical island for six months before their rescue today by the gunboat Sacramento were reported tonight by the Navy Department to be in good health.

Cocoanuts, fish and wild pig were the main items of diet for the trio

SPEAKER BOLT THREAT RAISED BY INSURGENTS

Wisconsin Group Bases Organization Vote on Program Demand.

PLATFORM MEETING PLANNED IN MADISON

Other State's Progressives to Be Asked to Join in Session.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Progressive element of Wisconsin's delegation to Congress served notice today, through the Madison Capital Times, Progressive newspaper, that it will not support the regular Republicans in the organization of the House in December unless its demands for unemployment and agricultural relief are given consideration.

Eight of Wisconsin's Republican representatives are members of the Progressive faction, organized by the late Senator Robert M. La Follette. The present party division of the lower branch of Congress is so close the Progressives hold a balance of power.

To Plan Relief Program.

A meeting of the eight representatives is to be held in Madison within a few weeks and invitations are to be extended to Progressive representatives of other States to join them in formulating a platform for the Seventy-second Congress. A definite date for the meeting has not been set.

The Times announced today that the legislative program agreed upon at this meeting, which probably will contain definite proposals on unemployment and agricultural relief, will be made known to House Republican leaders.

If there is no assurance that this program will be permitted to come to a vote the Progressives likely will side with the Democrats in selection of a successor to the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth and the lining up of important committee memberships, the Times said.

The Wisconsin Progressives are: Representatives Thomas R. Amlie, Elkhorn; Charles A. Kading, Watertown; John M. Nelson, Madison; Gardner R. Withrow, La Crosse; Gerald J. Boileau, Wausau; George J. Schneider, Appletin; James A. Frear, Hudson, and Hubert H. Peavey, Washburn.

"Gag" Abolition One Aim.

Invitations to attend the Madison meeting are to be extended to Representatives Philip D. Swing, California; E. H. Campbell, Iowa; Fiorello LaGuardia, New York; James H. Sinclair, North Dakota; O. B. Lovette, Tennessee, and Paul J. Kvale, Minnesota.

No comment on the Progressive plan was forthcoming today. Until he had conferred with his colleagues, Representative Nelson would have nothing to say about the meeting except that it was to be held.

The Times said that one of the things the Progressives would insist upon would be abolition of "gag

Citroen Deplores Refusal of Ford

Plans for Cartel Shelved as Impossible Without American.

Aboard Ile de France, at Sea, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Andre Citroen, the French "Ford," who is returning from America after a flying visit to Detroit, announced tonight that he had been forced to abandon plans for a world-wide agreement on motor production because Henry Ford refused to join in the movement.

"Our plans for a cartel have had to be shelved, at least temporarily," he said, "although all the principal automobile manufacturers of France, Germany, England, Italy and the United States were willing to join in it.

"A cartel without Ford would be useless," he explained, "and hence we are forced to continue our present wasteful, extravagant methods in spite of the depression."

Analostan Island Donated To U. S. by Roosevelt Group

Analostan Island was presented to the Government for use as a park at a meeting in New York yesterday of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, which recently acquired the 90-acre tract from the Washington Gas Light Co. for the sum of $364,000.

The Roosevelt Memorial Association, an Associated Press dispatch says, decided to present the tract at its annual meeting yesterday on the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt. The association reserved the right to construct a monument to Roosevelt on the island at some future time. No design for the monument has been selected.

In its presentation, the Roosevelt Memorial Association transfers the care of the island to the director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, to arrange landscaping and to maintain it. The island is situated in the Potomac River between the Francis Scott Key Bridge and the new Arlington Memorial Bridge.

Purchase of the tract was announced on October 13 by James R. Garfield, president of the association. It is planned to connect the island with the mainland by means of bridges to the vicinity of Rosslyn and the new Memorial Bridge.

FIGHT TO RAISE DISTRICT TAXES SEEN IN REPORT

Washington Rates Held Low in Survey Made by House Experts.

NEW METHODS CITED TO PROVIDE REVENUE

Income, Inheritance Levies Suggested; Higher Auto Charges Favored.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

District residents are in for a terrific fight in the course of the next session of Congress if they are to ward off increased local taxation.

Completion of the survey which has been undertaken by command of the Mapes District fiscal relations committee of the House has convinced the committee experts who investigated the matter that taxes in Washington are lower than elsewhere.

The investigator's report, to be submitted to the Mapes committee at its presession meeting to be held about the middle of next month, will take into consideration all of the factors necessary to bring the various taxation systems into balance and conclude that Washington residents pay a low tax.

Supports House Arguments.

The significance of that conclusion is found in the fact that such a contention has been advanced by members of Congress for some time and has been behind the efforts of the House to reduce the Federal appropriation for the maintenance and development of the National Capital. The data gathered by committee investigators supports their arguments.

In a revision of the District taxation system, perhaps, lies the greatest hope of District residents who are like the average citizen who does not want to pay any more tax than he must.

One of the proposals to be considered by the committee is that an income tax should be substituted for the existing District intangible personal property tax. There is too much evasion of the payment of the intangible personal property tax, it is contended by tax experts, although the committee expert accords William P. Richards, District assessor, and Chatham M. Towers, tax collector, with ability to get an unusually large percentage of probable tax revenues.

Result Clouded in Doubt.

What will be worked out of this proposal remains to be seen. The committee has first to decide; then the House must pass on the committee's proposal; then a Senate committee and then the Senate and finally the two houses of Congress must agree and the President approve. It is a long road for any contentious legislation to travel.

One suggestion which the committee will entertain is that every one in the District be amenable to the income tax, with a minimum of exemptions. It has been suggested that an exemption of $1,200 a year be allowed for unmarried persons and $1,500 be permitted married persons

New Cuban Plot Crushed Swiftly

Government Orders Persons With Explosives Shot Without Trial.

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Discovery of a "concerted plot" against the government of President Gerardo Machado was announced today by Capt. Sacramento del Castillo, military governor of Matanzas Province, who arrested ten alleged leaders of the conspiracy.

Details of the plot were not disclosed, but the military governor of Havana issued new instructions to all military departments to enforce orders requiring every one leaving the capital at night to have a permit. Any persons caught transporting explosives will be shot on sight.

A number of bombings in the last few days have alarmed the capital, but caused only slight damage.

NATIONAL GROUP WINS MOST SWEEPING VOTE IN HISTORY OF BRITAIN

While the government he heads was swept to victory yesterday, it is not yet known whether Ramsay MacDonald was elected. Arthur Henderson, Labor party leader, right, was defeated.

MacDonald Is in Doubt as Followers Take Lead, 261 to 25.

HENDERSON'S DEFEAT MARKS LABOR LOSSES

Conservative Hope Rises for Clear Majority With 222 Seats Assured.

Election Returns

London (Wednesday), Oct. 28 (A.P.).—General election returns from 288 constituencies early today showed this party line-up:

Conservatives, 222; National Labor, 4; National Liberal, 35; David Lloyd George (opposition), Liberal, 2; Independent, 2; Labor, 23.

These totals gave the national government 261 seats against 25 for the opposition, with 2 independents.

London (Wednesday, Oct. 28 (U.P.).—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's national government buried the Labor party yesterday under the greatest election landslide in modern British history.

Led by Stanley Baldwin's Conservative party, the national cabinet supporters smashed the Socialist attack in the midlands, in the Scottish Highlands, in the great industrial regions and in every other part of the nation where the voters responded to MacDonald's plea for a free hand in dealing with the national financial and economic emergency.

With 288 of the total of 615 seats in the House of Commons already decided, it was estimated that if the national government landslide continued proportionately in the remaining constituencies, the Labor party would have only about 50 seats in the new Parliament, as compared to the 288 it won in 1929 when led by MacDonald.

MacDonald Hope Grows.

As results from all parts of the nation continued to favor the national government candidates, government circles were increasingly confident that MacDonald would win his hard battle for reelection from Seaham constituency.

The prime minister could have sought reelection from some safe constituency, but he chose to face the rebel laborites in his usual district and his hope of victory was greatly increased by the government landslide elsewhere.

The turn of the voters of the nation from socialism to the Conservatives in a time of emergency assured the Baldwin party of victory for its tariff policies. The Conservatives, with an apparently certain party majority in Parliament, will be able to carry out their plans for a revenue and modified protectionist tariff without delay.

Vote Opens Initiative.

The government also will take the initiative in arranging for international conferences on such problems as readjustment of war debts and reparations, solution of the silver crisis and other economic and financial problems which are of vital importance to Britain and the rest of the world at the present time.

Although Stanley Baldwin was not opposed and Sir Herbert Samuel, the acting Liberal leader, was reelected, only one prominent Laborite was successful in the campaign. That was George Lansbury, former cabinet minister. There was some danger that not even a deputy leader of the Labor party would be reelected, although final returns will not be available until tomorrow.

The ranks of Britain's political leaders were broken with the defeat

PARIS WHEAT SALE NEARS COMPLETION

Farm Board Expects Laval to Approve Purchase of 20,000,000 Bushels.

Paris, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—French government negotiations for purchase of at least 20,000,000 bushels of surplus American wheat from the United States Farm Board were understood tonight to be near conclusion.

It was said in usually well-informed sources that the total of purchases may reach 50,000,000 bushels, although final decision on the amount presumably will rest with Premier Pierre Laval, now en route home from Washington.

Several central European governments were understood to be negotiating with the Farm Board for purchase of American cotton on credit, hoping to take large quantities of the United States surplus with the idea of selling it on the open market to obtain money for purchase of other commodities, chiefly metals. France was said to be considering purchase of some cotton, as well as wheat.

Although dispatches from New York said Pierre du Pasquier, on the floor of the New York Cotton Exchange announced that he knew nothing about the negotiations, it was understood that he was scheduled to participate in consummation of the deal.

"I consider such an agreement virtually an accomplished fact," said B Coles Neidecker, American banker in Paris, who inaugurated the negotiations two months ago. "Probably the only thing necessary will be to arrange details."

It was pointed out that the French government was merely acting as agent between the French millers and the Farm Board, while the millers will be the actual purchasers. Mr.

Two Baltimore Youths Found Guilty in Slaying

Baltimore, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Dale Lambert, 19, and Herman W. Duker, 21, the latter scion of a prominent Baltimore family, today were found guilty of first degree murder in the slaying last April of John W. Anderson, milk company collector, during a holdup attempt.

The verdict was reached by Judge Joseph N. Ulman, sitting in Criminal Court without a jury, after a confession, signed by Lambert the day after the slaying, was read. It admitted the holdup attempt by the two, and named Duker as the actual killer.

LABOR DEFEAT SEEN HERE AS TRADE BOON

Britain Is Expected to Adopt "Hard-Boiled" Policy to Regain Prestige.

(United Press.)

A new turn in the fight against depression, which in Great Britain has lasted almost since the World War, was seen in administration circles last night as the main point of the Conservative landslide in the British general election.

Britain was expected to adopt, with the new Parliament, a more self-contained policy—hard-boiled—as the first means of regaining trade and prestige in world markets.

From the standpoint of world politics, the Conservative landslide was hailed by Republicans because of the repudiation of "radical" doctrines in the economic crisis.

Higher tariffs and more attention to empire trade were anticipated, with a forceful effort to use for trade expansion purposes the advantage given British manufacturers by the decline in the international value of the pound sterling following Britain's departure from the gold standard.

Officials saw in the election a turn away from the Labor party at the moment when it reverted to the old-time Labor party principles, which were socialistic and radical. For the last few years, since accession of the first Labor government in fact, the Labor party is visualized as having become torpid; now it is back to its first principles, and observers here looked for a long fight back to power. It was commented also that if and when the party returned to power it

Caraway Will Undergo Kidney Operation Today

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—United States Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, will be operated upon tomorrow morning for removal of a kidney stone, doctors announced late today.

The operation was decided upon after an extended examination. Senator Caraway came from his home at Jonesboro last Friday and entered St. Vincent's Infirmary.

He has been in hospitals at Washington and Hot Springs in recent months, because of the kidney ailment. His physicians said he was a "sick man" when he came to the hospital, but has been built up and is in good condition for the operation.

Laval Visions New Europe Turning From Nationalism

Premier Believes Political Disarmament Abroad Eventually May Lead to Physical Disarmament; Franco-German Rapprochement Is Held Essential.

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Aboard S. S. Ile De France, at Sea, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval of France revealed tonight his vision of a new Europe in which the governments—even of Germany and France—will withdraw from Nationalist politics, recognize the interdependence of all nations and work harmoniously for the common good.

The youthful premier has no intention of becoming, single-handed, the champion of European economic reform. Nor would he reveal whatever program has been formed in his active brain during and since his series of consultations with President Hoover.

On the other hand, he did speak earnestly upon the "political disarmament" of Europe which, he believes, must be the forerunner of international understanding which, eventually, may lead to physical disarmament.

"I shall make no announcement," he said, "and I shall take no active steps until I have consulted the Parliament. I will speak frankly of the results of my recent conversations, and I will show the nation that here is an excellent opportunity for bold measures which, without too great French sacrifices, will permits us to assume a leadership in the economic restoration of Europe."

The premier then revealed that the burning issue of Franco-German relationships had been raised during his Washington conference, and made the following significant statement:

"I am personally convinced, as is Mr. Hoover, that the first and most important step will be the realization of a close-working rapprochement between France and Germany.

"This is Europe's opportunity, but the governments must quit playing nationalist politics and really seek to understand the interdependence of our problems.

"Much is heard about military disarmament, but equally important is

DEPARTING PREMIER WISHED BON VOYAGE

President Hoover Exchanges Good-Will Messages With Official.

President Hoover and Premier Laval, of France, exchanged good-will messages as the latter traveled toward his homeland on the Ile de France yesterday.

Said President Hoover in his message to the French premier:

"On behalf of the American people, I bid you bon voyage on your return to France from this memorable visit to the United States.

"It has afforded me much pleasure to welcome you among us, and I personally appreciate the cordial contacts resulting from our conversations."

In reply, Premier Laval said:

"I wish to express to you my gratitude for your kind telegram. I am returning to France greatly pleased with our cordial conversations and I feel confident that their results will be beneficial to the cause of French-American relations, as well as to world reconstruction."

"May I ask you to convey to Mrs. Hoover my profound respects and my appreciation for her great kindness to my daughter. I beg you to accept my most sincere gratitude for your personal hospitality as well as for the welcome that I received in the United States."

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson sent the following message to Premier Laval:

"As you are about to leave our shores I wish again to let you know what a sincere pleasure it has been to have you come to the United States as a guest of the Nation. It has been a privilege which I appreciate to be able to talk with you in the atmosphere of cordiality and frankness which your visit has made possible."

Premier Laval sent the following reply to Secretary Stimson:

"Your cordial message is a new testimony of our friendship. I have been very happy to have the opportunity to resume our relations formed in Paris and London. You have facilitated my mission and I thank you for it. I am convinced that the conversations which took place in Washington will bring fruitful results. I shall always retain a pleasant memory of the amiable hospitality shown my daughter and myself by Mrs. Stimson and yourself."

Gaming Raid Nets Police 27 Arrests

Four of Prisoners Are Held on Charges of Permitting Gambling.

Members of the vice squad from the First Inspection District yesterday captured 27 persons in a gaming raid at 746 Ninth street northwest. The raid was conducted quietly and every one on the third floor of the place was placed under arrest and carried to the Inspection District Headquarters after four trips were made by a police patrol. Four of the prisoners were booked on a charge of permitting gaming, and the others were held as United States witnesses.

Those charged with permitting gaming gave their names as Theodore Keart, 28 years old, of 1214 Massachusetts avenue northwest; Dean Kennedy, 26 years old, of 920 F street; Anthony Thomas, 21 years old, of 2204 Q street northwest, and Walter Platt, 32 years old, of the Huston Hotel.

The four held on the permitting gaming charge were released under $500 bond. Sergt. R. A. Johnson, who led the raid, said his men confiscated a number of dice, cards, wheels, tables and other gambling equipment as evidence.

FIGHT SEEN TO RAISE CAPITAL'S TAX LEVY

and that a straight tax of 1 per cent be imposed on the income of all above those amounts.

It is no secret that Washington does not trust the House. It depends on the Senate for a careful consideration of District matters because, perhaps, the House membership is too easily dominated by a few members who are cloaked about with the aura of leadership.

Months ago the Mapes committee announced its purpose to propose legislation which would increase the gasoline tax from 2 to 4 cents a gallon and put a weight tax on automobiles at rates about the average figure for the country. Undoubtedly Washington residents will rebel to their impotent best against such a tax.

Another proposal of the committee also is likely to be linked up in the popular mind with the general suggestion that Congress is imposing higher taxes on Washington. That is the proposal for an inheritance tax. But that proposal should be studied before complaint is advanced against it, inasmuch as large sums now go into the Federal Treasury annually, collected under Federal tax laws, which would be credited to the District if there were a local inheritance tax law.

International Parley Becomes Free-for-All

By JOHN J. DALY

INJECTION of the Polish Corridor into the international deliberations, outgrowth of the recent parleys held by President Hoover and Premier Laval, has widened the contest into a sort of free-for-all.

Any nation that has anything of interest to contribute is invited to step up and make a suggestion—or a deposit. Even the Kibitzers are getting into the game.

To the average person, the Polish Corridor is just a long passageway that leads to Nowhere.

SINCE the name smacks of architecture, the man on the street hearing all this fuss over the Polish Corridor is not sure whether the diplomats are building a house or tearing down an old, out-moded structure; singing, while they work, "Over the Banister Stairs."

At any moment, things being what they are with the Soviet, some one is liable to drag in the Steppes of Russia.

The possibilities are unlimited. A structure such as this, international in tone, would naturally have either a Turkish or a Roman bath; probably topped by an attic garret. 'Twould be easy to select the best cellar.

As the diplomats enter this mansion in the making, coming through the vestibule of Valhalla, leaving the Polish Corridor behind, they would find themselves going through a Parisian salon and out into the hanging gardens of Babylon, surrounded by the walls of Jericho.

* * * *

SINCE all are seeking the same ends, they will probably call the place the Hall of Fame.

It seems too bad that only men are invited to solve these great problems of state. Otherwise some matchmaking nation, imbued with the great impulse of humanity, might lay out a Lover's Lane. Certainly, that would be more romantic than the Polish Corridor or even the Hall of Montezuma, Mexico's contribution, or England's Waterloo Bridge.

Each nation bringing in some outstanding work of architecture gives a new slant on international perplexities. What, for instance, is to stop Ireland from calling attention to the Giant's Causeway, off Antrim County; that remarkable formation of columnar basalt that extends into the sea off the Northern Irish coast?

France, of course, through the ministrations of Premier Laval, has brought in the Chamber of Deputies—and if the place has to be guarded there is nothing to stop Denmark from sending over a couple of Great Danes.

IF Greece has any initiative it will offer, undoubtedly, the Painted Porch of Athens—and to make for security all these might be surrounded by the ancient Wall of China.

As yet, America has given nothing but advice. If the game continues, nation after nation coming across with ideas for the adornment of a palace of great beauty, an international clearing house to clear up the atmosphere, Uncle Sam might step up and say: "Well, as long as it has gone this far, I'll offer——"

"What?" they will gasp in unison.

"The way out," Uncle Sam will say.

"Is that all?"

"No! For the smaller nations, that have everything to lose and nothing to gain, Elbow Room—with hat-checking privileges."

Leaking Gasoline Burns Truckman

Flames Enveloping Robert Atkins Smothered by Bystanders.

Gasoline leaking from the broken line of a truck he was attempting to repair ignited last night and set fire to the clothing of Robert Atkins, 24 years old, colored, of 820 Twenty-fifth street northwest, burning him seriously. The fire was smothered by two bystanders before the fire rescue squad reached the scene, but the man's clothing was burned from his body.

Atkins was under a truck of Patrick Battista, a hauling contractor, of 165 Uhland terrace northeast, attempting to repair the leaking gas line. The soline dripped over his clothing as he worked and when the fire started Atkins became a torch. He rolled from under the truck. Battista and another man seized a piece of canvas and wrapped it around Atkins' body. Firemen extinguished the blaze in the truck which was parked at Pennsylvania avenue and Ninth street.

Victim of Piscataway Accident Is Identified

A colored man who was brought into Providence Hospital early yesterday morning from an automobile accident near Piscataway, Md., dying an hour later, was identified yesterday afternoon as Ernest Johnson, 25 years old, of 407 Florida avenue northwest.

Johnson suffered a crushed skull when a taxi in which he was a passenger overturned after skidding. The driver of the cab, James Campbell, colored, 20 years old, of 1768 Willard street northwest, said he was hired by a colored woman and two men to drive to the Maryland town. The woman and other man disappeared after the accident.

Neidecker approached the representatives of the Grands Moulins de Paris, one of the largest millers on the continent, and also was in contact with Premier Laval, Minister of Agriculture Andre Tardieu and others in the course of the negotiations.

He also had the cooperation of American Department of Commerce representatives, and, after telephone conversations with the chairman of the Grain Stabilization Board in Chicago, George S. Milnor, it was decided that France would buy the grain if Laval approves the plan.

It was believed the French buyers would pay cash, and that the wheat would enter France duty free, being shipped from America as required by French millers. France needs wheat imports of 50,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels for the year ending August 1, 1932. It was considered significant that imports of United States wheat in the first eight months of 1931 was triple the imports in the same period of 1930.

Man Held on Theft Of $4,000 in Trunk

Clyde Wood Arrested Here in Maryland Robbery; $820 Found.

Headquarters Detectives Thomas Nalley and L. M. Wilson yesterday arrested Clyde Wood, 28 years old, 223 Fourteenth street northwest, on a wararnt from Charles County, Md., charging Wood with being a party to the theft of the $4,000 trunk hoard of A. A. Penn, elderly farmer, of near La Plata, in the nearby county.

Eight hundred and twenty dollars of the money was recovered, part under a mattress at the Fourteenth street adress, according to the detectives, the remainder being found on Wood's person. Wood claimed he was keeping the money for a relative by marirage, who is also being held by La Plata authorities. Wood was booked as a fugitive from justice, and held for Sheriff Robert V. Cooksey, of La Plata.

Details of the theft were not available last night, but it was believed the thieves had executed the robbery while Mr. Penn was absent from his abode on September 25.

Man Pushing Motorcar, Out of Gas, Is Killed

Junius Arrington, colored, 38 years old, of Baltimore, was instantly killed last night when a truck struck the automobile he was pushing along the Baltimore boulevard between Muirkirk and Beltsville. According to police, the car in which Arrington was riding ran out of gas. The colored man then attempted to push it to a gas station.

William C. Lane, also of Baltimore, and said by police to have been driver of the truck, was released after an investigation.

Planes Are Asked In Smuggling Plot

Federal Chief Says Entry Into U. S. by Detroit Can Be Blocked.

Detroit, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Murray W. Garsson, chief of the Immigration Department Intelligence Division, said today he would recommend establishment here of a fleet of Government planes to combat airplanes smuggling Chinese from Windsor, Ont., to Midwestern cities.

After visits to Windsor, in company with local immigration officers, Garsson said he was convinced Windsor is headquarters for a band of smugglers trafficking in Chinese. He had a number of seized account books, in Chinese, containing maps which, he said, exposed the operations of one member of the smuggling ring. This man, Garsson said, believing himself safe from arrest in Canada, talked freely about operations of the ring.

Garsson quoted him as saying that 50 and 60 aliens a day, of all nationalities, have been smuggled into the United States by airplane or speedboat since 1928.

Paraguay President Forms New Cabinet

Asuncion, Paraguay, Oct. 27 (A.P.). Provisional President Gonzalez Navero formed a new cabinet today to continue the Liberal party's administration of Paraguay, retaining Foreign Minister Zubizarreta and Minister of Justice Gonzalez.

Maj. Gray, chief of the Asuncion garrison, issued a communique saying the army had quelled the rebellion that caused President Guggiari's resignation and that normal business life would resume.

A number of the insurgent leaders were under detention and troops still occupied the city.

GERMANY EXPECTS WAR DEBT REVISION

Foreign Office Anticipates Reexamination of Reparations.

Berlin, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The German foreign office expects that when Premier Pierre Laval returns to France he will inaugurate with American support what will turn out to be a reexamination of war debts as well as reparations.

This expectation, it is understood, is based in part at least on reports received by the foreign office from Dr. Friedrich Wilhelm von Prittwitz-Gaffron, Germany's Ambassador at Washington, covering the conference between President Hoover and the French premier. M. Laval now is homeward bound on the Ile de France.

The ambassador's reports, it was said, have enabled the German leaders to see more clearly what is expected of them by the premier and the President.

Will Ask Authorization.

"What will probably happen," said the foreign office spokesman, "is this: M. Laval will ask authorization from the French Cabinet to suggest to Germany that she take the initiative and ask for the appointment of a special committee from the Bank of International Settlements as provided in the Young plan.

"M. Laval's suggestion will be seconded by the American Government.

"This committee will probably soon find that the reparations question can not be settled without also tackling war debts, so that Germany's action will logically lead to a discussion of the interallied debts."

It was learned yesterday at the French foreign office that Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, acting on the joint statement issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval at the conclusion of their talks, would lose no time entering into negotiations on the reparations question.

Trip of Grandi.

In diplomatic circles here the most hopeful aspect of the present situation is seen in the forthcoming Washington trip of Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, who has been visiting the German chancellor.

Signor Grandi has declined for reasons of tact to comment on M. Laval's American trip or the situation created by the Hoover-Laval conversations. But those who had occasion to meet him during his Berlin visit see in him a representative of the Europe which like the United States is anxious to forget the war and to rebuild on the basis of mutual trust, reduction of armaments and the elimination of everything calculated to keep war memories alive.

From what he saw in Germany, Signor Grandi is said to be convinced that there is no time to lose if Europe is to avoid being shaken to its foundations.

Signor Grandi entrained for Rome late tonight. Chancellor Bruening and officials of the foreign office were at the station to see him off.

WISCONSIN PLANS SPEAKERSHIP BOLT

rule" by the regular party leaders which members of the faction considered responsible for defeat of Progressive measures.

(Associated Press.)

An ultimatum of Wisconsin Progressives that their legislative program must be considered or they will bolt the Republicans in House organization yesterday attracted attention on Capitol Hill.

The notification, however, given by the Independents in a Madison newspaper, the Capital Times, and demanding consideration of their demands for unemployment and agricultural relief, drew little comment.

Representative Christgau (Independent Republican), Minnesota, said by mutual agreement the Independents planned to meet in Washington shortly before Congress convenes December 7 to determine what course will be taken on House organization and legislative matters. He said he had not heard of the Madison meeting, to which other Independents were invited.

Schafer Says "Usual Bunk."

None of those, the Capital Times said, were to be invited is in Washington, and other than Christgau no House Independents could be located.

Representative Schafer (regular Republican), Wisconsin, said: "It is the usual Progressive bunk." He added that the "Wisconsin Progressives have been scared into the conference."

More than a dozen Independents bolted the Republican caucus last February when Nicholas Longworth was renominated for Speaker.

Josette Laval Lists U. S. Things She Likes

Aboard the S. S. Isle de France, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—While homeward bound to France today Mlle. Josette Laval listed the things she liked best in America, as follows:

(1) The New York skyline.

(2) The luxury of the shops.

(3) Warm bedrooms, ice water and chicken gumbo.

(4) The simplicity of the interior of the White House.

(5) The cosmopolitan atmosphere of Washington.

(6) Cherrystone clams.

(7) The automobiles and the way their drivers stop at red lights.

American women did not disappoint the premier's daughter, and she said they lived up to their reputation for being beautiful and graceful. But she would not say that American women were more beautiful than the Parisians. She found, however, that they have excellent taste in clothes.

RAILROAD REVISION IS URGED BY DUNN

Through Discrimination, He Charges, Lines Are Depressed.

Readjustment of transportation facilities, through abolition of "Government discrimination" and observance of "equality of opportunity," yesterday was urged by Samuel L. Dunn, editor of Railway Age, before the Society of Automotive Engineers, meeting at the Shoreham Hotel.

Through discrimination, he charged, railroads are being depressed, and expansion of other means of transportation artificially stimulated. Prevailing government policies should be changed to subject all classes of carriers to comparable regulation of services and rates.

He predicted that in the end "railways will again become almost the sole long-haul inland carriers of the country; that the trucks will retain and increase their terminal and short-haul business, and that coordinated rail-truck service will carry a large and increasing amount of traffic from the door of the shipper to the door of the consignee.

Pierre Schon, sales engineer of the General Motors Truck Co., also addressed the society. He declared millions of dollars of present equipment may be obsoleted if the tendency for shrinking sizes and weights of commercial vehicles, through State legislation, continues.

T. L. Preble, of the S. P. A. Truck Corporation, discussed problems of the motor transportation executive. Last night the engineers inspected the Washington Railway & Electric Co., led by R. D. Voshall, superintendent of equipment. President Hoover will receive the delegates at the White House at noon today.

CASTAWAYS LIVED SIX MONTHS ON ISLE

who today, clad only in loin cloths, plunged into the surf to swim to a launch from the rescue ship off shore.

Details of the marooned men's existence during the past half year which Defoe would have welcomed for a sequel to his famed "Robinson Crusoe" were forwarded to the Navy Department tonight by Rear Admiral N. E. Irwin, commandant of the Canal Zone naval district.

He relayed a message from Commander G. H. Bowdey, commanding officer of the Sacramento, which saved Paul Stachwick, Huron, S. Dak.; Gordon Brawner, Springfield, Ill., and Earl Pallister, of San Diego. They had gained the island from the wrecked yawl West Wind, of San Diego, and were long thought to have perished with her.

The Sacramento had sped to their rescue after Julius Fleischmann, former Mayor of Cincinnati, cruising in the South Seas, had reported Saturday he had found the wreck of the yawl. He also found a note from the men indicating they had been alive 48 hours earlier. His yacht, Camargo, stood by and her men aided in the search.

It remained for the Sacramento, however, to sight the three castaways on the south coast of the small island.

Commander Bowdey reported: "The Sacramento searched in vicinity dam pier head and saw men on beach. Sent motor launch towing whaleboat. Landing probably impracticable, but men swam through surf out to boat.

"Men in apparently excellent physical condition.

"Living on cocoanuts, fish and wild pig. No clothing except loin cloth. Had saved some guns, fishing gear and other articles from wreck of vessel."

Following the rescue, the yacht proceeded on its cruise and the Sacramento began the return trip to its anchorage at Balboa, Canal Zone.

LEAGUE'S ARMS CUT PLAN FAVORED HERE

U.S. Acceptance Expected to Be Forwarded This Week; Grandi Due Soon.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States will transmit some time before November 1 American approval and edherence to a proposal from the League of Nations providing for a one year's arms truce, beginning with that date.

This twelve months armament holiday was originally proposed by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, who will be the guest of the United States here at the end of this month. The Italian arms suggestion was, however, subject to some criticism and it was subsequently revised at the request of other nations present at the league assembly this fall.

Under the present form of the proposal, Secretary Stimson and President Hoover are both known to be in sympathy with the plan. They believe it will be perhaps the best factor for creating a favorable atmosphere in international relations before the opening of the general disarmament conference, tentatively scheduled to open at Geneva on February 2, 1932.

The scope of the arms truce would extend to all classes of armament, military expenditures, naval expenditures and additional aircraft construction.

The United States would be affected in its naval building program. Under authorization of 1916 the United States was to build a fleet of eleven destroyers. This quota was held up by the war, but five of the ships provided for were constructed.

The arms truce would directly affect the construction of the remaining six ships, which were estimated to cost from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000. The agreement specifically provides that "vessels under construction might be continued and completed, but no new warships should be placed on the stocks." The completion of what is left of the Navy's building program will, therefore, not be affected by the truce, so far as the ships already under way is concerned.

American participation in the league arms holiday will not interfere with current appropriation for the United States Army.

The Army is at the present time embarking on no new expansion, and hence any American affirmative reply to the league's proposal will not affect it.

The subject of arms reduction will play an important part in the discussions between President Hoover, Secretary Stimson and Foreign Minister Grandi. Mussolini is known to be extremely anxious for American support on his arms reduction program. The Hoover-Laval conversations accomplished nothing conspicuous in this regard, although some kind of aspiration for budgetary reductions of military appropriations was common to both. The French could not see their way clear to agreeing on any kind of armament reduction as long as the United States could not agree to some kind of consultative or security pact.

Foreign Minister Grandi has very definite ideas on the subject of world disarmament and because of their harmony with the ideas of the President on disarmament and reduction of the "crushing burdens of military expenditures," some form of common agreement between the United States and Italy in anticipation of the Geneva conference is being eagerly sought after by the Italian government.

The Italian government, with huge sums spent on industrial and hydro-electric improvement throughout the Italian peninsula, has been sorely tried in its endeavor to keep up with the French lead in armament construction. Construction of strategic railroad lines along the Franco-Italian front has cut deeply into the budgets of both countries, but France has been able to bear it better on account of its huge gold resources.

Rammed ShipSinks As Crew Is Saved

City of Stamford Goes to Bottom in Collision at New York.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Amid a bedlam of whistles and sirens, 24 members of the crew of the City of Stamford, a coastwise freighter, were rescued by three other vessels before the ship sank in the East Channel off Welfare Island today.

The City of Stamford, plying from Bridgeport and Stamford with freight, apparently split in two after striking a sand scow, rescuers said. Capt. Robert Sherman was among the last to leave. He was removed by a tug after a launch, the Thomas Martin, and tug Ellen Roman had taken off others of the crew.

Ten minutes later only the pilot house and funnel were visible, but the Thomas Martin, Ellen Roman and another tug had the crew safely aboard.

LAVAL HAS VISIONS OF CHANGED EUROPE

political disarmament. The governments must look beyond their frontiers for the common good."

Laval, who is expected to act before December to establish contact with other European powers for the purpose of putting cooperative plans into effect, disclosed that he had invited President Hoover and Senator Borah to visit France, although he does not actually expect either statesman to be able to accept the invitation.

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Evening Star said editorially today that the Hoover-Laval conversations in Washington have increased the task facing the British government.

"The government we are electing today is faced with tremendous problems," the newspaper said. "At the last moment a huge addition has been thrown upon its work bench by the defection of President Hoover.

"That much-boomed man, at a meeting with the French premier which might have set the world moving toward international common sense, seems to have made an arrangement about money and to have left France with a free hand to work her will in Europe.

"That means a bigger job for Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and the men returned to power with him. It is the kind of work in which Mr. MacDonald will shine and in which he has done so well before."

Defense in Trunk Murder Plans to Fight Extradition

Los Angeles, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Winnie Ruth Judd murder case shifted today to a fight over extradition papers to send the confessed killer of two women back to Phoenix, Ariz., for trial.

Counsel for Mrs. Judd, declaring the papers, which were signed last week by Gov. George W. P. Hunt of Arizona, were of faulty legal construction, announced the intention of forcing a court review of the documents through a writ of habeas corpus.

On the heels of this declaration came a statement from the California attorney general's office that the papers had been presented by Sheriff James R. McFadden, of Phoenix, and found complete. Governor Ralph signed the papers late today.

If granted, the writ proposed by the defense will force a court here to permit argument on the legality of the papers. The writ will supersede a similar action filed upon the surrender of Mrs. Judd last Friday night.

Counsel did not disclose what objection will be made, but it was anticipated that the brief description in the extradition papers of the killing of the victime, Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Le Roi, will be at least one basis for the contest.

The papers represent the time of the crime as October 16. Mrs. Judd has said it was October 17.

The announcement of the defense was an about-face of the position taken last night when counsel said extradition would not be opposed.

Meanwhile, the principal investigation of the crime went forward in Phoenix in a search for evidence to break down an anticipated plea of self-defense and insanity. Mrs. Judd has claimed she shot the women when they attacked her in a quarrel over a man.

Jail attaches here said they understood she has been examined by a psychiatrist and that she told him a member of her family had died in an insane asylum.

Additional legal difficulties affecting Dr. W. C. Judd, her husband, came to a head today when he surrendered to a warrant charging the practice of medicine in California without a license. He was released on bail of $1,000 and a hearing was set for October 29. The complaint alleged he treated patients in a clinic.

HOOVER'S POOL CASH ALMOST SUBSCRIBED

$500,000,000 for Aiding Banks Expected to Be Ready This Week.

(Associated Press.)

With subscriptions pouring in, President Hoover's big credit pool will be ready by the end of the week to begin its task of providing ready cash for banks unable to turn their assets quickly into currency.

The President has been informed that the $500,000,000 fund will be subscribed by that time and that soon afterward its actual operation will begin.

This was revealed yesterday simultaneous with a disclosure that although it had made some inquiries into the subject the administration is contemplating no action at present to give special aid to the holders of railroad bonds.

Some officials have felt it might be possible, under Government leadership, to help weak railroads out of trouble and avoid any further receiverships. It was the belief that such a step, if it proved feasible, would have a good effect on conditions generally, since such institutions as savings banks and insurance companies are heavy holders of railway securities.

One proposal put up to the Government was for thhe mobilization of a special pool by private bankers and others, out of which financial aid could be extended to the roads needing it. After inquiry, however, this was found to present many difficulties.

At the present time, all preparations of this character have been put into the background. In any case, the administration would not act while another branch of the Government, the Interstate Commerce Commission, has pending before the roads of the country a proposal to help earnings through pooling revenue from a special schedule of rate increases.

The President's credit pool, subscribed by private bankers, is intended to improve the position of the banks by enabling them to rediscount securities ineligible for such action by the Federal reserve system. Through it they will be enabled to obtain cash on paper heretofore unnegotiable and classed as frozen assets.

Mr. Hoover received reports on the progress of the pool Sunday morning at breakfast from George Reynolds, of Chicago, its chairman and from Mortimer N. Buckner, of New York, its president. They told him the project was receiving almost unanimous support throughout the banking world, and already had served to increase confidence.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 88

IN the "old days" before Andrew Volstead reduced the liquor equation to one-half of 1 per cent, this was what greeted the eye of the traveler leaving the old Baltimore & Potomac depot by the main B street door.

In case you can't quite make out the signs emblazoned across two of the buildings, they are advertisements for "Oronoco Rye" and "Braddock Maryland Rye," two brands presumably popular in those days.

The building on the right of the picture is the rear of the Howard House. Moored at the curb on the left is one of the brewer's big horses.

Contrasting with this forgotten byway is the vista that now awaits the traveler leaving Union Station by the main entrance. An area more arid than the eighteenth amendment, marking the site where the Government's war hotels formerly stood, extends south to the Capitol.

VERDICT ON CAPONE KEEPS HIM IN CELL

Chicago, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—"Scarface Al" Capone was given a temporary choice of prisons today, but not his freedom.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals granted the gangster income tax dodger a writ of supersedeas, thus denying the marshal the immediate privilege of escorting him to the Leavenworth Penitentiary, but it followed the lead of the trial judge in denying Capone bail during his appeal.

This gave the gang chief the status of a temporary prisoner in the Cook County Jail, with the prospect of remaining there several months while the higher courts were asked to reverse his conviction. Defense Attorney Michael Ahern indicated this was far from satisfactory to his client.

Gains No Freedom.

He might want the court to vacate its order, so that Capone could start his term at Leavenworth, Ahern said. Judge Samuel Alschuler, replying for the court, said in effect that it made no difference which prison contained Capone, just so long as he was not at large.

The county jail has its advantages. There Capone was close to home, his old friend and companion, Philip D'Andrea was with him, and no manual labor was required. One big drawback, however, was that every day he spent there was just so much wasted time as far as his 11-year sentence was concerned.

Life at the Leavenworth Prison has been represented as somewhat rigorous, the privileges few. Some of Capone's former henchmen were there.

But if he decided to go there now, Capone could begin working off his sentence at once. If his conviction were upheld he would have that much less "time to do." If his conviction were reversed he would have merely changed prisons.

The problem was one which Ahern did not want to decide alone. On the court's assurance that the supersedeas order could be vacated at any time, Ahern went to confer with Capone and Albert Fink, another defense attorney. He might go to Washington and try to get a Supreme Court justice to grant Capone bail, Ahern said.

Appeal Docketed.

The defense has already docketed the appeal and may file its brief at any time. The Government was ordered to file its brief fifteen days after Capone's brief had been filed.

Philip D'Andrea, Alphonse Capone's companion and bodyguard, occupying the next cell to him, asked the mercy of the court today, admitted he carried a loaded pistol into the courtroom during the Capone income tax trial, but said he had no intention of obstructing justice.

Attorney Michael Ahern said that there was no dispute of the facts—D'Andrea had the pistol in the courtroom. D'Andrea took the witness stand, one of the few gangsters ever to testify in a Chicago court.

TWIN TORCH KILLING LAID TO BENEFICIARY

W. Woolfenden Is Charged With Murder of G. Miller and Wife in Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Oct. 27.—Charged by the Commonwealth with feloniously murdering Goodwin Miller and his wife, Virginia, on September 25, Walter Woolfenden, who had just been ordered held for the grand jury on a chicken-stealing charge, with bail fixed at $1,000, was remanded to jail today, without bond, to be held for a preliminary hearing on November 5.

The charge climaxed the hearing of a chicken-stealing charge, which was lodged against Woolfenden last week, when J. M. Shelton, of near Woodbridge, reported that he had shot a man early Friday, October 16, who was making away with some of his chickens. The fact that Woolfenden was treated by a physician in Middlesex County for gunshot wounds in the thigh and hand and was unable to give his whereabouts on the night of the chicken stealing, brought about his arrest on that charge.

Justice Thomas H. Cobb, before whom the preliminary hearing was held this morning, had just ordered Woolfenden held for action of the grand jury, and upon application of his counsel had fixed the bail at $1,000, when Thomas H. Lion, Commonwealth's attorney, directly charged Woolfenden with the murder of the Millers, and he was ordered held.

The Commonwealth brought the charge on the theory that Woolfenden, as beneficiary of an insurance policy on the life of Goodwin Miller, had deliberately murdered him, had killed or knocked Mrs. Miller into insensibility, and had then deliberately fired the home to make it appear that they had met their deaths in the conflagration. The infant son of the Millers also perished in the flames.

The burning of the bodies was discovered late in the evening of September 25, although it is believed that the fire occurred in the early morning, as Miller's watch and clocks in the house had stopped at or near 2:30, and it is felt certain that a daytime fire would have been seen by some one living in the Kopp section.

The section in which Woolfenden and the Millers lived is sparsely settled and neighbors are far apart and that a fire could occur at night without the knowledge of any one in the vicinity is believed fully possible.

Thomas H. Lion, Commonwealth's attorney, will handle the prosecution, while T. E. Didlake, of Manassas, and Fred J. Flynn, of Alexandria, are associated in Woolfenden's behalf.

Davison Unhurt In Plane Mishap

Craft Skids in Emergency Descent After Landing Wheels Jam.

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison narrowly escaped injury today when the retractable landing wheels of an Army plane in which he was riding jammed in midair and the ship skidded in an emergency descent on its fuselage.

Davison, who is in charge of Army aeronautics, flew from Bolling Field, Washington, as a passenger with Lieut. Quesada. As they soared into the sky, the pilot drew in the plane's landing wheels to give it more speed. When they approached Mitchel Field and tried to let the wheels down again, they refused to respond to his hand pump.

Circling several times, Lieut. Quesada tried again and again to force the landing gear into place, but it was hopelessly stuck. He turned to Davison and asked whether he thought they had better abandon the ship and make a parachute jump. The Assistant Secretary of War said he thought they ought to try to save the ship if possible. The pilot glided the plane to the field in a "fish-tail" landing to slow its speed. It skidded, injuring little more than a propeller. Neither man was injured.

La Fontaine Offers to Pay Income Tax, Says Report

United States Attorney Sobeloff in Baltimore Is Silent Over Story District Man Offered to Make $100,000 Settlement.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27.—An offer of $100,000 in settlement of income tax payments in reported to have been made Federal officials by Representatives of James (Jimmy) C. La Fontaine, whose income has been under the scrutiny of agents of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for some time.

Simon E. Sobeloff, United States Attorney, yesterday declined either to confirm or deny that such an offer had been made, nor would he indicate whether or not it would be accepted if it were tendered.

A conference relative to the case was held October 10, in Mr. Sobeloff's office, but the latter at that time refused to discuss it or name those who attended, although it was understood at the time that officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau were there as well as representatives of La Fontaine.

Agents for the Bureau have been working on the matter for some months and there was talk yesterday in Federal court circles of the possibility of the matter being shortly presented to the United States grand jury.

Mr. Cobeloff likewise declined to comment on this angle of the matter. He admitted, however, that the matter had been taken up with him, but refused to divulge whether or not any action was being contemplated by the Government at this time.

La Fontaine's place, on the Bladensburg road, near the District of Columbia line, has long been known to the sporting element of Washington, and the East.

La Fontaine was indicted several years ago in Prince Georges County on a charge of setting up a gaming table, but the case never came to trial. Another similar charge was dropped in 1929 when the complainant failed to appear.

Andre de Coppet Weds Mrs. Muriel Belasco

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Andre de Coppet, broker, who was joint owner of the speed airplane formerly flown by James Goodwin Hall, and Mrs. Muriel Belasco, former wife of a nephew of the late David Belasco, were married yesterday at the home of friends near Philadelphia, it was announced today.

De Coppet owned, with Hall, the plane which crashed on Staten Island September 21, killing Peter J. Brady, banker and labor leader, who was a passenger, and a woman on whose home the wreck fell.

Hinkler Claims Record As He Lands in Jamaica

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—A distance record for the type of small plane he used was claimed today for H. J. L. ("Bert") Hinkler, noted Australian aviator, who flew from North Beach Airport here to Kingston, Jamaica, in eighteen hours.

Hinkler unexpectedly took off from the Long Island Airport about 2 p. m. yesterday and landed in Kingston this morning, a journey in excess of 1,500 miles.

Percy MacKaye Writes Washington FolkMasque

(Associated Press.)

Percy MacKaye, American dramatist and poet, has written a folk masque to be used in the bicentennial celebration next year of George Washington's birthday.

Representative Bloom, of New York, and an associate director of the precentennial commission, said yesterday the initial showing would be in Washington on the eve of Washington's next birthday anniversary.

Governors Hold Parley As Idle Shout Demands

Portland, Oreg., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Western State governors, or their representatives, discussed silver, copper and unemployment today while a crowd of unemployed outside the hotel meeting place shouted and waved banners demanding the "release of Mooney and Billings," "payment of bonuses in full," "repeal of criminal syndicalism act" and "release of Harlan, Ky., Negroes."

Arbiter Is Named In Merger Battle

John T. Scott of Clevelnad Accepts Appointment to Settle Costs.

Cleveland, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Attorney John T. Scott, of Cleveland, accepted an appointment today as arbitrator of the court costs in the defeated merger case of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Harry Crawford, attorney for the merger opponents, who announced the selection of Scott, said he met with favor of both sides in the dispute and that approval by the court of the choice was assured.

The first hearing on the question of costs will be held next Tuesday in Cleveland.

AN ENTRANCE THAT REFLECTS PRESTIGE

DRIVING through the elaborate landscaped entrance court to the porte cochere at The Kennedy-Warren, one is impressed by the charm of the unusual entrance, which sets the keynote for the atmosphere throughout the building.

The spacious lobby and lounges are decorated and furnished in the excellent taste that you would naturally expect. In these luxuriously beautiful surroundings your guests will be received with the same courteous attention that would prevail in your own home. The high-speed passenger elevators, equipped to give the most efficient service now available, will take them rapidly to the floor of your apartment.

The public dining room also affords a delightful place to entertain your friends—a small group may be served at a specially reserved table in the main room or a private room may be used for a larger luncheon or dinner party.

The character of your neighbors, those who share the privileges and advantages of gracious living in Washington's newest and largest apartment, is insured by rigid requirements of social fitness. It is the aim of the owners, who have built and will retain the building as an investment, to adhere to these policies.

May we invite you to visit The Kennedy-Warren today, that you may see for yourself the reasons why the gardens, entrance, lobby, lounges and the building itself lend prestige to your apartment home.

$1 DIVIDEND VOTED ON STEEL COMMON

Directors Show Confidence in Future by Dipping Into Company's Surplus.

New York, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—United States Steel Corporation is bullish on future business, it was indicated today when America's largest industrial organization declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, despite the fact that earnings so far this year have not even covered dividend requirements on the preferred stock.

To make this payment and that of $1.25 a share on the preferred stock, the Steel Corporation will have to dip into its surplus to the extent of $11,822,371.

Steel's action was a welcome influence offsetting a depressing run of steel company earnings reports that came into the financial district today. Three other units of the industry reported sharply decreased earnings, with no outstanding dividend actions as an antidote.

$7,160,966 Special Income.

Net profit of the U. S. Steel Corporation for the third quarter was reported at $3,187,131, after all charges and taxes were deducted. This included, however, special income of $7,160,966, and it amounted to only 88 cents a share on the preferred stock, on which there is a quarterly dividend requirement of $1.75.

This return compared with a net profit, including special income, of $7,391,355 in the third quarter, equal to 12 cents a share on 8,701,371 common shares and with $24,195,162, including special income, in the third quarter of 1930.

Earnings decreased steadily in the three months of the third quarter, the report showed, totaling $3,651,751 in July, $22,960,293 in August and $2,559,047 in September. For the nine months ended September 30, the corporation reported net profit of $17,343,543, including special income, which was equal to $4.81 a share on 3,602,811 preferred shares, compared with $92,099,686, or $8.44 a common share in the first nine months of 1930.

The common dividend which three months ago was cut from $7 to $4 annually, was declared payable December 30 to stock of record December 1. The dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred was declared payable November 28 to stock of record November 2.

Another Declares Dividend.

Another steel company that declared a regular quarterly dividend in the face of sharply curtailed earnings today was the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, which voted the quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred, payable January 1 to stock of record December 11.

Mine Probe Urged On Senator Borah

Dreiser Asks Idahoan to Bring Inquiry Before Congress in Session.

(Associated Press.)

Theodore Dreiser yesterday carried his appeal for an investigation of labor conditions in the mines of Harlan County, Ky., to Senator Borah.

As chairman of the national committee for defense of political prisoners, he wrote to the senator asking him to sponsor a congressional inquiry. The author charged a "reign of terror" was in progress. Borah took the proposal under advisement. Dreiser said "hand-picked grand juries" were indicting the miners and that "wholesale convictions" were resulting. He said "thugs" were being imported to aid the sheriffs in "sustaining terror."

Farm Leaders Confer On Marketing Statute

(Associated Press.)

A delegation of Midwestern American Farm Bureau Federation leaders conferred with the Farm Board yesterday on means of cooperating to preserve the agricultural marketing act.

Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the federation, said later that it was purely a general discussion with no conclusions reached. Those in the delegation besides Gray were Charles E. Hearst, president of the Iowa State bureau; W. H. Settle, president of the Indiana bureau; A. L. Olson, head of the Minnesota bureau, and M. D. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio bureau.

Cooper Forecasts Ohio Will Elect Republican

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday received from Myers Y. Cooper, former Governor of Ohio, a forecast that a Republican representative would be returned by the election next week to fill the vacancy left by the death of Speaker Longworth.

Cooper said he had chatted with the President on other subjects, but declined to discuss them.

Former Presidents Cited On Islands' Liberty Views

(Associated Press).

The assertions of former Presidents on the question of Philippine independence, alluded to yesterday by President Hoover, were as follows:

McKinley: "The Philippines are ours, not to exploit but to develop, to civilize, to educate, to train in the science of self-government."

Roosevelt: "The islands should at an early moment be given their independence without any guaranty whatever by us and without our retaining any foothold in them."

Taft, in commenting in 1908 on a Democratic platform advocating independence: "It is an affirmation of a policy only very slightly different from that repeatedly announced by this and preceding Republican administrations."

Wilson, in 1913: "We must hold steadily in view their (the Philippines) ultimate independence."

Harding: "No backward step is contemplated. At this time it is not for me to suggest the day distant or near (for independence)."

Coolidge: "Although they have made wonderful advances in the last quarter century, the Filipino people are by no means equipped, either in wealth or experience, to undertake the heavy burden which would be imposed upon them by political independence."

FILIPINOS CALLED NOT READY FOR FULL FREEDOM AS YET

This gives the islands a tremendous advantage, and is largely responsible for their comparative prosperity.

The question in the minds of President Hoover, Secretary of War Hurley and others who have studied the situation is: What would happen if the Philippines should suddenly assume the status of a foreign power and thus, by losing their advantage of sending products here duty free, should suffer a big falling off in their export trade?

That is what the President must have in mind when he says that immediate independence "would result in the collapse of the Philippine government revenues and the collapse of all economic life in the islands."

Must Work Out Plan.

The task of the President, if he does in fact have in mind some plan for making the islands self-sufficient, is to work out a scheme whereby the Philippines can get by without depending on the advantages that now accrue to them as a result of being a territory of the United States.

The full statement of the President yesterday follows:

"With Secretary Hurley's return, the Cabinet this morning discussed the Philippine question at considerable length. We explored the subject, but formulated no conclusive policies in the matter. These discussions will be continued.

"Independence of the Philippines at some time has been directly or indirectly promised by every President and by the Congress. In accord with those undertakings, the problem is one of time. In the interest of the Philippine people, the time element involves the necessity that independence must be assured of durability and the government of the Philippines must be assured of stability.

"For instance, the economic independence of the Philippines must be attained before political independence can be successful. Independence tomorrow without assured economic stability would result in the collapse of Philippine government revenues and the collapse of all economic life in the islands. We propose to give further consideration to the whole question during the immediate future."

Quezon Offers Program.

With the return here of Secretary of War Hurley, Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, offered a three-ply program for independence. It was cabled here from Manila by the Associated Press.

First, he would have the United States grant immediate independence to the islands, after allowing the islands to continue to export their products here duty free for ten years, but limiting sugar and coconut oil exports. Also, he would be agreeable to the restriction of Filipino immigration to this country.

Second, he would have the same trade and migration agreements, and would have the United States continue to maintain sovereignty over the Philippines for ten years, with the understanding that the islands would have greater autonomy in that period, and at the end of that period would hold a plebiscite to determine whether the Filipinos really wanted independence or wanted to continue under the American flag.

Third, he would have the United States offer the Philippines independence in any form.

The Quezon program, considering the first two alternatives, sounds vastly different from the arguments that have been made here by Pedro Guevara and Camilo Osias, the resident commissioners from the Philippines.

Advantages Are Pointed Out.

These two men have been advocating independence at any price. At the conference of Progressives, Mr. Osias even pointed to the advantages that would accrue to American agriculture—that is the beet sugar growers and the Midwestern dairy farmers—if the Philippines were given their independence.

"We would gladly relinquish the present and temporary tariff advantages that we enjoy in the American market," he said, "provided we are granted immediately our independence."

Yesterday Commissioner Guevara said that the Hoover administration should come out with "a definite program regarding the islands."

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, chairman of the Senate territories committee, said yesterday that undoubtedly Congress would pass some kind of independence legislation at the next session.

Secretary of War Hurley is expected to submit a report to the President shortly on the results of his visit to the Philippines, and the President is expected to make some sort of recommendation with regard to Philippine independence in his message to Congress.

Honors to Mark Higginson Burial

Retired Admiral Will Be Accorded Ceremonies at Arlington.

Survivor of the battleship Housatonic, which was blown up at Charlestown, S. C., in the Civil War, Rear Admiral Francis Jonn Higginson, retired, will be buried at Arlington Cemetery with full military ceremony at 11 o'clock this morning. Admiral Higginson died September 12 at his home in Kingston, N. Y. He was 88 years old.

A graduate of the Naval Academy, he served with distinction throughout the Civil and Spanish Wars. From 1901 until 1903 he was commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet. His last assignment before being retired was as commandant of the Washington Navy Yard.

Admiral Higginson was commended for eminent and conspicuous conduct in the Spanish War. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. F. J. Higginson.

Hardell to Attend Convention.

John W. Hardell, manager of the structural steel department of Barber & Ross, Inc., with Mrs. Hardell and Mrs. Harry Blake, left yesterday to attend the ninth annual convention of the American Institute of Steel Construction at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Mr. Blake, president of the firm, will join them later.

USE OF GOLD SEEN TO END DEPRESSION

Economists at Convention in New York Propose Financial System.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—That the United States can put an end to its own economic troubles and greatly ameliorate the financial ills of the rest of the world by putting its huge stores of gold to work, was the opinion expressed by noted economists at a dinner of the American Statistical Association held tonight at the Aldine Club.

Speakers on the subject of "The Price Level Slumps of 1920 and 1931—What Caused Them?" agreed that "The gold standard has not failed; it is administration that has failed." Some urged that the country's supply of gold "must be diverted from bolstering our overstuffed dollar" and used to back an expansion of credit by the Federal Reserve.

Noted Financiers.

E. W. Kemmerer, professor of international finance at Princeton University and economic adviser to several governments; Carl W. Snyder, statistician of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale University, and Lionel D. Edie, former professor of economics at the University of Chicago, were among the principal speakers.

Prof. Kemmerer said that current explanations of the present depression as being caused in whole or in part by abnormal gold movements are erroneous. He contended that if the Nation's yellow metal were properly put to work conditions would quickly change.

"Whatever may be the explanation of this last great and sharp decline in commodity prices," said he, "it is not, in my judgment, to be found in a decline in the world's gold production.

"Mr. Snyder's valuable study of the physical volume of production covering the principal advanced countries of the world shows for the period 1865 to the present time an annual average rate of increase (geometrical) of about 3 per cent for the world and of about 4 per cent for the United States.

Supply of Gold.

"According to the figures of the United States Director of the Mint, the world's stock of monetary gold in 1921 was $8,700,000,000. If this stock were increased progressively by 3 per cent a year from 1921 to the present time, it would be approximately $11,300,000,000 for 1930. This is exactly what the world's stock of monetary gold was for that year."

Prof. Kemmerer said America, on the basis of her proportionate share in the world's economic activity, should have much more gold than any other country. France, he added, had a much larger proportionate share of the world's gold than the United States.

Another Real D. A. R. Found in California

(Associated Press.)

Discovery of another of those rare persons—a "real daughter" of the American Revolution — was announced yesterday by the D. A. R.

She is Mrs. Mary Priscilla Tillman, 93 years old, of Berkeley, Calif., daughter of Sergt. Fielding Reynolds, of the South Carolina Cavalry, who enlisted in the Revolutionary War at 16. Mrs. Tillman is a widow, mother and grandmother of soldiers whose combined service covers all wars in which the United States has ever engaged, including the Indian campaigns along the frontier.

CHARLES C. GRAY DIES.

Funeral Will Be Conducted at St. Anthony's Church Friday.

Funeral services for Charles C. Gray, 82 years old, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herbert L. Smith yesterday, will be held at St. Anthony's Church, Twelfth and Lawrence streets northeast, at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning. Mr. Gray was born in Georgetown. Ten years ago he retired after 25 years in the Government mail service.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Phillip H. Jenkins, and Miss Marie Gray, and two sons, John Ross Gray and George Edward Gray, all of this city. There are seven grandchildren.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

JOHN GILBERT, speaking from London through the last issue of Sime Silverman's Variety, announces that it is his expectation that after two more pictures under his current contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer he will retire permanently from the screen.

While it is true that the talkies have not done much to perpetuate the romantic glamour that enveloped this young heart-breaker as one of the cinema's most engaging silent mimes, it is equally true that Mr. Gilbert is doing none too much to make his exit from the celluloid scene either graceful or memorable.

For example, he has had the excessively bad taste to suggest that his remaining two pictures will be "lemons," because the last two of any star always are when the producing company has no intention of taking up its option on the further services of that star.

No element of regret seems to enter into Mr. Gilbert's contemplation of his enforced retirement from a profession in which he has been an important figure for no less than seventeen years. He seems, according to Variety, to be rather glad of it—figuring, I presume, that during almost two decades of activity before the cameras he has got his; now let some of the other boys get theirs!

Joe E. Brown, First National comic, seen not so long ago—and yet it was quite a while at that—at the Earle, has finally reached Hollywood and home again, after a tour of the Middle West and East that began last July and only just now ended.

Joe evidently is taking that clause in his contract which gives him the right to have a voice in the selection of his future screen vehicles seriously. Since his return to the West Coast he has had several story conferences with First National executives on production plans for "Fireman, Save My Child," his next picture. Work is scheduled to begin on this film on November 9, under the direction of Lloyd Bacon.

Miss Katharine Cornell, who recently shattered all precedent in the theater by voluntarily paying full salaries to the members of her cast during a brief respite from the exacting demands of presenting "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" eight times a week, is reveling in the luxury of doing nothing.

After three years of almost continuous appearance on the stage, she is having a six weeks' holiday in Bermuda. She plays a little golf, a little tennis and walks a great deal, but for the most part is luxuriating in the consciousness that there is nothing else that she has to do!

And what a luxury THAT would be, no fooling!

Brian Aherne, Miss Cornell's leading man in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," has gone to see what Mexico City is like during his month and a half of vacation. Before leaving for the land of revolution and the hot tamale, Aherne promised to take the first airplane for home at the sound of the first shotgun, machine gun, howitzer, trench mortar, or what have you—if anything!

And how, I ask you, does that distinguish him from the rest of us?

That was a tactical error I made the other day in remarking upon the fallibility of tips received on the runnings of the bangtails out at Laurel.

The only tangible purpose that it seems to have served is to inspire old Spence Burke, the Bert Collyer of the Interstate Commerce Commission—or am I wrong?—to provide me with a daily grist of his pickings out at the track.

And can he pick 'em! He has selected more sure things that have finished totally blind from the mud kicked in their faces than any other handicapper that ever picked a scratched horse to win!

But you should see his illustrations—if that is what they are!

It is, of course, a lamentable circumstance that producers of stage entertainment are in the field for the money they can make.

But that is the fact.

The shrewdest producers are those who can most accurately gauge the taste of the ticket-buying public. It is for this reason that this column, from time to time, has suggested that impresarios who have been much maligned have merely taken the rap for something that the theater-going public emphatically demands.

Dirt is what I mean.

The least circumspect of the season's productions, so far, are those which have garnered greatest profits at the box office. There is, evidently, a fair public, for cleanliness and a much larger and more affluent clientele for smut.

Now then, where shall the blame be placed for the offerings that pay least heed to the proprieties—upon the producers who know where the dollars grow, or upon that obviously extensive segment of the profligate public who will gladly purchase carnality but will as surely shy away from chastity?

If you can answer this to the showman's satisfaction, your fortune is made. And so is his.

Within the next fortnight there is apt to be an announcement of major importance from one of the theaters comprising the group of seven downtown, first-run outlets for screen and stage shows.

If present plans materialize, it will restore to Washington a "wheel" of stage entertainments now barred from the Capital by lack of contractual arrangements with any national circuit of picture theaters—a deficiency that gives every indication of being speedily overcome.

So the late President Theodore Roosevelt and I decided to have our birthdays on the same date, and in view of our (sic) distinguished services to the Nation they also made it Navy Day. Yesterday, in case you hadn't noticed, was it.

There was an October 27 upon which Teddy was exactly twice as old as I was—so you can figure it out from that. Or can you?

Anyhow, today, at 24, I don't feel so different from what I did day before yesterday, at 23!

Now you tell one!

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsilitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first fickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

Mrs. ELIZABETH MILLS.

Cumberland, Md.—"My health was very much rundown before my little girl was born. I was very nervous and felt that all my strength was gone. I had headaches and would become dizzy. I lost weight as my appetite was very poor, and I hardly knew what a good night's rest was," said Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, of 213 S. Spruce St. "A friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as did our family doctor. When I was on my third bottle I felt almost normal again, I rested better, was not so nervous, enjoyed my meals and felt stronger in every way. Expectant mothers cannot take anything better."

ATTENDANCE MARK SET IN NAVY FETE

Service Establishments Open All Day to Inspection by Public.

faring routine slipped from the decks of many vessels, and the service held open house for the Nation.

Describing the "first necessity" of the country as the maintenance of a Navy so strong and so efficient that no enemy could ever attempt invasion, the President ushered in the celebration with a statement indicating confidence in the strength of the Nation's first line of defense.

At the same time, though, he said, "Ours is a force of defense, not offense." He added that the armed forces must be reduced to the lowest point consonant with security.

The four vessels at the Navy Yard, which gave landlubbers an opportunity of seeing close-up some of the Nation's fighting craft, were the light cruisers Richmond and Memphis, the destroyer Herbert, and the submarine, R-3.

An air show of stirring flights by training planes, single seaters, observation planes, autogiros—all from Anacostia field—kept the visitors looking upward throughout the afternoon.

All activities of the Navy were open, the forging and casting of guns, the catapulting of seaplanes from the decks of the two cruisers, the making of cartridge cases, the fire drill and battle practice drill on the ships.

Parachute Jump.

Visiting children and adults scrambled for rubber balls and tiny parachutes, dropped from two autogiros, which hovered above.

Five members of the personnel of the Naval Air Station jumped with parachutes from a large transport plane. An aerial smoke screen was laid across the waterfront to bring the air show to a close.

A torpedo was fired from the deck of the destroyer and throughout the day deep-sea diving exhibitions were made from the deck of the diving boat Crilley.

The sounding of colors at the main gate, while the multitude stood with bared heads, officially closed the day's events.

A large number of school children, excused from classes, took advantage of the celebration to get acquainted personally with the activities of the yard.

Many at Observatory.

At the Naval Observatory, visitors streamed in and secured a first-hand view of the scientific aspects of naval work. Last night many glimpsed through the big telescopes at the moon and myriad of stars.

Secretary Hurley addressed this communication to Secretary Adams and directed that Army craft fly the signal flags for "full dress ship."

"May Navy Day, 1931, recall to the American people the Navy Department's splendid achievement in their service and the conspicuous part it has played in defending their ideals. The Army has served beside you in peace and war, appreciates your unselfish devotion to national defense and extends best wishes for your continued success."

Commended by MacArthur.

The Army's chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, sent to Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, a message in which he commended the Navy for choosing the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt for its annual event.

Secretary Adams, himself, participated in the symbolism of the day, aiding in the dedication of the Navy's new airship, the Akron. Afterward he went to Baltimore for a dinner on board the Constitution, "Old Ironsides." He was accompanied by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, who recently criticized high naval expenses and the officers who back them, said that his Navy Day message was that the United States "has the best Navy today."

First Class Navy.

"Our Navy is a first-class Navy and we want to keep it so, but there is no occasion for us to expand it when we need the money," he said.

"A navy that can't take the sea and meet the enemy near his own shores is no navy," Gen. Amos A. Fries asserted at exercises at the John Paul Jones Mounment.

Gen. Fries said John Paul Jones did not take the line of least resistance, but went out to meet the enemy, and later asked, "Who is the man or group of men to tell us exactly what an adequate navy is?"

Commander James T. Alexander shared the speaking program with Gen. Fries. It was held under auspices of the National Sojourners and the Military Order of the World War.

Is Vital for Defense.

"Today, unchallenged by time, and so long as the sea continues to be the medium of travel will these lessons be before us," said Commander Alexander, recalling that Jones "clearly demonstrated that seapower is vital for the defense of our shores."

The memorial service, presided over by Commander F. C. Sherman, was held at the statue by the tidal basin. The invocation was by Capt. S. K. Evans, chief of Navy chaplains, followed by music of the Marine Band.

Wreaths were placed on the memorial by the Military Order of the World War, National Sojourners, Military Order of Foreign Wars, Navy League, American Women's Legion, Spengler Auxiliary of the American Legion, and the Daughters of 1812.

Attendance records were also broken at the naval torpedo station in Alexandria, Lieut. J. N. Opie, commanding officer, said. Torpedoes were fired and children who came were presented with model guns and warships. Waffles were served to the children who visited the mine sweeper, Cormorant. Rubber ball souvenirs were dropped on King street from an autogiro. Almost 3,000 persons filed into the station during the day. Last year the figure reached 300.

The Washington Kiwanis Club program, dedicated to the Marine Corps, was held at Washington Hotel. Brig. Gen. John T. Myers, acting commandant of the corps, expressed its appreciation, and Brig. Gen. Williams told of the mission of the corps and its relation to the Navy.

Fechet Quits as Air Corps Chief Soon After Dec. 15

Will End Brilliant Career Started in Spanish-American War; Foulois, Successor, Is Noted as First Army Officer to Fly.

(Associated Press.)

The Army will lose one of its most distinguished former privates when command of the Air Corps changes hands in December, but the flying branch still will be headed by a man who started in the ranks.

Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois will become chief of the Air Corps December 15. He will succeed Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, who will retire soon afterward. Fechet ends a brilliant career which began as a private during the Spanish-American War.

Foulois has been running the Army's air force in some capacity or other much of the time since it began. But the Army first knew him as "Little Bennie," a willing and capable recruit of 18.

One man remembers the day he signed up in the Regular Army at the close of the Spanish-American War. Foulois had been a noncom in the Volunteers during the war and liked the Army so well he joined Company G, Nineteenth Infantry, at Camp Meade. First Sergt. A. L. Gunther took him in hand and later led him to the Philippines. Gunther, now a retired captain, has charge of the Air Corps headquarters' supply office, right under the room "Little Bennie" will occupy.

Before the campaign ended he was a lieutenant and he kept on going. He is most noted these days for having been the first Army officer to fly. In 1908 it was a dirigible balloon that he operated.

Then he learned to fly the first airplane bought by the Army. He had to take a correspondence course on that, because he kept finding new puzzles to be solved after the ship was delivered to him in Texas.

He was all the air force there was for a long time and the flying appropriation at the beginning was $150 a year. He accompanied Pershing to Mexico in 1916 as commander of the first aero squadron. In France he commanded the air service of the first Army, A. E. F.

When the war ended he was assigned to one important command after another, climaxed early this year by his leadership of the first air division. That enormous armada cruised across the United States, flying 4,000,000 miles without a single fatality.

H. G. Wells Flies Here; Poses for Photographs

H. G. Wells, British author of the "Outline of History" and numerous novels and works on sociology, yesterday flew to Washington from New York in a Ludington Line plane, accompanied by Nelson Doubleday, his American publisher.

Confronted by photographers at the Washington Airport, Mr. Wells smilingly posed for his pictures, while Mr. Doubleday explained to reporters the flight "wasn't supposed to be known." "Mr. Wells will get in bad with his family, if this gets out," he said. The noted author will remain here for three or four days.

Jewish Educator Talks at Meeting

Chapter Hadassah Holds Monthly Gathering at Community Center.

Discussion of problems affecting the Jewish people, a talk by Ben Zion Emmanuel, principal of the Central School of the Jewish Educational Association, and a program of entertainment marked monthly meeting of the Chapter Hadassah yesterday afternoon at Jewish Community Center.

The topic of Jewish wit and humor was taken by Mr. Emmanuel. A brief survey of Jewish current events by Mrs. William Bralove followed the talk of the educator. Vocal selections by Mrs. Agnes May Fischer, lyric soprano, were given, and the meeting closed with a social tea.

Preceding the general meeting, which was opened by a prayer given by Mrs. Herman Hollander, the cultural group of the society met.

ESCAPED PRISONERS SOUGHT IN ROBBERY

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Oct. 27.—Two men who held up a bank at White Hall, Md., near Baltimore, and escaped with $6,000, after shutting the cashier and a woman clerk in the vault, are believed to be William Gambrill and Frank Campbell, colored, who escaped from the Easton Jail Sunday night.

The two men spent Sunday night and yesterday in the woods on Miles River, near Easton, and last night stole a boat at Bruffs Island, making their way to Centerville, Queen Annes County. They stole a small roadster from E. S. Valliant there and headed toward Baltimore. The two men who held up the White Hall Bank were traveling in a small roadster.

J. Harold Ensor, cashier of the bank, told police the two men entered the bank and asked for some change. As he bent down to get it one of the bandits covered him with a sawed-off shotgun.

Mr. Ensor said he and Miss Ida Slade, the clerk, were ordered into the vault, and the white man followed them inside, scooping up all the gold and currency on hand. They left several bags of coin. The bandits attempted to lock the bank employes in the vault, but could not work the mechanism. They pushed an adding machine against the door, and ordering Ensor and Miss Slade to keep quiet made their escape.

Judge Weighs Plea On Sanity of Killer

Man at St. Elizabeths in Slaying of Motorman Asks Release.

Justice Oscar R. Luhring yesterday took under advisement a petition to release from Howard Hall, ward for the criminally insane at St. Elizabeths Hospital, Paul du Vernal Barry, who was indicted several years ago for murder of a street car conductor.

Barry alleges that treatments he has received have restored him to sanity, and that he therefore is being held illegally.

Drs. John E. Lind, senior medical officer, and Samuel A. Silk, one of the administrative officers of St. Elizabeths Hospital, opposed release of Barry, while four alienists told Justice Luhring the man had recovered his stability and should be freed.

NO DEBT AGREEMENT.

The number and variety of interpretations placed upon the Hoover-Laval statement of last Sunday bears witness to the ingenuity of politicians and press writers. Some of the meanings read into that statement doubtless evoke the astonishment of its authors.

Taking the statement as it reads, without injecting into it something that is not there, it ought to be clear that neither the United States nor France makes any commitment concerning revision of reparations or war debts. They agree that some agreement regarding intergovernmental obligations may be necessary, but each government makes all reservations as to the terms and conditions of such an agreement. The initiative in this matter rests with the nations party to the Young plan. If they wish to suspend reparation payments they can do so. If the United States should wish to revise the debt agreements it can do so. But nobody is bound to revise anything.

President Hoover has kept the United States free from any entanglement concerning German reparations. That is a subject with which European governments must deal. If those governments should approach the United States on the subject of debt revision, the United States is free to negotiate or to refuse, as it sees fit. In any event it will deal separately with each debtor government, and will not negotiate collectively with them.

On this important subject of further suspension of intergovernmental payments the nations stand where they stood before the Hoover-Laval conversations were held. France reserves the right to block all moves to revise the Young plan. The United States reserves the right to refuse to revise the debt agreements.

Politicians who are trying to make capital out of an imaginary agreement to revise or cancel the war debts are unduly excited. They can make no capital out of this matter, as no agreement has been made.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE.

Independence for the Philippine Islands is one of the issues that are moving rapidly toward a climax as a result of the depression. Secretary Hurley has returned from an extensive fact-finding tour of the islands with information on which the administration's policy will be based. A number of senators have likewise gathered data and are ready to demand immediate severance of the connection between the islands and the United States. With this momentum the controversy may come to a head before Congress adjourns next spring.

President Hoover retains an open mind on the subject. He recalls that every President and every Congress has promised independence to the Philippines. Apparently Mr. Hoover is ready to reiterate that promise on condition that economic independence be attained before the islands are cut loose politically. Immediate independence would result in an economic collapse. If any action is taken, therefore, it should be some step looking toward economic adjustments that will prepare the way for a political separation.

Secretary Hurley was struck by the inconsistency of the Filipino demands. There is no question that the native politicians have aroused a widespread enthusiasm for immediate independence. But this enthusiasm is merely for a slogan. Independence is an ideal that has not been reduced to concrete or economic terms. All of the remarkable development that has taken place in the islands under American sovereignty might be lost if the United States withdrew prematurely.

There are some indications, however, that the Filipinos are beginning to face some of the practical aspects of the question, in spite of Senator Hawes' frantic attempt to fan the flame of native sentiment. Manuel L. Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, who has been in Washington for more than a year on an independence mission, has announced in Manila that he considered with American officials several propositions for settlement of the independence issue. A year ago any admission that he had departed from the "immediate complete and absolute independence" slogan would have been considered political suicide. Now he dares to suggest that the islands be granted broad autonomy for ten years, with a plebiscite at the end of that time to decide whether they desire complete separation.

The first step toward any practical solution is the development of economic independence in the islands. If Congress intends to carry out its promise it should begin at once the process of economic separation, so that the islands may achieve stability on their own resources.

Each year that the Philippines continue to develop on the basis of free trade with the United States they make independence more difficult. It may be that the people will decide they do not want independence when they have an opportunity to calculate the economic sacrifice that it will entail. But under any circumstances that test must come before the ultimate status of the islands can be intelligently considered. A courageous acceptance of such a test would bring the Filipinos much nearer to their cherished ideal, or to satisfaction with American sovereignty.

AN ADEQUATE NAVY.

President Hoover's Navy Day statement is reassuring to those who have feared that the efficiency of the Navy might be impaired by the administration's economy program. "The first necessity of our Government," the President said, "is the maintenance of a Navy so efficient and strong that, in conjunction with our Army, no enemy may ever invade our country."

The statement is important in that it serves to correct a widespread misconception of the President's attitude. His naval economy program does not, as some critics have contended, indicate that the President is willing to jeopardize national defense. Considerable reductions are being made in the naval budget, but for the most part they are confined to items that are not essential to the maintenance of national defense. The efficiency of the Navy is the first objective.

President Hoover does not subscribe to the theory that the United States should further disarm as an example to the world. He has repeatedly avowed his interest in general disarmament, lamenting the fact that the world is so slow in laying aside its weapons, but insists that the national security be preserved. Superfluities alone are to be stricken off for the sake of economy.

DIRECT NEGOTIATION.

Japan has repudiated the formula set forth by the League of Nations for settlement of the Manchurian dispute, and the affair seems to be drifting nearer to direct negotiations between the two governments concerned. The League of Nations is virtually out of the picture. Since its demand for evacuation of Chinese territory by November 16 has been disregarded the league may be forced to confess its impotency.

Much has been said about testing the machinery that the league has set up for the preservation of international peace in this case. Thus far, that machinery has been found to be hopelessly weak. Japan sat with the council and registered a negative vote to all of its decisions. Since the decisions were not unanimously adopted, Japan refuses to consider them as legally binding. In short, Japan has used her membership in the league as an excuse for handling this affair exactly as she pleases.

Japan is willing to negotiate the issue with China, and the formula on which negotiations would be based does not seem to be unreasonable. That formula includes the following principles: "Mutual repudiation of aggressive policy and conduct; respect for China's territorial integrity; complete suppression of all organized movements interfering with freedom of trade and stirring up international hatred; effective protection throughout Manchuria of all peaceful pursuits undertaken by Japanese subjects; respect for treaty rights of Japan in Manchuria."

Hostilities in Manchuria have not subsided. Bandits are reported to be making intermittent attacks and Japanese subjects are apparently still in danger. Under the circumstances it does not seem unreasonable that Japan should refuse to withdraw her troops immediately. If the present situation arose as a result of an attack by Chinese troops, as the Japanese claim, it would seem that China has no right to demand evacuation until that government is able to assure protection to Japanese as well as Chinese nationals.

Direct negotiation seems to be necessary for an amicable settlement of this dispute. Apparently China has placed too much hope in the flimsy peace machinery of the League of Nations. If the two countries make an earnest effort to settle their own difficulties on the formula that has been suggested, they will doubtless be able to avert war without sacrificing their respective rights.

INCOME TAX LOSSES.

In condemning Wall street for the evils resulting from speculation, members of Congress have had much to say about the need of legislation restricting stock exchange transactions, yet one of the foremost inducements to speculation has been given little consideration. Under the Federal income tax law property owners are assessed on capital assets which have increased in money value. This theory, known as "realized gain," was an important contributing factor in the crash of 1929. The law was instituted during President Wilson's regime, and has been subsequently modified without improvement. President Hoover has recommended that it be repealed.

At the time of the passage of the sixteenth amendment it was established by court decisions over a long period that mere increase in money value of property did not constitute income, whether the property was sold or not. The realized gain tax, which made this increase equivalent to the receipt of income when the property was sold, was a new idea. It consequently played havoc with the accepted theories about income.

It was not until after the stock market crash that the full import of the tax became apparent. It was then seen that the levy was not based upon income, but rather upon changing investments. The penalty could be avoided by not selling stocks or bonds which had increased in value; if they were retained no tax was collected. This meant that there was not a free market for securities or other property, and so prices continued to rise beyond all reason until 1929. Persons who had retained property for investment purposes continued to hold indefinitely because of the heavy penalties that selling entailed. It would appear that no scheme of taxation could have been invented tending more definitely to aggravate financial disaster.

The crash has proved that the law works as inadequately in a depression as in a rising market, since capital losses may be deducted from income taxes. When prices rose taxpayers took advantage of capital losses to decrease their income taxes, and avoided profits by not selling, or by some other subterfuge. Now that losses are great the Government loses much of the tax it might have received from a more rational system of income taxation. In many instances capital losses have greatly reduced, and often wiped out, current income. The result has been that the Government is the greatest victim of all in the crash and, therefore, it will be the whole body of taxpayers instead of the speculators who will pay the losses.

WEATHERING THE STORM

From an Address by T. V. O'Connor, Chairman, United States Shipping Board, Before Middle West Foreign Trade and Merchant Marine Conference.

The present economic depression, without parallel in the world's history, has brought about some unexpected developments in international shipping. Not the least surprising is the way in which a number of rival steamship lines, realizing that in union there is strength, have joined forces to reduce overhead and eliminate destructive competition.

We first witnessed this development in Germany, then in Japan, and more recently in Italy. In these countries some of the world's greatest steamship companies have effected understandings whereby cooperation, rather than rivalry, is the underlying principle on which their future operations are to be conducted. There are indications that some of the French lines may follow the example of the nations already mentioned.

In this country we have had similar developments, though on a somewhat smaller scale. Certain Pacific Coast interests, once strong competitors, have found it to their mutual advantage, in this time of economic depression, to pool their brains, if not their finances, and work out some of their big problems together. Cooperating with the Roosevelt Steamship interests, these enterprising Pacific Coast people are also planning to reorganize the United States Lines and strengthen our position on the North Atlantic. Our ships in that important trade must have strong financial backing if they are to weather the storm which still rages about us.

Remembering that for brave natures a period of trial is usually a period of self-discipline, we can take comfort in the thought that the present depression is not wholly without benefit to American shipping. Enforced lessons of thrift are resulting in the elimination of waste, and overhead expenses are being examined under the microscope. Efficiency of personnel is receiving special study. Retrenchment in building and operating costs is going on apace. I think it is safe to say that in the case of a merchant marine as new as ours these results would not accrue so rapidly during a period of marked prosperity.

Repair bills, an important operating item, are being held down to the lowest possible level. Purchase and expenditure of supplies and stores are being watched more closely. Stricter checks are maintained against leaks and pilferage. Figures compiled by the Shipping Board, though not covering all American ships, indicate that there has been a considerable saving in fuel expense, quite aside from the reduced price of coal and oil.

The storm will not last forever. Constructive steps already taken by the administration to ease credit and bring about certain international readjustments, are bound to have a favorable effect on trade and industry. When the storm abates, the American merchant marine, strengthened by new construction undertaken during this period of depression and disciplined by a program of enforced economy, will be in a better position than ever to compete for commercial honors on the trade routes of the world.

The more we study the depression, in so far as it affects the American merchant marine, the more clearly we perceive that if American shippers and travelers would give a fair share of their business to American ships, prosperity for American shipowners would appear overnight. We must drive this point home to every American citizen. We must make it plain that if Americans would cease to show preference for foreign lines, our merchant marine would have no difficulty in weathering not only the present storm, but any similar storm that may arise in the future.

THE GLORY OF ENDEAVOR.

They will be better for the test
And stronger for the tasks that irk.
No man is ever at his best
Who does not face the need to work.

The lavish days disaster brought.
With love our little ones we spoiled,
Because we nursed the softening thought
They should not toil as we had toiled.

We smoothed their paths and bade them play.
To spare them pain it pleased us then,
But kindlier had we been to say
That hardship is the fate of men.

And wiser had we been to teach
Our children how to stand to care,
To work for joys beyond their reach
And shoulder burdens they must bear.

Grave days are these and dark, but still They'll give what pleasure never brings—
The pride that's in the battle thrill—
The glory of accomplished things.

You Needn't Dread the Revenge of Losers Unless the Game Is Crooked

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DOWN in Georgia there is a young man, not yet 30, who began business a few years ago with no capital except courage and a determination to do something useful better than anybody else could do it. His business address was an unknown village, his factory a second-floor room rented by the month. Today his product is nationally advertised and he has a million-dollar business.

He and his kind are the pride and joy and vindication of America. They are the proof that America's system is the right system.

Men who haven't succeeded may answer: "Of course the capitalistic system seems good to those it has enriched, but what of us poor devils who still work for wages?"

The answer is that the rules of a fair game can't be changed to benefit those who lose. The fairest system is the one that gives every man a chance to win and leaves the result to individual merit.

No other system leaves men free, and no other can long survive without the support of troops.

Human nature can't be adjusted to fit political systems. The systems must be adjusted to human nature.

It is human to be selfish. The strongest of all motives is self-interest. And self-interest is the only motive that will keep the mass of humanity loyal to any system or cause.

Communism, like primitive Christianity, depends upon absolute unselfishness. Religious zeal and the joy of martyrdom may keep it alive for a season, but it can not endure. Its breath of life is enthusiasm, and enthusiasm is an abnormal state that burns out quickly because of its very intensity.

We must deal with facts as they are—not with ideals as we would have them.

There can be no liberty except where each man is free to gain and hold the rewards he can win in fair competition.

The foundation of America's system is the common man's right and opportunity to become great.

If that foundation is preserved, and its security maintained by laws that prevent the abuse of power and protect the unfit from the greed of the unprincipled, this civilization will endure and flourish forever.

The duty of the majority, who aren't big winners, is to keep the game straight so that its advantages may be preserved for their sons.

Tariff Creates Industries.
Republican National Committee Bulletin.

Critics of the Hawley-Smoot bill who have charged it with responsibility for "driving American industries abroad" must have noted recent news dispatches with a good deal of surprise. These dispatches report that more than 100 manufacturers of this country who now export goods to the United Kingdom have inquired of the American Chamber of Commerce in London as to the advisability of establishing branch plants there to avoid payment of the proposed British tariff. It is merely reversing what our own tariff laws have done for America.

It is estimated that $4,700,000,000 in foreign capital is invested in the United States, a great proportion of it induced to come here by the very fact of the existence of our protective tariff. Foreign industries would not have moved here where they must use highly paid American labor if they could have remained abroad and sent cheap labor goods into the United States.

Government Economy.
Los Angeles Times.

Sound fiscal policy "when the income of the people is reduced and when taxes or loans may stifle economic recovery," says President Hoover, is to save every cent that Government can, and the President proposes to put this policy into force. The President realizes, as few of those do who propose vast Government expenditures to "create employment," that every cent of public expenditure means that much less private expenditure, that every dollar taken from industry prevents a dollar's worth of wages from being paid by industry; and further that private and industrial expenditures mean that the money will go farther and do more good.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

As the date for opening the Democratic national convention approaches the figures of some of the possibilities for the nomination begin to loom larger, due to the public reaction to their prospective candidacies, while the figures of others which earlier were regarded as important, appear to be less formidable.

Earlier in the year there was much talk of Senator Bulkley, Gov. White and former Gov. Cox, all of Ohio, but in later weeks, the man from Ohio who has attracted the most notice is former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. The latter is now regarded as one of the three men having the best chance to win the nomination. Former Gov. Byrd, of Virginia, a few months ago was receiving much favorable mention, but he has been out of the picture, apparently, in recent months. Senator Robinson has fared some better; but he seems to be looked upon as only a faint possibility.

Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, has claimed increasing attention, with Baker and Ritchie and Smith classed as "runners up."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Better Go Slowly in Legislating to Prohibit Panics—Danger of Socialistic Blunders.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest the letter of your philosophical correspondent, who in Sunday's Post objects to the complacent acceptance of the belief that the business cycle with its periods of economic depression is inevitable. The idea that in this connection constructive thought should take the place of laissez-faire mid-Victorianism may find expression in proposed legislation at the coming session of Congress.

My own idea is that before the problem of the business cycle can be practically settled there must be a long period of discussion to overcome the inertia of the public, as was the case, for instance, in regard to the code duello and the licensed saloon.

Indeed, in consideration of the economic complications involved in any attempt to make prosperity permanent by statute, there is no question in my mind as to the desirability of delay.

By judicial regulation much, no doubt, may be done to lessen the possibility of immoderate financial panics. But better bear the financial ills we have than endanger our present system of Government by hasty socialistic legislation sugar-coated with a Utopian promise of permanent prosperity. C. J. THOMAS.

Bond Issue for Relief of Unemployed Would Impose Unwarranted Burden on Posterity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the panaceas proposed for the relief of our present and prospective distress is a bond issue of $5,000,000,000. Who would pay for these bonds and when? If the proposed issue is to be made payable in 1951, by what right are we shifting our obligations onto the shoulders of the next generation? Is it fair to foist the father's debts on the children, expecting them to meet conditions with which we are incompetent to cope? Moreover, how, except by taxation, could such bonds ultimately be paid? Meanwhile taxation would have to produce $150,000,000 each year for interest, even at 3 per cent.

Twenty years hence our children may have troubles of their own. Is it fair, is it desirable, is it honorable to ease our shoulders by compelling them to bear the burden and pay our debts?

Shorten working hours by one-fourth so that employment may be distributed among all workers and no debt will be dishonorably shifted to the shoulders of the next generation. EDWARD BERWICK.

Government Worker Complains That Clerk of the House Holds Two Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on Representative Wood, of Indiana, is excellent. Just why he should be so anxious to slash the salaries of Government clerks is a mystery.

As a member of the majority party in the House, Mr. Wood voted for the elective employes of the House. He is, at least in part, responsible for the present clerk of the House who receives a salary of $8,000 a year. This same man as executive secretary of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission receives, I am reliably informed, a salary of $2,500. We also find by referring to the last annual report of the clerk of the House that he receives $250 for the upkeep of a motor car, $450 for postage and close to $7,800 for compiling reports, &c., for use by the House.

If Mr. Wood is really sincere, maybe he can explain to his constituents just why he and other members of the majority party are so bent on keeping this one man in two jobs. Surely they are not helping the unemployment situation.

JUST A GOVERNMENT CLERK.

What Is So Rare as a Day in Golden October in Washington?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is easy to understand how, following the winter snowdrifts and frozen streams, the New England poet was moved to exclaim, "Oh, what is so rare as a day in June?" But in the enjoyment of our Virginia-Maryland autumn my feelings find expression in the paraphrase, "Oh, what is so rare as a day in October—golden October?"

As I write the streets of Washington are clothed in a fairyland mantle of yellowing leaves. I wonder how many Washingtonians appreciate the beauty of nature just outside their doors. City dwellers are apt to keep their eyes habitually lowered in their goings and comings out of doors. Let a Washingtonian pause and lift his eyes at any season and in a thousand locations he will be surprised and delighted by the combination of natural and architectural beauty that will meet his gaze. In our rare month of October there is block after block of golden vistas which, once contemplated by the nature lover, will prove a source of enchantment from day to day.

To my outside friends who contemplate visiting Washington my advice always is to come in the fall—preferably in October. PARK FAN.

FARM FORESTRY PAYS.

One-third of all the farms in the United States yield as much as $220 worth of timber per year, the United States Department of Agriculture says. An exhibit from the Forest Service shows that the annual farm forest crop is worth $395,000,000. Timber not only pays in dollars and cents, but it is like a bank account upon which the owner can draw in times of stress. Its uses range from farm buildings, telephone poles, repairs and fuel on the farm, to saw logs, cross-ties, pulpwood, posts and poles.

OFFICIAL UNCONCERN IN JOBLESS CHARGED

Welfare Head Tells Senate Group of Starvation Cases in Detroit.

(Associated Press.)

Official indifference to slow starvation among the unemployed was charged before a Senate committee yesterday by Dr. John A. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Council.

The churchman was one of three witnesses who testified before the Senate manufactures subcommittee in favor of the creation of a national economic council to study industrial trends and prevent future business collapses. He also proposed a $5,000,000,000 public construction program to provide jobs.

Reading a prepared statement in a quietly modulated voice, Dr. Ryan said:

"The most discouraging fact about our very grave unemployment situation is the indifference to human suffering exhibited by our public officials and influential classes.

Detroit Reports Starvation.

"They all seem to assume that their duty will be performed if none of the unemployed dies of actual and quick starvation.

"They seem to take no account of the deaths that are inevitable from slow starvation through a long course of undernutrition. They seem to care little about the permanent weakening of health and physique of the millions who will receive just enough assistance to enable them to survive. * * *

"As a matter of fact, the starvation which has already occurred on account of unemployment is not all of the slow and gradual variety.

"A physician in one of the hospitals in Detroit reported not long ago that, on the average, four persons a day are brought to that particular hospital too far gone from starvation to be saved.

"Other medical authorities in that city estimate that at least one person starves to death every seven hours and fifteen minutes.",

Dr. Ryan estimated that a $5,000,000,000 Federal construction program would result in employment directly or indirectly of from 4,000,000 to 5,000,00 persons.

He recommended funds be raised by issuing bonds on which interest would be paid through a tax on luxuries and higher taxes on large incomes and inheritance taxes.

In order to speed up the program, he urged it be administered by an emergency commission for road construction and improvement, elimination of grade crossings, public buildings, forestry and reforestation, flood control and improvement of navigation.

Economic Council Recommended.

Other witnesses before the committee were H. S. Person, of New York, managing director of the Taylor Society of Industrial Executives and Engineers, and Ralph E. Flanders, of Springfield, Vt., chairman of the American Engineering Council's committee on balance of economic forces.

Both of them recommended creation of a governmental economic council.

Flanders recommended an expanded public works program as the most hopeful possibility of reviving business and a public works administrator to speed up the schedule.

Detroit Officials Deny Reports of Starvation

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Dr. E. T. Olsen, superintendent of Receiving Hospital, Detroit's city-owned institution, and officials of the public welfare department denied today that four persons a day are brought to local hospitals dying from starvation, as stated by Dr. John A. Ryan before a Senate subcommittee in Washington.

The report was circulated here about three weeks ago. The report also said, Dr. Olsen said, that three men had been found dead from starvation in a downtown park. The coroner's office denied this, saying no such incident had occurred.

Dr. Olsen said that not only have no cases of starvation been brought to Receiving Hospital, but there have been none entered for diseases which should be attributed to lack of nourishment.

LABOR DEFEAT SEEN HERE AS TRADE BOON

might be in the same position as before—less radical.

There was considerable speculation regarding Ramsay MacDonald's fate. Few believed that even if reelected, or if defeated and given a Conservative seat, he would last long as Nationalist prime minister. The expectation was that his position soon would be made impossible by his conservative "followers," and that he would step out of politics, go into the House of Lords, or rejoin the strictly Labor party in opposition to the government.

JAPAN ASKS RUSSIA TO END MANEUVERS

While the United States as participating power in the deliberations of the league council, will naturally entertain the same desires as the other nations that requested the Japanese withdrawal by a fixed date, this Government did not sign the formal request to Japan. Japan at the present time shows no indication of evacuating the territory unless the Chinese agree to the terms formulated in an official statement issued by the Japanese Embassy here yesterday.

The formal Japanese statement was a reiteration of the various points that have been stressed by Ambassador Debuchi in his conferences with Secretary Stimson and Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr.

Halloween Plans Cost Life of Boy, 16, in Fall

Preparations for a Halloween celebration cost the life of Frederick Joseph Johnson, colored, 16 years old, of 3105 Eleventh street northwest. The youth was hanging his costume on a railing at the rear of his home when the railing gave way, plunging him 20 feet to a concrete walk below.

His mother found him unconscious and had him taken to Garfield Hospital, where he died a short time later.

Interesting Sidelights Of Election in England

London, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Londoners who had expected to watch election returns on outdoor screens couldn't see anything tonight except stifling yellow fog.

So they stayed at their own firesides, where radio gave them the latest news, or went to the movies at which returns were flashed on the screen.

Gordon Selfridge entertained 3,000 persons at his store, one of his guests being Charlie Chaplin.

Many voters working in the city of London lost their vote because of the fog. Intending to cast their ballots after their day's work they found that trains were delayed because of the pea soup and when they got home the polls were closed. Trains were running as late as an hour and a half.

Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, was about to be photographed when the first result—a Conservative victory—reached him. He broke into an uncoaxed smile for the photographer. Mr. Baldwin was especially pleased by the results in Salford which is regarded in England as Maine is in the United States.

Five-year-old Ernest Motherwell voted in the general election today in Belfast, North Ireland.

In Ulster no one whose name appears in the register is barred from voting if he can articulate the name of a candidate. Ernest could.

It was a bad day for writers. In addition to Edgar Wallace, detective story writer, Philip Guedalla, biographer, and Mrs. Mary Hamilton, Labor member of the last House and author of several novels, were defeated.

David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, and his family listened in until early in the morning at his home in Churt, Surrey. They used two radio sets.

Election returns were received at many gay parties in fashionable hotels and restaurants. At several of these the fog was an uninvited guest, seeping through cracks of doors and windows. Some restaurants looked as though they held a smoke cloud.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden, whose bitter invective against his former colleagues of the Labor party was a feature of the campaign, motored with Mrs. Snowden from their country home to hear the returns in London.

Jean Chiappe, prefect of police in Paris, watched London with a curious eye tonight. M. Chiappe came here as the guest of Scotland Yard especially to watch the actions of the London crowds.

Labor supporters, gathered at the Horticultural Hall in Westminster, greeted the news of sweeping Conservative victories with cries of "Are we down hearted? No!"

William Henderson, son of Arthur Henderson, the Labor leader, who was defeated in Burnley, addressed a crowd from a hotel window.

"We have lost the seat, but it will be ours again," he said.

Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, the successful Conservative candidate, told another audience that "we have shown the country, the empire and the world that we in Burnley are true to the flag."

Arthur Henderson heard the news of his own defeat over the radio in a hotel bedroom in Burnley, which he was too ill to leave.

Crowds in Trafalgar Square in London were unable to see the election announcements from a screen on account of the fog, so the news was dispensed to them from a portable printing press installed on a truck.

It was estimated that nearly 2,000,000 persons braved the fog to learn the returns in London.

S. Saklatvala, only Communist ever to sit in the British Parliament, was defeated by a Conservative in a three-cornered contest in the London Borough of Battersea North. He did not even get enough votes to save the deposit candidates are required to put up.

England's Mary Pickford goes to Parliament as a Conservative member for North Hammersmith, displacing J. P. Gardner, Labor member, by a vote of 18,815 to 11,838. Miss Pickford, daughter of the late Lord Sterndale, is a woman political leader of West London.

Her partner in the southern division of Hammersmith was "Doug" Cook, who also won. The similarity of the two names to those of America's film stars was exploited on placards during the campaign.

NATIONAL GROUP LEADS WAY AS BRITISH ISLES GO TO POLLS

Although most of the national government's distinguished candidates, with the exception of Prime Minister MacDonald, were assured of victory, the Laborites were stunned by the defeat of their leader, Arthur Henderson, and other well-known candidates. This was a severe blow to their party prestige in its revolt against MacDonald.

Henderson was seeking reelection from Burnley, where he polled 28,091 votes in 1929. He was opposed by Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, Conservative, and J. Rushton, Communist. Today's vote was Campbell, 35,126; Henderson, 26,917, and Rushton, 512.

His defeat did not necessarily mean that he will not be a member of the next Parliament, as some candidate from a strong Labor constituency might resign and permit Henderson to accept reelection from that division.

Laborite Snowed Under.

It was the thirteenth election campaign in which Henderson had been a candidate. He had been defeated previously on three occasions.

Returns from all parts of the country—from the Southern and Northern industrial districts, from the midlands, from London and other sections where the laborites were powerful in the 1929 election—were the same.

The Laborites were snowed under a combined Conservative-Liberal vote which plainly showed the inclination of the voters to take their government from the hands of the Socialists and place it in the hands of the Conservatives in a time of national emergency.

Some of the election results were:

Edgar Wallace, author of many thrilling detective novels, who ran as a "Lloyd George Liberal," was defeated by Capt. C. C. Erskine-Bolst, Conservative, in Blackpool division. The vote was 53,010 to 19,524.

Miss Eileen Wilkinson, Laborite, was defeated for relection from Middlesborough, east, by E. J. Young, Liberal. Young polled 18,409 to 12,080 for the woman Laborite.

George Lansbury, former Laborite cabinet minister, was reelected from Bow and Bromley, defeating D. L. R. Guthrie, Conservative.

Oliver Baldwin, Laborite and son of Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, was defeated in Rochester, Chatham Division.

Royalty Watches Returns.

Stanley Baldwin, who won his seat unopposed, watched the returns on tickers at Conservative headquarters.

"This is a good omen," he said when the first returns showed a Conservative victory. Later he observed additional Conservative victories and remarked, "This is splendid."

Henderson, the defeated Laborite leader, got returns by radio while still confined to bed at the Bulls Hotel, Burnley.

"We lost the seat, but it will be ours again later," said William Henderson, the Labor leader's father, in addressing a crowd. "This is only a temporary setback."

The Prince of Wales listened to radio reports on the election at Fort Belvedere. King George was at Buckingham Palace receiving returns and the Duke and Duchess of York were at their Piccadilly home.

All Members of Cabinet Reelected but McDonald

London (Wednesday), Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Every member of the national cabinet—with the exception of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who will learn his fate later today—was reelected to the House of Commons by a good majority at yesterday's general election. Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, did not seek to return to the House.

Pitts' Indictment Plea Given Delay

Hearing Awaits Age Data on Grand Juror; Case Set Friday.

Because of the failure of the Government prosecutors to hear from Italy in regard to the date of birth of Frank Fabrizio, the final arguments on the plea on abatement filed by attorneys for G. Bryan Pitts was postponed yesterday until Friday.

The contention has been set up that Fabrizio was over 65 years old when he was a member of the grand jury that indicted Pitts eleven months ago, and that because of his age he was not legally qualified to sit as a grand juror.

Nell Burkinshaw, for the Government, asked for the continuance so that proof of his contention that Fabrizio was not over the age limit could be received from Italy. Even if the information from Italy does indicate that the juror was over the age limit, the Government plans to raise the question of the untimeliness of the plea.

Theodore Roosevelts Overnight Guests At White House; Mrs. Hoover Honor Guest at Reception

PRESIDENT and Mrs. Hoover had as their overnight guests, after a small dinner party Monday evening, the Governor of Porto Rico and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt. The Governor left Washington yesterday morning to return to Porto Rico and Mrs. Roosevelt is remaining at the White House for a short stay.

More than 1,000 members of the American Association of University Women shook hands with Mrs. Hoover yesterday at a reception given in her honor at the clubhouse on I street.

Escorted by Mrs. H. G. Nichols up the winding stairway, Mrs. Hoover was then greeted by Mrs. Otto L. Veerhoff, president of the club, and presented a volume of the history of the club of which she is a member. Miss Helen Samuels, chairman of hospitality committee, presented members of the club to Mrs. Veerhoff, who in turn presented them to Mrs. Hoover, who was beautifully gowned in brown velvet.

Members of the junior group stood at various posts downstairs and on the stairs.

Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin and Mrs. George B. Woods were at the head of a receiving line on the balcony. In the lounge selections were rendered on the violin and piano by Senor Arsenio Ralon, with our National Symphony Orchestra and Miss Elizabeth Gardiner Coombes.

Assisting hostesses were Miss May T. Bigelow, Miss Judith Clark, Mrs. William J. Cooper, Miss Elizabeth Eastman, Miss Anna D. Halberg, Miss Blanche Halbert, Mrs. Paul E. Howe, Miss Nelle Ingels, Mrs. Basil M. Manly, Dr. Martha MacLear, Mrs. Howard G. Nichols, Mrs. Marie M. Proffitt, Miss Belle Rankin, Miss Helen Samuel, Mrs. Louis MacMahon, Mrs. Philip Smith and Miss Florence Ward.

At the tea tables were Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Mrs. George B. Willis, Miss Nelle Ingels, Mrs. Lyman Swormstedt, Miss Alice Edwards, Miss Laura Thornbourgh, Miss Leilia Mechlin, Miss Jean Cole, Miss Adelaide Baylor, Mrs. Wilson Compton, Miss Hope Thompson, Miss Genevieve Hendricks, Miss Ellen Vinton, Mrs. F. B. Butler and Miss Doris Goss.

Sculpture Exhibit To Be Held November 7.

The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, and the Italian consul general in New York, Signor Emanuel Gazzi, head the list of patrons for the exhibition of sculpture of Mme. Fausto Vittorio Mengarini, who has been a frequent guest at the embassy here. The exhibit will open with a reception and tea on November 7 in the Roerich Museum, New York City, where the exhibit will remain for three weeks. Other patrons well known here are Mme. Vittorio Emanuel Orlando, wife of the former prime minister of Italy; Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Averardi, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Hall and Miss Margherita de Vecchi.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay will entertain at a luncheon today in honor of Mr. H. G. Wells, famous British novelist, historian and philosopher, who arrived in Washington yesterday accompanied by Mr Nelson Doubleday, and will be the guest of Mrs. James F. Curtis during his short stay in the Capital.

Mrs. Curtis entertained Mr. Wells at breakfast previously.

Ambassador and Lady Lindsay head the list of patrons for the annual dance of Sir Walter Scott Chapter of Daughters of the British Empire, for the benefit of the Victoria Home for Aged British Men and Women at Ossining, N. Y., to be given at the Plaza in New York, November 14. The Canadian Minister and Mrs. Herridge are among other patrons.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

An Answer to Jerry.

DEAR Frances McDonald: May I offer the following to "Jerry," who wants to end his marriage because he has discovered that his young wife made a mistake before their marriage?

Did you ever hear of the admonition, "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone?"

Perhaps you are that one without sin. Then, before you heave your stone, may I call your attention to this one: "Judge not," etc. Just what aren't we to judge. Whether your wife's early misdemeanor is a worse sin than your taking a "holier than thou" attitude and placing the ban of condemnation upon her?

You say you are 40. Surely she wasn't 40 when she made her mistake? Which of you was old enough to know better? Perhaps there were extenuating circumstances surrounding a girl of tender years who made this blunder. In any case, is not her suffering great enough? Self-condemnation is the greatest of all sacrifices. Do you think she did not suffer when she saw your child and its little dawny head nestling to her breast? Knowing her first being an outcast while yours was safe and sound, living over in yearning agony the hours, months and years of separation from the first little soul? Don't you think her weeping proved that the sight of his little baby, welcome, safe, sacred, stirred something else besides memories, something a little better and bigger, and worthier in her? Do you think her first little child's face is not a knife in her heart and can you find it in yours to give the knife an extra twist?

You may say Frances McDonald never gave a man a break. Why then did you submit this question to her? Because down in your heart you know you expect a fair answer, but man like, hate to give a woman credit for anything. Therefore, entirely apart from any preachment I will tell you, in the hope of being a real help to you, that I know whereof I speak. My husband forgave me an unfaithfulness to him after marriage, which is much more serious and unpardonable. Do you think it was easy? Of course, there was pain, and bitterness on both sides. But we won out, got back our illusions, our happiness, our respect, raised several wonderful children. Our home is intact instead of shattered. Why? Because we saw the main thing, the real thing in life and in each other, strove for the good and put down the bad. Go and do likewise. Let your wife prove to you how she can rise above this mistake. She was brave to tell you. Up to date you haven't fallen. When and if you do, you'll go down on your knees and weep on her bosom and forget your own fault. And, oh how welcome you'll find that forgiveness which to you now is only a meaningless word!

And the little child! What would you be to blast a little child's chances by being a stumbling block in its path, denying it a father and mother? Stop pitying yourself, give your little family a chance and you will find the happiness you seek!

"MAGDALEN."

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

WHEN GROWING HEATHER.

HEATHER has become very popular of late. We do not see much of it in October, but in a few weeks we will see it in all the florists' windows.

It has much to recommend it. First, it comes from Scotland and is surrounded with much of the folklore of the Scots. The heather that decorates the Scottish hills, commemorates in its name the effort of the Christians to convert the Picts. When the latter were visited by armed missionaries who ordered them to cease the worship of false gods, the Picts gave battle, and the plants that were bedewed by the blood of the heathen became the heathen or "heather," for short. Then aside from the romance which surrounds it, its quaintness makes an appeal to any one seeking a plant that is a bit unusual and, as a third asset, it is easily managed, which makes it practical for house use.

The following rules are for the benefit of those who tell me they have heather plants left over from last season and also for those who may be growing it for the first time. Old plants will soon be beginning to make new growth. When they do they must be trimmed back rather severely. Unless this is done they will become too tall. Then the sides should be trimmed so the air can circulate freely.

Heather has one known enemy which must be controlled. This is the red spider, an insect, which in the case of heather, can only be controlled by a weekly spraying of some nicotine preparation or any other insecticide your seedman may recommend.

Heather will do well in an eastern or northern window. It requires water whenever you see the surface of the soil in the pot is dry. Always keep the surface of the soil quite loose.

When the spring comes and you plant your heather in the open, prepare the soil carefully, adding plenty of leaf mold and humus. Most growers use little manure with heather, and many believe that it should never be used. During the coldest months of the year mulch the plants with a light covering of leaves. Plants in the open should also be top-dressed once or twice a season with equal parts of soil, sand and peat moss. In the house a plant of heather will remain in bloom from Christmas until Easter, and in the open from July 1 until September.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Lenief makes this quaint jumper frock of black flat crepe and accordeon pleated white georgette.

HERE comes another sports fashion that causes me to warn you, in a cautious whisper, to be careful! This sports fashion is the return to the knitted, windbreaker type jacket for sports suits, to be worn either as a blouse, if it has a high neck, or a jacket, if it's open down the front. And this windbreaker type jacket, my deahs, is knitted in broad and vividly contrasting stripes, so beware! Beware!

There's nothing more youthful than gayly striped sweaters and things—and nothing more terrible on the heavy or mature woman. For a long time there was the belief that if vertical or diagonal bold stripes were used, the effect on large women would be flattering. That's one of those theories that explode at the touch of a Fashun Cricket's little finger. Diagonal or vertical stripes are flattering, if they're subtle stripes, but if not they are the shameless, wide, contrasting stripes which you will see on winter sports jackets. And, as some of these stripes are horizontal ones, you will see what your dangers and pitfalls will be.

Then, there's another thing—these windbreaker jackets are 25 inches long instead of the 27 or 29 inch length we are used to in our sports jackets of the belted variety. This further shortens and heavies-up the silhouette, you see, and is one more reason why you have to be a real, honest-to-goodness young girl before you fall into the spell of gay color and saucy insouciance which these windbreakers undeniably have. But if you're not sure of yourself or your inches, do, I beg, stick to your plain and belted jackets!

* * * *

Jumper frocks are o-o-o-o-oh, so smart, my deahs, and when they're combined with accordeon pleated georgette, they are irresistible! Lenief has designed one of the most charming and quaint jumper frocks that I've seen in many a day, so I decided to sketch it for you today and share my conviction! It is of heavy black flat crepe, the hips incrusted in zigzag points and the bodice loose in a sort of bolero effect. The vestee and puffed sleeves are accordeon pleated white georgette, and the belt, in a flat bow, is of cire ribbon. And don't you love the way the whipped-creamy puffed sleeves tuck into the plain, tight black crepe lower sleeves?

If you fall before the lure of a jumper frock, do remember this warning, my dahr-lings! If a jumper dress isn't distinguished by some smart and unusual features, it's just an awkward and unbecoming frock for any woman.

* * * *

And not the least of the charms of this frock is the little detachable cape which has its own zigzag points to match those on the frock's hip yoke.

What's the smartest combination of materials for autumn wear? Wel-l-l-l-l, velt AND! And satin, and lame (lah-may) and peau d'ange—all depending on when your costume is for, if you see what I mean. But velvet stands supreme for all hours of the day, and by using a velvet skirt which, I promise, won't ever show signs of crushing, and blouses or bodice of these various materials, you'll have a complete wardrobe for very, very little. And the first cost is the one that counts most—your stamped, self-addressed envelope to be sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post, for this week's leaflet, which tells the why and how of it all.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF October 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 1:10 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 7:45 a. m. to 9:10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 4:35 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 10:50 p. m.

The planetary aspects of October 28 are not very hopeful; they reveal an eventful but unlucky day. Events foreign to your own individual efforts will affect you in a strange way. Many changes—business and social—may be safely anticipated. Extreme fluctuations will be the order of the day. The adjustment of family relationships will present many obstacles.

Children born on this October 28 will, after considerable sickness, develop into physical normalcy, and their mentality will be above the average. They will be trustworthy, determined and energetic. Full of sentiment, they will display considerable affection, especially for their kith and kin.

You, if born on October 28, are epicurean in your tastes; the best is none too good for you. This predilection extends to music, literature, comfort, personal appearance and friends. You feel somewhat superior to those around you, and try, in your own way, to live on a higher plane. You find yourself very lonely. You are, by no manner of means a snob, but often, by your aloofness, you convey such an impression. Realizing this condition of affairs and conscious of the views of others, you make honest efforts from time to time to become democratic, but then you are accused of patronizing.

You are affectionate, emotional and sentimental. If a woman, you are somewhat of a flirt. You have a wide range of interests, have a retentive memory, and a fine power of generalization. Magnanimous and generous, you are fair in all your dealings, and your sense of superiority has never succeeded in dulling your inherent shrewdness.

You have a good business head, and very few opportunities pass you by. You generally manage to exploit them. Your horoscope indicates a successful career, but rather a lonely life, as few will understand the underlying principles of your character, or appreciate that inborn faculty which prevents you being adaptable and a good mixer.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

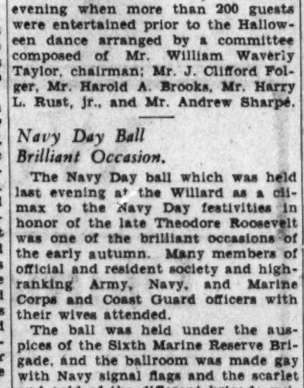
CONCEDING A TRICK.

WITH the practical certainty of taking 10 tricks, with 5 of these tricks Aces or Kings accompanied by Aces, as well as a long and solid trump suit, any good Contract player will open with a Forcing bid of two in a suit. When partner, instead of making the anticipated, but disappointing, response of two notrump, shows strength, either by supporting the suit, bidding three notrump showing at least 1-½ honor-tricks, or bids another suit, then you have justifiable hopes of Slam. Such is the story of today's hand.

South—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♠	Pass	3NT(1)	Pass
6♠(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North lacks adequate support for South's bid, but he does have 3 solid tricks in support of a declaration, therefore, the Jump bid in no-trump.

2—While South realizes the possibility, and, in fact, extreme probability that part of North's bid is strength in the club suit, his bid for a Slam can not be seriously criticized.

Against the contract of six spades, West opened the Queen of diamonds South, as he studied Dummy's cards in conjunction with his own, momentarily regretted his moderation in stopping at six spades rather than bidding the Grand Slam with its 750 points additional bonus. He laid down the Ace of spades, hoping that both East and West would follow. West obliged, but East showed up void of the suit.

Now South had occasion to study his combined holdings carefully. His entry into the Dummy, through utilizing the third trump, had vanished, and if South had not been a good player he would have hopelessly led out the trumps and conceded the defeat of his contract. However, this South was a good player, and to the third round, instead of leading a winning trump, he deliberately selected the lowest trump. West was placed in a difficult situation. He recognized the purpose behind the play, as he knew that South could win all his trumps without conceding a single trick in that suit. South must be void of clubs. However, even though this were so, the knowledge was of no value to West. To refuse to win the "Greek gift" would merely increase South's honor score by 50 points—the value of the extra trick.

West, therefore, won the second trump trick and continued the diamond suit. South won this trick with the King, led the 6 of spades, which was overtaken with Dummy's 8, and on the Ace, King and Queen of clubs he discarded his three losing hearts.

It is a striking and unusual feature of this deal that, even though West had chosen his singleton heart as his Opening lead, the contract of six spades could not have been defeated for the reason that West, permitted to win a trump trick, could not have again led a heart. However, in actual play there would be few Declarers who, against a heart opening, would venture upon the perilous course of surrendering a trump trick unnecessarily, hoping to find that the Opening lead had been a singleton.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—What is psychic bidding?

Answer—Camouflage defense bidding, used chiefly to prevent opponents from bidding game or Slam. It is dangerous—T.N.T.—but with a partner who is keen at interference, reasonably safe. At times it is used to conceal real strength, hoping for a Double by opponents.

Ness, at Annapolis, before returning to Kansas City.

Capt. and Mrs. W. D. Puleston, of 2434 Belmont road, are at the St. Regis Hotel in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Fead and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Macdonald, of Detroit, are guests at the Shoreham.

Mrs. W. S. Sanders, of Wytheville, Va., is passing a few days at the Dodge, accompanied by her son, Mr. Richard Sanders, and by Miss Virginia Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rose, of Rutherford, N. J., who are guests at the Dodge, are accompanied by Mrs. Edith Gordon, also of Rutherford.

Autumnal colors graced the dining room of the University Club last evening when more than 200 guests were entertained prior to the Hallowe'en dance arranged by a committee composed of Mr. William Waverly Taylor, chairman; Mr. J. Clifford Folger, Mr. Harold A. Brooks, Mr. Harry L. Rust, jr., and Mr. Andrew Sharpe.

Navy Day Ball Brilliant Occasion.

The Navy Day ball which was held last evening at the Willard as a climax to the Navy Day festivities in honor of the late Theodore Roosevelt was one of the brilliant occasions of the early autumn. Many members of official and resident society and high-ranking Army, Navy, and Marine Corps and Coast Guard officers with their wives attended.

The ball was held under the auspices of the Sixth Marine Reserve Brigade, and the ballroom was made gay with Navy signal flags and the scarlet and gold of the different brigade guidons.

In the receiving line were Senator Simeon D. Fess, Mrs. Hoggatt Clopton, Mrs. Joseph J. Staley, Mrs. Harry E. Hull, Mrs. James J. Lenihen, Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson, Mrs. Moncure Burke Berg, Mrs. Herbert Davis Vogel, Mrs. John Edward Fowler, Mrs. Harry N. Payne, and Mrs. Jack Marshall.

Among the several dinners which were given preceding the ball was that of Mrs. Hoggatt Clopton, at which the guests were Lieut. Col. Joseph Jarlathe Staley, commanding the Sixth Marine Reserve, and Mrs. Staley and others. Her guests in her box at the ball included Brig. Gen. C. R. Krauthoff, Brig. Gen. William A. Glassford, Maj. and Mrs. Chester L. Fordney, Capt. and Mrs. Ery M. Spencer, Capt. and Mrs. James F. Moriarty, Commissioner General of Immigration and Mrs. Harry E. Hull, Judge and Mrs. Paul Myron Linebarger, Mr. and Mrs. David D. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson, Mrs. James J. Lenihen, of Panama; Lieut. Driggs, New York; Lieut. Harry Leventine, U. S. N.; Mr. Winton Elliott, Mrs. John Edward Fowler, and Miss Marion Liebold, of Detroit, Mich.

Dr. and Mrs. Don S. Knowlton also entertained at dinner, the guests being Dr. ad Mrs. Custus Lee Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Benton, Dr. Hugo Einstein, Miss Mary Mayhew, Dr. and Mrs. William M. Ballinger, Dr. and Mrs. Russell J. McNitt, Dr. and Mrs. J. Preston Haynes and Dr. and Mrs. G. Victor Simpson.

Among the boxholders were Maj. and Mrs. Harvey L. Miller, who had as their guests Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, and Mrs. Billard, while in other boxes were Lieut. and Mrs. George Littlehales, Capt. and Mrs. Michael Kelly, Lieut. and Mrs. Collins and Lieut. and Mrs. Peter Hazen.

Also Capt. Harman Newcomb, Maj. Earl Lane and Maj. Vincent Stack. Among the Washington debutantes who attended the ball were Miss Teresa Saul, Miss Marbury Beall, Miss Olga Crave, Miss Dorothy Gould Fowler, Miss Margaret Gibbons, Miss Winifred Jacobs, Miss Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, Miss Frances Matthews, Miss Rose Page, Miss Betty Peelle, Miss Isabel Perry, Miss Jane Thorpe, Miss Anne Wyant, Miss Louise Gwynn, Miss Jean Woodson, Miss Elizabeth Shouse, Miss Pansy Bloomer, Miss Lucille Elliott, Miss Miriam Dunlop, Miss Sidney Thompson and Miss Patsy Douglas.

The third annual Halloween ball masque will take place at the Mayflower Saturday. Receiving the guests that night will be Mrs. Adam M. Wyant, Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, Mrs. Frank D. Berrien, Mrs. Thomas W. Page, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Mrs. William Dent Beall, Mrs. Gregg C. Birdsall, Mrs. John E. Fowler, Mrs. C. Willard Hayes, Mrs. Millard West and Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman. The guests will be introduced by Lieut. James White, U. S. A., and Mr. Latimer Snowdon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wilson, of New York City, who have been visiting in Richmond, motored to Washington and are guests at the Shoreham. They are visiting their two sons, Mr. Eugene S. Wilson, jr., and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. Robert W. Wilson, who was recently married to Miss Janet Mahoney, of New York.

Miss Janet Richards has returned to Washington after a four months absence.

Dinner, Yorktown Play, By D. A. R. State Club.

The State Officers Club, District of Columbia Daughters of the American Revolution, will give a dinner at Pierce Hall on Saturday evening, at the close of which they will be entertained by a play given by members of the club in celebration of the sesquicentennial at Yorktown.

The scene will be laid at Mount Vernon, and will portray George Washington's return to his home immediately after the surrender of Cornwallis.

The play was written and is being directed by Mrs. Tonnis J. Holzberg, and those taking part will be: Mrs. David D. Caldwell, Mrs. Jean J. Labat, Mrs. Joseph H. Wheat, Mrs. H. H. Thompson, Mrs. Edward Ryan, Mrs. C. C. Haig, Mrs. T. J. Faris, Mrs. G. M. Brumbaugh, Mrs. Jasper Beall, Mrs. Jason Waterman, Miss Helen Stout, Miss Lillian Cheneworth and Miss Harriet Chase.

While the dinner will be limited to members of the club, regents and other guests have been invited to enjoy the play which will immediately follow the dinner. Guests will be received by the president of the State Officers Club, Mrs. C. C. Coombs.

The Women's City Club has arranged a dinner for tonight at 6:30 o'clock, when Col. Wilbur S. Tupper, internationally known as a student of Spanish-American history and customs, will be guest speaker. Col. Tupper's lecture, "West of the Andes," will be illustrated with colored slides. Mrs. William Lee Corbin will preside.

Among those subscribing are Mrs. A. B. Allen, Mrs. Jennie O. Berliner, Miss Florence Brook, Miss Mary L. Brown, Mrs. Marion S. Cake, Miss Anna L. Dunlap, Mrs. Nellie G. Florence, Mrs. Laurence Fortune, Miss Mary E. Gott, Miss Violet A. Hambleton, Miss Bessie P. Howlette, Miss Beryl Ingram, Miss Jessie G. Lane, Miss Meda Ann Martin, Ellis Meredith, Miss Elva McNamara, Mrs. Gertrude C. Notes, Mrs. Bertha L. Owens, Mrs. E. A. Quintard, Dean Grace Hays Riley, Mrs. Paulina B. Sabin, Mrs. A. B. Stewart, Miss Alice S. Trefts, Miss E. Kensett Vail, Miss Margaret L. Vail, Mrs. M. L. Ward, Miss Lucy Watt, Mrs. Louis D. Wight, Miss Josephine Willis, Miss Sara Woodward and Miss Eunice Wright.

Maj. A. R. Harris entertained a party at the newly opened Club Michel, Monday evening in honor of Col. and Mrs. A. Smith. Others in the party included Col. and Mrs. R. Foy, Maj. and Mrs. J. B. Anderson, Col. and Mrs. F. Barrows, Mrs. H. J. Weeks, Col. and Mrs. C. P. George, Maj. and Mrs. C. A. Ross. Mrs. George is Vice President Curtis' daughter.

Their table was decorated with colorful deep-red roses and chrysanthemums, which blended with the lighting effects and soft, rhythmic music.

Miss McConnell Wed To Thomas H. Carolan.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Hall McConnell, daughter of Mrs. John McConnell, and Mr. Thomas Harold Carolan took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in St. Stephen's Catholic Church, the Rev. George Harrington officiating. The altar was decorated with palms and bronze chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles McConnell. She was dressed in brown boucle cloth suit with blue fox collar. The hat and suede pumps were in matching shades of brown and her shoulder corsage was of orchids.

The bride's sister, Miss Rosemary McConnell, the maid of honor, wore an afternoon dress of brown velvet made along princess lines with collar and cuffs of Brussels lace and small brown hat with matching shoes and gloves. Her shoulder corsage was of ferns and tallaman roses.

The bridegroom had for his best man Mr. James J. Winters, of Providence, R. I., and the ushers were Mr. Jerome Carroll and Mr. Paul Albu.

Mrs. Carolan is a graduate of Sacred Heart Convent and a member of the Chi Sigma Sorority. Mr. Carolan is a graduate of Columbia College, of Dubuque, Iowa, and also a graduate of Georgetown Law School. He is engaged in the practice of law in Decorah, Iowa, where the couple will make their home after a ten days' honeymoon in Chicago. Mrs. Carolan was the recipient of a number of showers and parties given in her honor prior to her marriage.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

NEEDED SUNSHINE.

THE number of hours of sunshine per year varies in different parts of the world, Dr. V. E. Levine, writing in the Archives of Physical Therapy, says that Phoenix has more sunshine than any other of about 50 cities located in various parts of the world. It has 3,752 hours of sunshine a year, as compared with 1,086 for Glasgow, and 1,227 for London. The record given for some other cities in the western hemisphere is as follows:

Kingston, Jamaica, 3,160; Port au Prince, Haiti, 3,056; San Diego, 3,049; Tampa, 2,948; Denver, 2,946; San Francisco, 2,878; Honolulu, 2,840; San Juan, Porto Rico, 2,740; Bismarck, N. Dak., 2,700; Chicago, 2,632; Washington, 2,598; New York, 2,557; New Orleans, 2,510; Spokane, 2,492; Colon, Canal Zone, 2,413; Port of Spain, Trindad, 2,245; Ancon, Canal Zone, 2,155; Portland, 2,095; Toronto, 2,048; Seattle, 2,022. Most European cities have fewer hours of sunshine than those given above.

Duration is not the only standard of measurement to be applied to sunshine. Dr. Levine illustrates that point as follows: "New York has approximately the same number of hours of sunshine during the winter months of February and March as has London during the months of June, July and August. Nevertheless, rickets develops during the winter in New York, whereas it undergoes healing in London during the summer. The sunshine, however, differs in quality and intensity, and that of London summer has a greater percentage of the radiation specific in rickets."

There is another disease that results from deficiency of exposure to sunshine. It is osteomalacia, or softening of the bones, and it is especially apt to develop in mature persons. In India, where some follow a caste custom called purdah, there is much osteomalacia. It is the women, especially, who are forbidden by purdah to allow sunlight to strike them, and it is among the women of the castes who practice purdah that osteomalacia is most prevalent.

All we know of osteomalacia teaches us the need of plenty of sunshine to prevent softening of an adult's bones. Indian experience shows that customs with respect to the use of sunshine must be taken into consideration also. Certain features of climate enter into the question. If the winter climate is very cold the people will not go out in the sunshine in those months in which they need it most. If the summer weather is very hot some people will stay too much in the shade.

The amount of moisture and dust in the air are factors of some importance, aside from their direct relation to luminosity and radioactivity of the light.

And, finally, topography is of some slight importance. A city on a hill top or on a mountain side may have light of a somewhat different quality as compared with a city located in a hemmed-in valley.

BITTER ALOES AND WHISKY.

Mrs. D. E. P. writes: In my experience, a dose of aloes taken twice daily for about a week will cure pin worms. I put 5 cents worth of bitter aloes in one-half pint of whisky. Of this I take one teaspoonful night and morning.

REPLY.

You are using an irregular dose of tincture of aloes. "Five cents' worth" is not a standard amount. And then, whisky is illegal, irregular, expensive and dangerous. Why not buy the standard tincture which all druggists sell?

FASTING AND INDIGESTION.

H. C. writes: I have heard that fasting is a sure cure for indigestion. Is that correct?

REPLY.

No.

Think Without Thinking Urged by College Head

Houston, Tex. (U.P.).—Colleges should teach their students to "think without thinking," in the opinion of Dr. Edgar Odell Lovett, president of Rice Institute here.

"By thinking without thinking I mean," explanied Dr. Lovett, "that powers of perceiving, remembering, imagining and reasoning should be so trained to the will that these powers come promptly into play with the efficiency and precision of a smooth-running machine.

"When a student learns to think straight without thinking he is ready to accept the gospel of hard work."

Fifth Avenue Fashions

YOUTHFUL PAJAMAS.

You'll adore these cute pajamas with short sleeved bolero jacket.

The buttoned-down-the-back, long-waisted bodice with partial belt arrangement accenting the normal waistline is so youthfully slimming.

The wide-legged trousers give the appearance of a skirt.

A rayon novelty crepe in vivid red made the original. The accompanying jacket is plain red. It's adorable and so inexpensive to copy it.

Style No. 467 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 4⅞ yards of 39-inch material with one-half yard of 35-inch contrasting and 6½ yards of binding. The separate jacket takes but three-fourths yard of 35-inch material.

Sapphire blue crepe silk with orangy-red sheer velvet jacket is stunning.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

WORK INAUGURATED ON BRIDGE APPROACH

Arlington Will Place Steam Shovel on Clearing Job Today.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Work of clearing the 80-foot right of way for the Washington street approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge was begun yesterday by the county road forces. The steam shovel will be on the project today.

Operations were started at a point where the road meets the old Georgetown-Alexandria pike, better known as the "Oil road," and will continue for a distance of approximately 4,750 feet to Military road.

Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, in whose district the road is located, said yesterday he expects work to be started by the latter part of the year on that section of the road connecting Military road and Wilson boulevard.

Candidates for sheriff, trial justice and Commonwealth's attorney and House of Delegates spoke at a mass meeting last night before an audience which crowded the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall. The meeting was held under auspices of the Jefferson District Citizens Association.

Those for the sheriff's office speaking were Sheriff Howard B. Fields, seeking his third term; A. C. Clements, Edward Duncan and Arthur C. Schulze. Those for trial justice, B. M. Hedrick, Bryan Gordon, H. W. Dudley, W. Thomas French, M. G. Ivy, J. H. Brewer, jr., and Walter U. Varney. For Commonwealth's attorney, William C. Gloth, who seeks his third term; Amos C. Crounse, Lawrence Douglas, Emery N. Hosmer and Clarence R. Ahalt. For House of Delegates, Hugh Reid, who is seeking his third term.

The last of the series of political mass meetings, sponsored by the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, will be held this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock in Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse. Candidates for the county board will speak following a luncheon.

A Fields-for-Sheriff Club was organized yesterday at Ballston, with the election of J. H. Marcey as president. Other officers are H. C. Crack, vice president; Walter H. Sealock, secretary, and H. E. Bitting, treasurer. R. S. Post and Robert Crack were elected members of the publicity committee.

Having worked out what is considered an adequate plan to aid unemployed, the special committee from the Arlington Post No. 139, American Legion, the Business and Professional Woman's Club, the Kiwanis, Rotary and Monarch Service clubs askks that those seeking work file applications, mailing them in care of postoffice box No. 4921.

Dissatisfaction over failure of Arlington County authorities to resurface Spruce street was voiced last night at the monthly meeting of the Lyon Village Citizen's Association at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Livingston.

Robert N. Anderson, chairman of the committee on streets and sidewalks, was instructed to take up the matter with Supervisor of Arlington District B. M. Hedrick.

for almost a year incline to the view that with business recovery during the next year the Government might come within perhaps $250,000,000 of balancing the 1933 budget with the prevailing rates. The fiscal year 1934, then would be approached with an increase of something less than $2,000,000,000 in the national debt for the three years 1931-1933, which still would leave the Nation well ahead of the war-debt retirement schedule laid down in 1922.

Prospect of Payments.

Another factor arguing against any immediate attempt at tax revision, by those who favor increasing the debt, is that Congress can not know during the next session what will be the long-time prospect in regard to payments from Europe. With the reopening of the whole question of reparations and debts in immediate prospect, not even those who have all the present figures at their disposal are in a position to say what amount of domestic taxes will be necessary to make a balanced budget for the fiscal year 1933. Nor will this figure be known until European debt payments are again put on some schedule after the expiration of the Hoover moratorium next summer.

In view of this situation, some who have been called to the Treasury round-table discussions have expressed themselves in favor of a long-time plan of tax adjustment, to be worked out step by step as domestic and foreign developments appear to justify.

Legislative Difficulties.

Serious legislative difficulties in the path of a selective sales tax have been suggested by several important trade groups since the suggeston was made officially last week that such levies appeared to offer the most promising source of new revenue. Almost every one appears agreeable to a sales tax on the other fellow's product; but no line acknowledges that its own product could stand the tax under present conditions, and many lines already have prepared briefs against it.

Revenue experts fear that in this situation sound principles of taxation likely would be sacrificed in a series of legislative compromises.

The carefully planned long-time program, on the other hand, is offered as promising gradual tax revision along scientific lines without shock to reviving business confidence. While such a program was being enacted, it is pointed out, the business world would be free to make whatever fiscal expansion might be called for by improving trade, without endeavoring to deal with an unknown quantity in taxes.

ENDS LONG HITCH-HIKE TRIP

A throng of admiring companions and two happy parents last night gathered at Union Station to greet Carl V. Brumback, jr., 13 years old, who slipped from his home in Cherrydale, Va., last July to hitch-hike across the continent. After completing the trip in seven days and spending the summer with relatives in California, he returned last night to continue his studies at Washington-Lee High School in Arlington County.

Force of Arms Cost Man $7 When 2 Women Rob Him

Mattram Donalson, 1909 I street northwest, proprietor of a cider stand on Georgia avenue extended, just north of Silver Spring, Md., was held up with force of arms yesterday, although there were no weapons exhibited.

Two women visited his stand yesterday and engaged him in conversation. One of them grabbed him and held him in her arms while the other went through his pockets and cleaned them of about $7, he reported to Corpl. George Windhem, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County police.

The two women are believed to have been gypsies and a lookout was sent to all county and Washington police to look out for them as well as the car in which they were riding.

Driver of Death Auto Adjudged to Be Insane

Walter Bayliss, of Alexandria, held for action of the grand jury of Fairfax County circuit court on a charge of manslaughter, has been found insane by a lunacy commission composed of Drs. F. M. Brooks and Ford Swetnam, of Fairfax, Va., and Dr. Clyde West, of Alexandria. The commission recommended he be sent to the Hospital for Criminal Insane at Marion, Va.

Bayliss was driver of a car which struck and killed William Brown, of Washington, on September 27, as he stood by a parked car at Accotink on the Richmond highway.

League of G. O. P. Women to Meet.

The executive committee of the League of Republican Women of Arlington County will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of the league's president, Mrs. Frances A. Harris, at Lyon Park.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

ALEXANDRIA MASONS CONFER 21ST DEGREE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The second day of the fall reunion of the Scottish Rite Masons ended yesterday with the conferring of the twenty-first degree. Last night the twentieth degree was conferred entirely by railroad men, the venerable master in this degree being J. C. Crump, with G. H. Walters as director. Others participating were Harry Leak, senior warden; B. D. Edwards, junior warden; J. H. Kretchmer, orator; W. M. Poindexter, treasurer; W. A. Royster, secretary; J. C. Shaw, expert; F. G. Faulconer, assistant expert; John C. Cox, master of ceremonies; J. L. Scruggs, bearer of lights, and S. E. Wade, organist. The twenty-first degree was conferred last night also, and at 6 o'clock dinner was served in the George Mason Hotel.

The program for today includes the conferring of the twenty-second to thirtieth degrees, and tomorrow, the last day of the reunion, the thirty-first and thirty-second degrees will be conferred.

Mrs. Alice Virginia Lyons, 72 years old, widow of Philip Lyons, died yesterday at her home, 309 South Lee street. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Williams and Mrs. Marguerite Lee, of this city, and three sons, Ezekiel and Robert Lyons, of Alexandria, and William Lyons, of Atlanta, Ga., and also a brother, Capt. William Davis. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon, from the home, conducted by the Rev. Ernest W. Aaron, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Leonard Pasley, 23 years old, who has made his home for the past two years with his cousin, Mrs. Alexander Roseberry, 119 Rosecrest avenue, died Monday night at the Alexandria Hospital. The deceased was formerly organist at Emmanuel Episcopal Church. He was a native of Bramwell, W. Va., and the body was sent to that place last night, where the funeral will be held from the home of his mother, Mrs. Fannie Pasley.

Kensington Firm Gets Glenmont School Job

Contract for construction of a one-story, three-room school building at Glenmont, Md., has been awarded to A. C. Warthen & Sons, of Kensington, Md., it was announced yesterday by Dr. Edwin W. Broome, superintendent of Montgomery County schools. The school will be of brick and limestone construction and will house elementary grades.

Three other school projects are nearly ready for submission to contractors for bids. One of these is the revised plan for Chevy Chase School, for which $100,000 has been appropriated. Others are Fairland School, to cost $35,000, and additions to Germantown School, to cost $14,000. Plans were drawn by Architect H. W. Cutler, of Washington.

GORDON HEARS ROW OVER SEATING SMITH

Justice Promises Senate Quick Decision on Right to Change Mind.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate took one of its arguments with President Hoover to court yesterday to determine whether it, like a woman, has a right to change its mind.

George Otis Smith's seat as chairman of the Federal Power Commission is at stake. After confirming his nomination the Senate voted for reconsideration and rejected the appointment. Meanwhile, Smith had assumed office and President Hoover refused to remove him.

Davis Cites Rule.

John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, speaking for the Senate, contended that body was well within its rights in confirming Smith's nomination last December and then rejecting it after the Christmas holidays. He called attention to a Senate rule permitting a motion for reconsideration within two "legislative days" after action is taken.

On the other hand, George Wharton Pepper, former senator from Pennsylvania, insisted that when the Senate confirmed Smith and notified President Hoover, it was without power to take further action unless the nomination was returned by the Chief Executive. This President Hoover refused to do, on the ground that the Senate was attempting to invade his executive authority.

A brief filed by Erwin N. Griswold, a Justice Department attorney, in behalf of himself, Attorney General Mitchell and Solicitor General Thacher, contended that the Senate "gave full, unconditional, constitutional consent to the appointment which was made and that is the end of the matter."

Walsh Is Present.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, author of the Senate resolution directing the court proceedings, was present in the courtroom. In the interim between Mr. Smith's confirmation and rejection he and two other commissioners ousted Executive Secretary F. E. Bonner, Solicitor Charles A. Russell and William V. King, chief accountant of the power commission.

Dismissal of Mr. Russell and Mr. King aroused the ire of the senators, who contended they were removed because of their fight against fictitious valuation claims of power companies.

Mr. King later was reinstated.

Justice Gordon took the case under advisement with the announcement he would render his verdict at the "earliest possible moment." Regardless of how he decides the issue, it will be carried to the Supreme Court for a final opinion.

Community House Holds Its Tenth Anniversary

The Community House of the Mother Child Center Association celebrated its tenth anniversary with a housewarming at its new home, 501 Second street southwest, last night. A large number of guests, both colored and white, took advantage of the opportunity to inspect this new settlement house, which is operated for the colored people of that community.

The house was thrown open for inspection from 7 to 8 o'clock, with members of the staff acting as guides and explaining the work of the various departments. From 8 to 9 o'clock an interesting program was offered by the members of the settlement, with short talks by some of the visitors, including William J. Plunkert, assistant director of the Chest.

Survey Proves Overwhelming Preference for G-E Refrigerator

FACTS That Speak for Themselves

Based on a cross-sectional survey of Washington homes, the following facts stand out:

1. The sales of General Electric Refrigerators to private homes since the end of 1928 equal those of all other makes of electrical refrigerators combined.

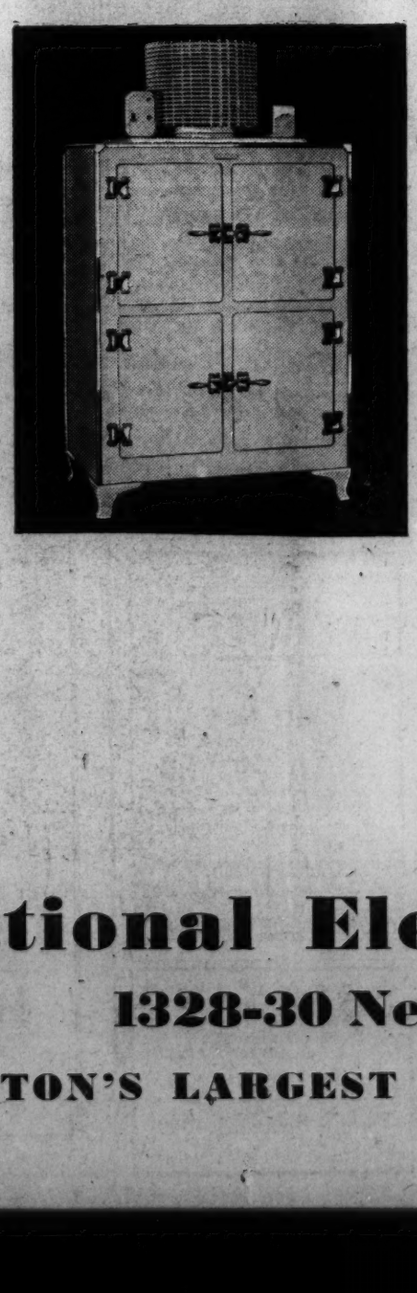
2. People buy General Electric Refrigerators because they say "GENERAL ELECTRIC IS BEST!"

3. When asked, "If you were going to buy one today, what electric refrigerator would you buy?"—more people said "GENERAL ELECTRIC" than all other makes combined.

IN the long run the public finds the best product. Claims, assertions, sales-talk and promises can not blind the public to FACTS.

During the last three years General Electric sales to Washington homeowners have equalled those of all other makes combined . . . And this tremendous preference for GE is steadily growing! MORE are being sold today than ever before!

These are FACTS—proved by a survey that reached hundreds upon hundreds of men and women right here in the City of Washington.



● Here is a model for small families: Makes 96 ice cubes or 9 lbs. of ice at a freezing. It has one rubber and three metal trays. Chrome plate hardware. Two sliding shelves. Moderately priced for the average small home.

● This model affords generous food storage capacity for homes where floor space is limited. Double chilling trays are provided for frozen desserts or extra ice. It makes 12 lbs. of ice at a freezing. One rubber and three metal freezing trays.

Not only has the GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator sold—it has made good! The thousands of GE users in the Capital City are satisfied users. They stand by the GE and the National Electrical Supply Co. They tell their friends. They have built up an overwhelming weight of public preference backed solidly by an unapproachable record of fine performance. When asked "What refrigerator did you buy, and why did you buy it?"—the answer came back in tremendous preponderance, "GENERAL ELECTRIC, BECAUSE I THINK IT IS BEST!"

Why Washington Prefers GE

There are good reasons for this great swing to General Electric Refrigerators. Men like the quiet, positive action of the Monitor Top—permanently sealed in oil. Women like the sliding shelves that make everything easy to reach. The famous all-steel cabinet—rigid, warp-proof and roomy—is a feature that appeals to every one. The acid-resisting porcelain interior is proof against spots, stains and damage. The three-year guarantee means that you can buy with safety and in perfect confidence. The low operating costs and the worthwhile savings in food make your GE one of the few really profitable things in your home.

Your own judgment and the overwhelming judgment of the public will tell you that the GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR is the BEST TO BUY—that it COSTS LESS TO OWN.

No home today is complete—no home is modern, unless it is equipped with a General Electric Refrigerator. Renters and buyers expect to see the familiar monitor top in the kitchen. Builders of new houses and new apartments are installing hundreds of General Electric Refrigerators.

The PERMANENCE of the GE Refrigerator, with its enduring steel cabinet and its oil-sealed mechanism, makes it an investment of the soundest nature. It is a necessary fixture in your home. It is safe. It is certain. It is lasting. It carries what few other investments give you—a three-year guarantee.

Investigate TODAY. Do not permit your family to go without this necessary safeguard to health. Come to our show rooms at once. Inspect the many different models. Learn the easy terms on which GE is sold. See the outstanding advantages which have made General Electric FIRST IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON'S LARGEST DISTRIBUTORS OF ELECTRICAL MERCHANDISE

STOCK PRICES DROP SLIGHTLY AT CLOSE

Rails Reduce Early Losses Despite Gloomy Reports on Dividends.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—A rally in wheat today failed to arouse much enthusiasm in a stock market which had to contend with a series of poor earnings statements and some unfavorable dividend actions.

Shares slid off during the morning, tried to advance in the afternoon when closing grain prices at Chicago became available, and then sagged again, although final quotations were above the lowest. Losses in most instances were moderate, but well distributed among all major groups. Rails looked somewhat more bedraggled than either the industrials or utilities. Extreme declines in the carriers ranged from 2 to 6 points, touching bottom after the Illinois Central dividend omission was announced. The market was dull all day, sales totaling 1,339,630 shares.

United States Government securities firmed, perhaps because the market was less willing to look for a rediscount rate increase this week, but other sections of the bond list inclined lower.

Steel Deficit Larger.

Wall street had anticipated a poor third quarter earnings statement by United States Steel, although the size of the deficit was larger than had been looked for in some quarters. The wage reduction did not become effective until October 1, so the financial community must wait until late in January to see what effect the cut will have on income.

Meanwhile, the steel reviews are willing to be more optimistic. American Metal Market said that although evidence was inconclusive, "there are further indications that the steel trade is now engaged in rounding a turn and October may be left behind as the low month in steel production." Such a development would be against the seasonal trend.

In stocks, net losses averaged 1.8 points, which put the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite at 82.7, against the year's low of 70, made on October 5. Representative issues off a point or more included U. S. Steel, American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Kennecott, North American, Consolidated Gas and Montgomery Ward. Numerous specialties fell in the same range. Some were heavier.

Rails Cut Losses.

Rails reduced their losses. Illinois Central, which had been down 5, closed 3⅜ lower. Union Pacific, holding a large block of the former stock, dropped 6 and finished 5 down. Atchison's maximum loss was nearly 5, of which it recovered about 2 points. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven and Pennsylvania—the last faces a dividend meeting tomorrow—closed 1 to more than 2 off. Norfolk & Western, whose directors voted the usual $2 extra with the regular, yielded 4, but regained three-quarters of the loss.

Railroad earnings for September made dismal reading, and for some lines the decline from 1930 is the largest of the year. The rate case, which moved expeditiously to the decision stage, is encountering delays on the pooling question, and the time is getting short for much effective relief in 1930. Loadings in the week ended October 17 were off 2,145 cars from the preceding week, a comparatively small change.

Wheat was boosted 2¼ to 2½ cents a bushel on the strength of reports that France was arranging for large purchases from Farm Board holdings and might be in the market for more. Corn closed with gains of better than a cent, while cotton rose 60 to 80 cents net.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—In the face of stock market weakness, grains late today rose bouyantly, with wheat soaring above the season's top price record. Reports were current that France had practically completed negotiations for the purchase of 20,000,000 bushels of United States Government sponsored wheat holdings, and that the French would need to import 50,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels before next August. Advices from abroad said the wheat Russia had been shipping of late was of extra poor quality, unadapted for milling.

Wheat closed strong at the day's highest point, 2¼@2¾ cents above yesterday's finish and more than 3 cents a bushel up from today's bottom. Corn closed 1@1½ advanced; oats with ⅝@⅞ gain and provisions unchanged to 7 cents down.

Rapid advances in wheat developed during the final hour of trading and after the pit had become almost bare of offerings as a result of persistent selling earlier. Much of this selling was apparently due to the downward trend of securities, a circumstance which temporarily led to a let up in the aggressive buying that had been a recent conspicuous feature. There were also bearish reports about satisfactory progress of Southern Hemisphere wheat crops with Argentina tendering January shipments at quotations relatively cheaper than United States wheat.

Quickening the subsequent upward rush of wheat prices, however, was word of excessively high temperatures in part of Argentina, 100 degrees and above, ominous of crop damage. Moreover, no rain of consequence was shown in dry sections of domestic wheat territory Southwest, where winter crop seeding has been halted. A further incentive to buyers was announcement that 3,000,000 bushels of United States Farm Board durum wheat had been disposed of to interests Northwest. There were also reports that as many as nineteen tramp steamers were under charter to load grain at Montreal, sixteen more than at this time last year.

Corn and oats were mainly influenced by wheat. Besides, unfavorable weather prevailed over the corn belt, and indications pointed to curtailed receipts of corn.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by weakness of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December, 55⅝@59⅛; May, 60⅛@60¼, 64⅝@64½; July, 61⅜@64⅞. Corn—December, 37⅝@39½; May, 42⅛@42¼, 43¾; July, 45⅝ offers.

BONDS RECORD LOSS IN DULLER TRADING

Declines Are Fractional on Most Issues; Gains Noted on Some Rails.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The bond market turned reactionary today in dull trading. Such losses as occurred were principally fractional.

The downward movement was extensive but not uniform. Liberty and United States Treasury issues were generally lower on a moderate turnover. Such high-grade corporate obligations as Atchison general 4s, American Telephone 5s of 1965, and Duquesne Light 4½s were firm to fractionally higher. American Telephone 5s of 1960, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Series A 4s, and Western Union 5s of 1960 lost fractions.

These issues are not of equal investment rating, but in a general way they are all high-grade bonds, and their irregular fluctuations illustrates the uncertain way in which the market wavered.

Such activity as developed was concentrated pretty much among a few leading issues in railroad, public utility, and foreign loans. The trading in the industrial obligations was even more restricted than in the other groups.

St. Paul 5s of 2000 were one of the most active of the rail issues and held steady. St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978 eased off on a large turnover. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, and New York Central 5s of 2013 dropped about 1 point on a few sales. Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s of 1966 lost about 2 points on heavy sales.

Among the utilities American & Foreign Power 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s of May, 1952, and International Telephone 5s of 1955 lost fractions on active sales. Detroit Edison 4½s of 1961 and Postal Telegraph 5s were moderately higher.

Belgian 7s, Brazilian 6½s of 1926-57, Colombian 6s of October, 1961; San Paulo 7s of 1940, Italian 7s, and Uruguayan 6s lost ground. French 7s and 7½s turned firm.

EASTERN HIGH CONQUERS BUSINESS IN SERIES, 13-6

Stenogs Make First Goal In Vain

Score Touchdown in Series First Time in Two Years.

Eastern Takes Early Lead on Plunge and Pass.

FRIDAY'S GAME.

Tech vs. Central.

PLUNGED for two years into the depths of despond, Business High saw a faint glimmer of glory yesterday afternoon at Central Stadium and scored its first touchdown in the high school series since the last game of the 1928 season, but it was not enough to beat Eastern, which won the ball game by the margin of 13-6.

The epoch score was accomplished midway in the fourth quarter when the scant gathering of 1,000 were stirring to go. An exchange of kicks had given Eastern the ball on its 10-yard line. Boyd kicked out well to midfield, where Cavanaugh received the punt and brought it back to Eastern's 30-yard line. Big "Biff" Flynn roared around end for 11 yards and a first down, on Eastern's 19-yard line. Strasser called for one of Business' spread out plays where the ends go out to the sidelines, and the line itself becomes a compact mass of five players.

Flynn Crashes Line for Touchdown.

Flynn took the ball, knocked down the entire line it seemed, stormed over its collective back and ran the remaining yards through the scattered Eastern secondary defense to give Business' fans something to cheer for for the first time in years. Cavanaugh's pass from a place kick formation was short, and the try for the extra point failed.

But Eastern won the game. Won it after being outplayed and outrushed in the second half, but won it, nevertheless, largely on the strength of its well-played first half, when Courtney was alert enough to recover a Business fumble on the Stenographers' 25-yard line. Palmer took the ball 21 yards on the next play, after several Business tacklers let him get up and run. Bottle-legged Bucky Boyd, quarter back, bucked it across from the 4-yard line, and Mades missed the kick.

Eastern's second and winning touchdown found its source in the start of the second period, when Boyd intercepted Cavanaugh's pass on Business' 40-yard line and ran to the 20 before disappearing beneath a horde of tacklers. Boyd sent Palmer around right end for 5 yards on a neat lateral and then passed to Adams a yard from the goal line. Two Business tacklers drove Adams across the line. Mades booted the best looking placement of the series to make the score 13-0.

Business Passes Up Many Opportunities.

Business missed several valuable chances to score after Eastern's second touchdown in the second period. Led by Flynn, and some good running by Cavanaugh, the threat petered out when Flynn fumbled the ball as he raced over Eastern's 17-yard line. It was recovered by Bernie Lieb, of Eastern. Business' best other chance to score cropped up near the end, after it had scored its epoch touchdown. Eastern received the ball and was checked on its own 20-yard line through some good tackling by Bobby Cooke and Mastromarino. Furr then blocked Boyd's kick, but Cavanaugh fumbled on the Eastern 10-yard line.

Business came back to the 15-yard line after Eastern's kickout before Charlie Mades, Eastern's great tackler, sliced through the tiring Business line to smear Flynn and the other Business backs for three consecutive losses.

Yale Educator Sees Decline of Football With Rise of Interest in Varied Sports

Points to Decrease in Attendance at Grid Games.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The overthrow of football within the next ten years as the "Mighty Monarch" of college sports was predicted today by Dr. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium.

For four decades Dr. Anderson, nationally known organizer and educator of physical training, has watched football at Yale rise from a humble beginning to a sport which has brought more than a million dollars annually into the treasury of the athletic association. And now Dr. Anderson predicts that the very sports, which football has nurtured and supported, will spell the decline of this croesus of athletics.

"Football," he said, "has had its seven fat years and usually seven lean years follow, you know. Like the Greeks and the Romans, the public likes spectacles. That's why football has grown so popular."

Minor Sports Will Share Popularity.

But with the widespread growth of interest among college students in Athletics of all kind, Dr. Anderson said, football will be forced to share its popularity with the so-called minor sports. Development of good football teams by smaller colleges, he predicted, will also result in a reduction of gate receipts.

Football, baseball, track and crew were the only organized sports at the university when Dr. Anderson came to Yale in 1892 as associate director of gymnasium. Now there are sixteen organized branches of sports, each with paid coaches. With the exception of football, all of the sports have ended their season with deficits, which have been wiped off with the revenue derived from football.

"How will these minor sports be financed if football ceases to draw million-dollar gates?" he was asked.

"As the minor sports grow in interest, they will become self-supporting," Dr. Anderson said. "Expenditures for organized sports will also be less lavish.

Points Out Decrease In Attendance.

"We are on the threshold of a new era in athletics. The future will see less emphasis on organized sports and more attention paid to the physical training of the individual student."

Dr. Anderson, pointing out that the demand for tickets for football games has decreased, said this was one of the indications of the waning popularity of football.

"Economic conditions may be responsible for this, but I think it is significant nevertheless. I like football and I believe in football, but I think it has now reached its peak and that it will have to share its popularity with other sports."

Harvard Students Urge Collections for Charity

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27 (A.P.). The Harvard student council, with Football Captain Barry Wood presiding, tonight voted to ask the Harvard Corporation to approve a plan to take up collections for the unemployed among spectators at Harvard's football games with Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Yale.

The action followed a proposal made in an editorial today in the Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

The money taken up in the Harvard sections of the stadium would be pooled and turned over to the overseers who would dispose of it as they saw fit.

The collections from the sections used by followers of the three visiting teams would be turned over to the presidents of the respective institutions for disposal.

$15,000 Tourney To Be Abandoned

La Gorce Club at Miami Will Not Hold Richest Golf Competition.

Miami Beach, Fla., Oct 27 (A.P.). Glenn L. Adams, secretary of La Gorce Golf Club, announced today that the $15,000 La Gorce open tournament, carrying the richest golfing purse in the United States, will not be held in 1932.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Robert E. Harlowe, manager of the tournament bureau of the Professional Golfers Association of America, announced today that the Gasparilla open, new professional tournament with $4,000 in prize money, will be held here February 18 to 21.

He said the tournament would differ from the usual golfing events in that match play instead of medal play would be featured.

Lilly Given Promotion In Greentree Stable

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Marshall Lilly, rated as the turf's outstanding exercise rider, today was promoted to the position of assistant trainer of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable.

In announcing the reorganization of her stable, caused by the death of James Rowe, Mrs. Payne Whitney said Maj. Louis A. Beard will retain his position as general manager of the stable. Willie Brennan, assistant trainer under Rowe, was appointed head trainer last Saturday.

G. W. TO USE USNIK AS BACK

RUDY USNIK, 180-pound sophomore, looms as a sure bet to start at full back when the George Washington Colonials tackle Iowa University's Hawkeyes in Iowa City next Saturday.

Having done bench duty with the varsity, Usnik received little attention from the G. W. coaches until last Friday night, when he played an outstanding game at full back for the freshman eleven against the varsity. On that occasion he was loaned to the yearlings, and he used the opportunity to "show up" some of the varsity players, whose work previously had overshadowed his own efforts.

Usnik was nine-tenths of the freshman offense and defense, his playing on defense being particularly noteworthy. His deadly tackling gave the varsity backs many a jolt. It is due to that perfomance that he will probably hold down the full back position against Iowa, for in this post his effective defensive ability can best be utilized.

Kermit Stewart is another former substitute who appears to have earned a promotion to the varsity line-up. Stewart has been changed from a sub back to a regular guard, and he, too, has pleased the Colonial mentors with his all-round proficiency.

Like Usnik, Stewart is husky. He makes good use of his sturdy body in blocking, and because of his ability in this respect he has been given the assignment of pulling out of the line to head the interference for the ball carrier.

Throngs Pay Tribute At Comiskey's Bier

Chicago, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Large throngs, representing every branch of life, paid final tribute to baseball's "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey, whose body lay in state at his South Side home today.

Young and old and a smattering of baseball's leaders were in the large crowds that streamed by the bier.

The body will lie in state until Thursday morning and all the leaders of the baseball world may be in attendance.

Pallbearers, selected today, were all old friends: Patrick Nash, Judge Henry Horner, William J. Leahy, Joe T. Berry, Jesse Matteson, Edward Fleming, John T. Harding and Urban Faber, veteran White Sox pitcher.

Messages of condolence came from all over the world. President Hoover wired his deepest sympathy.

MACK PITCHER WEDS.

Anderson, S. C., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Leroy Mahaffey, Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher, and Miss Thelma Louise Williams, of Anderson, were married late yesterday at Belton. The bride's age was given at 19 and Mahaffey's as 28. Mahaffey's home is at Belton.

Leonard Scores K. O. Over Livan

Italian Is Knocked Down Four Times Before Finish in Third Round.

Boston, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, floored Vittorio Livan Italian middleweight, four times before knocking him out with a right to the jaw in the third round of their 10-round contest here tonight. Leonard, who appeared in splendid trim, weighed 151, and his victim was four pounds heavier.

Leonard retained enough of his former skill to toy with his rival during the first two rounds.

The Italian went down for two under a left and right to the head soon after the third opened. Leonard then dropped him for nine with a right to the jaw. Livan made two more trips to the canvas for nine counts under Leonard's right hook to the head and was counted out after he dropped for the fifth time.

A crowd of about 10,000 greeted the sudden ending with mingled cheers and jeers. Leonard, seconded by Jack Kearns, his manager, did not quit the ring until Referee Johnny Martin told him to do so.

Cambridgeshire Race Attracts Field of 24

Newmarket, England, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—With 24 top-notch handicap performers listed as probable starters, the famous Cambridgeshire Stakes will be decided over the 1½-mile course tomorrow.

Twenty-six horses are eligible to face the barrier, but Barbazon and Links Tor were listed as doubtful starters today.

W. M. G. Singer's Link Boy, which Freddie Fox will ride, still ruled the favorite, with Marshall Field's Jacopo and Capt. J. D. Cohn's French 5-year-old Slipper well backed. Slipper will carry the top weight of the party, 130 pounds. Jacopo, chief hope of the United States, has been assigned 1 pound less and 6 more than Link Boy.

Dempsey to Accept No Bout Until Condition Warrants

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 27 (A.P.). Jack Dempsey, back here today from a Wyoming moose hunt, declared he will not accept any heavyweight matches until he is sure he is in condition to fight.

He said he had heard nothing direct from James I. Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, about a match in February with Victorio Campolo or Primo Carnera.

"And I wouldn't accept until I know I am absolutely in condition to fight," he added. "I'm going to know myself before I start getting active in the heavyweight picture."

Dempsey started training today for another barnstorming tour in Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado and Texas, on which he plans to leave for Chicago November 9.

He brought down a 1,200-pound Moose, with three shots, on his expedition with Gov. Fred B. Balzar of Nevada and a party of Nevada and Utah sportsmen near Cora, Wyo.

Defeat of Yale Objective of Dartmouth

(Associated Press.)

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 27.—Another long drill on fundamentals today found Dartmouth's regulars doing their tackling and blocking chores in better fashion, although Jack Cannell still was far from being satisfied. He warned his team that ragged work in these departments against Yale would mean another defeat.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 27.—Two Yale casualties, Tommy Taylor and Mark Tyson, reported for practice, although neither is likely to start against Dartmouth. A light workout with dummy scrimmage against Dartmouth plays and a long signal drill comprised the day's program.

New York U. Works Out With Manhattan.

New York, Oct. 27.—Needing a little competition before the Oregon game, New York University's squad visited the Manhattan college campus and scrimmaged against John Law's Jasper eleven. The Violets stressed passing and completed eight out of fifteen forwards, with Joe Lamark doing all the tossing.

New York, Oct. 27.—Meanwhile at Travers Island, Oregon went through two workouts, morning and afternoon. Setting-up exercises and calisthenics made the morning drill easy, but in the afternoon the Far Westerners scrimmaged against the Fordham freshmen.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27.—Harvard's regulars had the lightest sort of a workout, but the "B" eleven was driven through 40 minutes of bruising scrimmage with the scrubs as further indication that the reserves will start against Virginia.

Garrett Shifted to Tackle At Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Harry Garrett, reserve tackle, was shifted to guard in place of Josh Billings, hurt in the Navy game, as Coach Al Wittmer sent his Princeton charges through a two-hour drill on offensive tactics, in preparation for the battle with Michigan. A shift in the back field brought McPartland to a half back post, with Purnell at quarter back, Ceppi at full back and Draudt at the other half back position. Craig replaced Purnell after the first 20 minutes of the drill.

Philadelphia, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Carl Perina, line-cracking Penn full back, has an infection of the hand that calls for a lancing operation tomorrow. He expects, however, to be in shape for the Lafayette game.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Led by the diminutive Mike Koken, Notre Dame's second team ran wild today against the freshmen string, which used Carnegie Tech's defense. Koken scored four touchdowns and the yearlings couldn't stop him.

Northwestern Driven for Illinois Game.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Just to prove that he didn't regard the Illinois game as a set-up, Coach Dick Hanley drove his Northwestern Wildcats through one of their heaviest workouts of the season today.

"We're not going to be fooled by the easy Michigan victory over Illinois Saturday," Coach Hanley said, as he drilled his men in defense and offense.

Definite announcement was made today that Reb Russell, star Northwestern Wildcat, who has been out of the game with a back injury, would not play in the Illinois game.

Chicago, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Nothing but hard luck seems to follow Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's weary Chicago Maroons. With seven men already on the injured list, he lost his star guard today when an X-ray disclosed that Stanley Hamberg had dislocated his shoulder in the Indiana game and would be lost for most or all of the season. Faced with an almost hopeless task of upsetting Purdue Saturday, Coach Stagg drilled his men strictly on defense.

Minneapolis, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The chilliest day of the season kept the Minnesota football squad inside only temporarily today before coaches directed a brisk outdoor drill in formations to be used against Wisconsin Saturday.

practice until Thursday.

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—With Jerry Kriz, seasoned blocking half, still on the bench with a strained back, Joe Laws, a former quarter back, stepped into the Iowa back field today and tore through the freshmen for long gains. Kriz probably will not be able to report for

One-Piece Swim Suits Win Favor of A. A. U.

New York, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, controlling organization in swimming as well as track and field sports, proposes to eliminate officially its ban on one-piece suits for mermaids, according to changes in regulations to be acted on by the annual convention in Kansas City, November 15, 16 and 17.

Men would be permitted to wear tights only in competition under the proposed new regulations, designed to produce faster times and enable American swimmers to compete on a more equal basis with foreign rivals.

CADET TO LIE IN STATE TODAY

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—A bright sun poured down upon the bluffs and plains of West Point today as Cadet Richard Brinsley Sheridan, jr., killed in combat, came back to the United States Military Academy from his last football trip.

There was no massed corps of shouting gray to meet him, no hilarious parade of arm-locked cadets up the long hill to the barracks, no band blaring a welcome. Instead, a hearse, moving slowly, carefully, after a long trip from New Haven, Conn., carried him quietly to the post hospital at noon and left him there to sleep until time for chapel tomorrow.

Military Funeral of Soldier Planned.

His mates will muster then in the full dress costume of the West Point cadet, the smart gray with the cross stripes of white across the chest. The tall "tar-bucket" helmets with the black plumes, rifles on their shoulders.

The corps will greet him then, looking down into his casket for the last time as it rests in the tiny Catholic chapel. Some time after Father J. A. Langton, Catholic chaplain at the post, celebrates a solemn requiem mass, they will march with him for the last time, to the cadet burial grounds in the hills that look down upon the massive stone austerity of the Army post.

Cadet Sheridan, who died in the New Haven Hospital yesterday from a broken neck suffered in the final quarter of the Army-Yale game Saturday, will be given the military funeral of a soldier.

The body will lie in state in the chapel from the time the mass ends until the burial services at 4 p. m. and the start of the funeral procession up the hills to the grounds where lie Gen. Custer, killed by the Sioux; Gen. Winfield Scott, commander of the American forces in the Mexican War; "Fighting Bob" Anderson, who fired the first shot of the Civil War from Fort Sumter in 1861, and George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal.

Cadets Not to Cancel Grid Schedule.

Because the Catholic chapel seats but 300, only Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan, parents of the cadet, members of the family, the second year class, of which Sheridan was president, the football squad and senior officers of the post will attend the services. Sheridan's father, at first believed too ill to leave home at Augusta, Ga., for the trip here, will arrive tomorrow. Because Sheridan was a soldier and "the Army must carry on," classes after the burial will be held as usual.

As a further example of the Army code, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy, announced the cadets would play out the football schedule despite the death of Cadet Sheridan.

Decision not to call off the football program, as was done when Ben Byrne, a tackle, died after a game here with Harvard, 22 years ago, was based, Maj. Gen. Smith said, "on the expressed desire of members of the football team, of the corps cadets and of the members of Cadet Sheridan's immediate family.

Big Bill Tilden Beats German in Five Sets

Hamburg, Oct. 27 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden defeated the German, Hans Nuesslein, 3—6, 6—3, 6—3, 2—6, 8—6 in an exhibition professional tennis match today. Frank Hunter beat Albert Burke, 6—4, 9—7, 6—2.

Tilden and Hunter were carried to four sets in a doubles match by Nusselein and Roman Najuch. They won by scores of 6—2, 9—7, 3—6, 6—4. Karl Kozeluh, Czechoslovakian star, had a two-set lead on Burke in the final match when darkness ended the play. The scores were 6—4, 10—8.

Mrs. Meckley Breaks Par on National Links

Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, District amateur champion, scored two under par as she used only 34 strokes yesterday to play the new nine-hole course of the National Women's Country Club.

The official opening of the course is scheduled for tomorrow, with a women's tournament starting at 9:30 a. m., but if inclement weather makes the course unplayable, the event will be postponed until next week on a date to be announced later.

Md. to Meet Navy Here In 1932

Old Liners' Game With Vanderbilt Slated for Baltimore.

Byrd Planning Long Series With Duke University.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY will meet Navy in Washington, and Vanderbilt University in Baltimore next year in two of the Old Liners' major football games for the season of 1932, it was indicated yesterday.

Concerning an earlier published report that the Vanderbilt game was definitely scheduled for Baltimore, a Maryland spokesman last night stated that the scene of neither this nor the Navy game has been determined. He said, however, that both games would not be played in the same city. While the games actually are scheduled, he added, the detail of naming scenes has not yet been worked out.

Navy Pleased With Game Here.

It has been understood that the recent Maryland-Navy game played in Griffith Stadium was satisfactory to Navy from a financial standpoint, and since the game was scheduled by Navy with the intention of determining how well it would be received by the Washington public, an opinion has been expressed by an unofficial yet reliable source that Washington again will be host to the Middies and Old Liners.

The Vanderbilt game for next season will be played on November 5.

Maryland and Vanderbilt met last year at Nashville for the first time in several years and are scheduled to meet this year on November 7, also at the Commodore stronghold. The game brings together teams coached by the two oldest mentors in the Southern Conference, Curley Byrd and Dan McGugin.

Maryland's 1932 football program lists continuing engagements with Johns Hopkins and Western Maryland, these games, like those with Vanderbilt and Navy, being included in series arranged from two to four years ago.

Kentucky Dropped From Schedule.

The University of Kentucky eleven, which made a favorable impression on local fans at College Park on October 17, will not, however, return on Maryland's schedule. It is understood that Kentucky encountered difficulties in arranging its 1932 schedule and that Maryland released the Lexington school from an agreement for another game.

In place of Kentucky, Maryland probably will play Duke University at Durham, N. C. Negotiations are practically completed for a long series between the Blue Devils and Old Liners.

Ottley Poly Hero in Drill For Old Liners Saturday

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 27.—Virginia Poly's varsity backs went galloping today as they warmed up for the big home game of the year—Poly's homecoming battle with Maryland.

Bunt Ottley, dynamic 150-pounder, led an attack that engulfed the Poly freshman squad under a dozen touchdowns. The Tidewater phantom shot through small openings in the line for repeated short gains that carried the varsity across the goal. Several times he dodged his way through the entire freshman secondary to score.

Right behind Ottley came Al Casey. The fleet sophomore circled the ends and outran tacklers to count three times.

The Gobbler ball toters ran well, but the secret was new dynamite in Poly's blocking game. The interferers were cutting their men down. Varsity players had not forgotten that the freshman out played them in scrimmage two weeks ago and turned the tables with vengeance.

Coach Neal played reserves in center, one tackle, both ends and a half back position and prepared them for duty against the Old Liners.

Miles and Chandler replaced Seamon and Palmer at end while the regulars were recuperating from minor hurts received at Kentucky. Both are expected back when Poly's eleven battles to maintain its impressive home-coming record.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE world is only about one week removed from the annual travesty on football—the All-American selections. Of course, the All-American teams will not be nominated until after the close of the season, but by next week the preliminary booming will begin to be heard in all sectors, not to subside until some recognition is attained for local favorites.

Among the hollowest of the hollow honors that can befall an athlete is All-American nomination. The distinction has come to mean no more than so much ballyhoo. College publicity directors with their sophomoric press releases are the greatest offenders. As early as the third game on the schedule they single out some favorite son and hammer incessantly at his All-American prospects until the season is finished.

There are isolated instances wherein All-American mention may be truly deserved as in the case of Barry Wood, Harvard's consistently brilliant back field ace, but these cases are rare. Every college has its own All-American nominee and to attempt to select eleven All-Americans throughout the length and breadth of the Nation is basically farcical.

In the days of Walter Camp, the father of All-American elevens, the selections could be based on reason and comparative ability with the game highly developed in only a few colleges outside of the Big Three. But even in Camp's later days, when the sport had spread to every section of the Nation, it was a difficult task to select an All-American eleven with any degree of conclusiveness.

The debunking of the All-American team is easy. Any attempt to select the outstanding player in any one position among more than 300 teams playing college football is unreasonable and unfair except in cases of a super star like Carideo of Notre Dame in 1930. Not a tithe of the potential All-American timber comes under the eyes of the critics who make the selections. Truly great stars on college teams in the provinces and the hinterlands never appear before the critics because of schedules that pit them against teams of the smaller class.

Mere presence on a team of high caliber aids a football player, particularly a back field man, to gain all-American mention. It is this handicap which players on obscure college teams are forced to suffer. For them there is no synchronized blocking or interference, no highly developed assistance from a well-trained line. Their ground-gaining efforts are due almost wholly to their own individual brilliance. Thus they should be entitled to even more consideration than the stars of the high-ranking teams.

The case of one "Gyp" Battles, of the West Virginia Wesleyan Team for the past three seasons, is in point. In none of the various All-American selections was Battles mentioned. Yet Tom Mills, coach of the Georgetown Team which met Wesleyan last season, stated unqualifiedly that Battles was the greatest back he had seen in action all season. Among other matters he was credited with the longest scoring run of the season with an intercepted pass, a dash of 98 yards against Waynesburg and made more long runs for touchdowns than any other player last season. That Battles was not opposed to soft opposition is seen in the array of teams he faced including Georgetown, Navy, New York University, West Virginia and Duquesne.

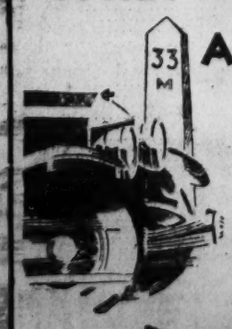
Himself a great tackle at Penn and as a professional player after his World War service, Lou Little is one of the foremost exponents of line play. His forward-wall defense at Georgetown was notable, particularly in 1929, when Coach Bill Ingram of Navy rated it the equal of Notre Dame's great line.

On the Hilltop one day during scrimmage, Lou Little was teaching his charges the finer points of line play. His regulars were working with devastating effect on the second team. Apparently their work was all that could be desired. But Little was not yet satisfied. Singling out a big lineman who had been wreaking havoc with the seconds' forward wall, he shouted: "Hey, you. You're not finished when you open up a hole. Drag your feet in behind you. We don't want our backs stumbling over our own men. Remember that."

What Kind of Miles Are You Buying?



ARE they smooth, powerful carefree miles? If they are the chances are you're using Betholine . . . The benzol in Betholine controls the fuel, so that it does not explode with damaging violence, but BURNS progressively, pushing the pistons in a smooth, mighty powerstroke. Result: Less carbon, longer motor life, and all-around better performance.

BURGOO KING GALLOPS TO EASY WIN IN LAUREL FEATURE

Proteus, Pacemaker, Lasts to Hold Second Place.

Dawdle, 100-1 Shot, Just Misses Winning 4th Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 27.—E. R. Bradley's Burgoo King, a flashy Bubbling Over colt, which may be favorite Saturday in the $10,000 added Spalding Lowe Jenkins Stakes for 2-year-olds, caught the fancy of the crowd this afternoon, when, toying with his field as Jockey Fator willed, he drew away in the stretch to win the Ashton, the day's feature, by four lengths.

The improved Proteus, belonging to A. C. Bostwick, was second, with Sylvester Labrot's Springsteel, Maryland Breeders' Futurity winner, third, close up to the second horse. Pairbypair was fourth. All these juveniles will start in the Jennings.

Proteus Leads to Stretch Turn.

Proteus, H. Louman up, led to the stretch turn, and rewarded his backers by paying $30.10 for place. The winner was odds-on favorite. The mile was run in 1:39 4-5.

While the card as a whole was not up to the standard, all the conditions were ideal for racing and the large crowd had a pleasant day of it.

Baritone got a head decision over Swatter in the sixth race, outgaming him in the stretch, and paid $8.50. Fair Dale was third. Pomfret, Fairdale and Swatter cut out the early running. Turning into the stretch, Leishman had Swatter in front and he seemed to have the race won, but Luther moved fast with Baritone from the sixteenth and got up in time. They ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:47.

Mrs. Louise Viau's filly, Cambetty, won the first race by half a length, Snider up. Polycron placed and Beauty Bride was third. Cambetty took the lead at the far turn after racing Golden Spur into submission. Worthington was left at the barrier. Wild Kitty, in the field group, was withdrawn shortly before post time. The 6 furlongs was covered in 1:13 2-5. The winner was the favorite and paid $7.60.

Shiva Comes From Rear to Win Second.

Nevada Stock Farm's Shiva beat the favorites in the second race for 2-year-olds, coming from behind in the stretch to get the decision over Some Knight. Semster, coupled with Some Knight as the Audley Farm entry, was third. Bejshak just got up with Shiva, winning by a nose. Gurgler, ridden by Nertney, was fourth. The winner paid $10. The son of Chilhowee ran 6 furlongs in 1:13. Again a horse was left at the post, this time being Swift and True, owned by Sam H. Harris, theatrical man of New York. Mr. Milton, the starter, has had some bad luck in getting the horses away, the starting being very slow, and in the first two races today, very ragged. But Gurgler and Some Knight, the first and second choices, were benefited, for they were far out in front.

Annapolitan finally graduated from the maiden ranks in the third race for 3-year-olds and upward, none of the starters ever having won a race. The gray gelding of S. W. Labrot led all the way under a good ride by Remillard. Mack Garner on J. E. Widener's Playbill, was the contender all the way, but beaten a neck. Pourboire was third, a length back. The winner was second choice and paid $10.80. The time was 1:46 2-5, a mile and 70 yards.

100-to-1 Shot Barely Misses In Fourth.

A hundred-to-one shot lacked less than a length of winning the fourth race when Dawdle ran second to Arras, the favorite. Dawdle was better than 22 to 1 for place. All Columbia was third. Gaybird, Sun Thorn and Peach Basket figured prominently in the early pace, Sun Thorn being displaced as leader at the stretch turn by Arras, Ellis up. The exact price on Dawdle, Nertney's mount, was $100.85 to $1.

Smartly ridden by W. Nertney, the outstanding jockey of the meeting, J. C. Conway's My Sis won the seventh race of the program today by a length and a half over Gunman, which beat out another long shot, Hold, by a half length for place money.

My Sis was the favorite in the betting, but paid $6.50 in the $2 mutuels. Gunman paid $12.70 for place and $7.20 for show. Hold's show mutuel was $9.50.

Nertney had the daughter of Tryster—Gurgling Water in front from the start of the 1 1-16-mile journey and held the mare in stout restraint until leaving the back stretch. Make Haste and Wrackell offered the early contention, but both dropped far out of it in the stretch run as Gunman and Hold moved up rapidly. Neither could wear down the winner, which continued to the finish well in hand.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAMBETTY, $7.60, $4.00, $3.30; POLYCRON, $4.00, $3.00; BEAUTY BRIDE, $4.90.

CAMBETTY, forcing a stiff pace from the start, drew on even terms with the leaders midway of the far turn, gained command approaching the final furlong pole and outstayed POLYCRON. Latter, a keen factor from the beginning, raced GOLDEN SPUR into defeat and held on resolutely in the final test. BEAUTY BRIDE, stoutly ridden the entire trip, was making up ground gamely in the final drive. TOUGH GIRL was improving her position under pressure in the closing stages. GOLDEN SPUR stopped fast in the final quarter mile. ST. MICA was unable to seriously menace the leaders. WORTHINGTON refused to break.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start poor from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:21. Off at 2:26. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SHIVA, $10.00, $4.20, $3.30; SOME KNIGHT (entry), $2.70, $2.80; SEMESTER (entry), $2.80.

SHIVA, rated in close pursuit of the pacemakers, responded gamely when put to a drive, swung to the outside and, finishing in stout fashion, was up in the concluding strides. SOME KNIGHT, a keen factor from the start, wore GURGLER down when entering the home stretch and continued stoutly under severe urging. SEMESTER, prominent throughout, held on well nearing the finish. GURGLER, stoutly ridden in the early racing, tired when the real test came. CATALAN'S IDOL, away sluggishly, showed a good effort after reaching his best stride. COUNTRY TOM was held safe. DUNRODE suffered early interference. SWIFT AND SURE was away poorly.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:55. Off at 2:55½. Winner, S. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANNAPOLITAN, $10.80, $3.50, $2.90; PLAYBILL, $2.90, $2.40; POURBOIRE, $4.90.

ANNAPOLITAN, hurried into a safe lead, was steadied in the final half mile, was forced to severe urging nearing the finish and just lasted to stall off PLAYBILL. Latter, in closest pursuit throughout, appeared to sulk for the entire trip. POURBOIRE improved his position on the outside and was wearing the first two down gradually. PANTAGRUEL closed stoutly, as did ANNIMESSIC. The latter went very wide for the entire journey. DARK RAY broke slowly. He made up a lot of ground. PURPLE DUST quit badly after entering contention. CAPTAIN COLL stopped early. JOHN BARTON had a rough trip.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:30½. Winner, S. and H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARRAS, $5.00, $3.30, $2.60; DAWDLE, $45.20, $12.90; ALL COLUMBIA, $4.30.

ARRAS, shuffled back going to the first turn, secured racing room on the inside to reach contention, came to the outside when finishing stoutly and wore ALL COLUMBIA down in the final sixteenth mile. DAWDLE, slow to set going, gained stoutly when under his stride and was going strong nearing the finish. ALL COLUMBIA, rushed fully in her stride and was going strong nearing the finish. GAY BIRD saved ground and raced under strong pressure throughout. ANGRY PLUME was forced wide most of the trip. YOUR FLAG quit, PETABIT broke slow.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Ashton. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Won by 10 lengths. Time, 1:36. Off at 3:55. Winner, E. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURGOO KING, $3.80, $3.10, $2.70; PROTEUS, $30.10, $8.50; SPRINGSTEEL, $5.10.

BURGOO KING, in the thick of contention from the start, took command at his leisure when approaching the home stretch, drew into an easy lead and was in hand through the final furlong. PROTEUS, rated in front while saving ground early, came wide into the home stretch after being displaced, but held on well under punishment to outstay SPRINGSTEEL. Latter, going prominently throughout, held on resolutely for the final test. PAIRBYPAIR made a strong effort on the inside in the stretch, but faltered. PENCADER lost the leaders when nearing the home stretch, but rallied. PENCADER lost ground the entire trip. GUSTO closed gamely. DARK MISSION was forced wide by PENCADER.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:37. Winner, E. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARITONE, $8.50, $4.20, $3.20; SWATTER, $5.20, $3.90; FAIRDALE, $7.50.

BARITONE, as usual, outrun in the early stages, responded with good speed when placed to punishment, wore the leaders down steadily and was up in the final sixteenth mile. SWATTER, a stout factor in the early running, shook off FAIRDALE when nearing the final furlong pole and continued stoutly thereafter. JODHPUR moved to the leaders rounding the turn, but was held safe in the final drive. SYRIAC raced evenly. RUNDALE showed a dull effort. POMFRET stopped badly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:06. Off at 5:06. Winner, J. J. Conway's ch. m. (5), by Tryster—Gurgling Water. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 2-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:47 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY SIS, $6.50, $4.00, $3.00; GUNMAN, $12.70, $7.20; HOLD, $9.50.

MY SIS outran her field to the first turn, was restrained until leaving the back stretch, continued stoutly under strong pressure and outstayed GUNMAN. Latter, racing close up from start, hung after reaching winner in final furlong. HOLD worked his way up on the outside and finished strong.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Laurel Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 27.—The $10,000 added Governor Ogie Steeplechase at two miles and a half tomorrow is one of the high lights of the final week of racing at Laurel and one of the outstanding steeplechase events of the year. The only drawback for the renewal of this classic is found in the hard, dry infield.

The track superintendent has tried the innovation of sprinkling the infield over which steeplechases are run, but the territory is so large it can not be adequately covered by one motorized sprinkler. This renewal always attracts the hunting set from several States in the South and East.

Mrs. John H. Whitney's GREEN CHEESE, which won the Grand National at Belmont Park, a $25,000 event, should repeat that victory in the Governor Ogie and appears to have a comparatively easy race. The distance suits him. CHENANGO, which will carry the colors of Thomas Hitchcock, probably will be the contender. He was poorly ridden last week and beaten by Redbridge. The improved HUFFY is rated better than the top weight, BEELZEBUB, an overrated jumper.

FIRST RACE—SUN TWEED, entered in two races but scratched from both, one of which was the Selima, should canter home. She is one of the Sun Briar family and is said to be W. S. Kilmer's best among the juveniles. CROW'S FEET has worked fast and is rated the contender. REBUFF should have a chance, at least for third money.

SECOND RACE — OUTBOUND should improve on his last race, and is selected to beat the retrograding CARUSO, a stake horse which has become a bad-acting plater. OUTBOUND'S Chicago form would win this. CHICSU should improve.

FOURTH RACE—FREDERICK, with his early speed, should take the fourth race, but the competition will be keen in the large field of 2-year olds. HIGH DEVINE was barely beaten last out, and is rated the contender. STARELIUS has always shown speed and is fit. FREDERICK changed ownership at the paddock sale.

FIFTH RACE—VALENCIENNES is a standout in the Tilghman Handicap, feature on the flat, on her victory in the Havre de Grace Handicap and also at Laurel. PLUCKY PLAY is the other heavyweight in the mile and a furlong handicap, and the race probably will be between the two. KHORASAN, a winner here, which scored in several races in Canada, will bear watching. INCEPTION is in light, but has not been running to expectations this season.

SIXTH RACE—THE HEATHEN and EAGER PLAY, each of which has won three races here, will have it out in the sixth event, and it seems THE HEATHEN has a margin of advantage. FERVID will probably get third money. THE HEATHEN has the advantage of class over his chief rival in this gallop.

SEVENTH RACE—JOHN MACKLER, conditioned for the seventh race, has only to run back to his best here to win. SUN MEDDLER has not run his race so far, and may do so in this, being marked for place. SKID should hold the others safe.

Johnny Bowen Takes Ring Stable to Florida

Johnny Bowen, of the well-known local family of boxers, will head a party of Capital pugilists to Florida early next month for a campaign in rings of the "Gator" State. Bowen's role will be that of manager, and under his wing will be his brother, Ray Bowen, Billy Eschinger, Sailor McKenna and Young Duggy.

Ray Bowen and McKenna will appear at Roanoke, Va., tomorrow night in eight-round bouts, respectively, with Jimmy Smith, of New York, and Harry Buckett, of Roanoke.

G. U. REBUILDS TEAM FROM RESERVES

Coach Seeks Talent From "Scrubs"

Sees Third, Fourth Stringers Oppose Frosh Eleven.

Niskovitch, Full Back, Most Impressive of "Rookies."

IN an effort to rebuild his reserve forces, shattered badly by injuries which have incapacitated five players for the remainder of the season and sent a half dozen others to the sidelines for a week or more, Head Coach Tommy Mills of Georgetown University, has decided to spend much of his time drilling third and fourth string players who figured little in preseason calculations.

While the regulars—what was left of them—watched from the sidelines yesterday, Mills directed the Hilltop "scrubs" through a lengthy scrimmage against the freshmen. The same procedure will be followed today and after the Boston College game, scheduled Saturday in Boston, will be resumed probably next Monday.

Only Four Opening Season Backs Now Available.

Georgetown now finds itself possessed of only four of the bevy of back-field players who at the start of the season promised to give the Blue and Gray the strongest ground-gaining department it has had in years. The survivors of what has been an unprecedented epidemic of injuries are Dick King, quarter; Bernie Donoghue and Joe Alenty, halves, and Leroy Bordeau, full back.

The injured backs are Wilmer Bradley, full back, and Ben Gellis, Bill Mazeees, Russ Danieu and Mack Stanley, half backs. Bradley and Gellis, were they in condition, would now be occupying regular positions.

At least one of the "scrub" ball carriers, however, is giving Mills some hope of strengthening the back field, this youngster, Nick Viskovitch, full back, having shown up well in the last several practices. Against the freshmen yesterday, Viskovitch looked particularly promising, as he dashed goalward on off-tackle plays with a high kneee action. Viskovitch, a sophomore, is well endowed physically, weighing 172 pounds and standing six feet.

Ft. Washington Heavy Issues Defi to Barry

Fort Washington, where men wielded padded fists when not trodding the parade ground, turns up another boxer to contest ring honors with the flatic gladiators of Washington. Soldier Moore, a heavyweight, weighing 185 pounds, is the latest discovery at the nearby Army post, and Moore steps forth with a challenge to Reds Barry or any other local heavy or light-heavy.

Moore has had several years' experience in boxing, having seen action in bouts throughout Pennsylvania, his native State. He joined the Army about seven months ago.

Hyattsville Soccer Team to County Final

Hyattsville, Md., Oct. 27.—Hyattsville High School's soccer team today won northern section honors in the Prince Georges County championship series, conquering a hard-fighting Maryland Park eleven, 4 to 3, in Magruder Park here, in an overtime game. Maryland Park was the 1930 county winner.

The game was a play-off of the contest last week in which Hyattsville and Maryland tied at 2-2 at Maryland Park.

From the outset the contest was fiercely fought, and at the end of regulation time the score was deadlocked at 2-all. A goal by Blaine Calhoun, inside left, in the second extra period gave Hyattsville victory.. The winners' other goal was marked up in the opening period by Warren Kidwell, inside right.

C. U. ELEVEN IS SET FOR DUQUESNE

Varsity Is Impressive in Stormy Drill With Freshmen.

OFFENSIVELY Catholic University's football team today is set for Friday night's impending contest with Duquesne at Pittsburgh. During a stormy scrimmage session with the freshmen yesterday, "Dutch" Bergman's varsity men opened up with the works. Confining their tactics strictly to attack, they time and again drove through and past the plucky yearlings and on across their goal line.

The Cubs, who previously had offered stout opposition in these sessions, appeared all but helpless as their upper classmen scored repeatedly with dazzling gains off tackle and through center.

Gridman Do Impressive Blocking.

Most important, however, was the impressive all-around blocking uncovered. Virtually all players, functioning as a unit, used their hands with telling results and elicited the commendation of their coach is a consequence.

"They certainly ought to make Duquesne step," was the remark ventured by Line Coach Forrest Cotton when action was halted. "The Dukes looked mighty powerful when I scouted them against Georgetown. But if these boys start clicking they're apt to fool somebody!"

AIR ATTACK PLANNED BY CENTRAL

MEMORIES of a sensational victory eight years ago of Central High's football team over Tech by means of utilizing the forward pass to the breaking point, pervaded the workout of Central High's 1931 grid team yesterday at Griffith Stadium in preparation for Friday's schoolboy classic with Tech.

Central appears to be going to the air again in an effort to break Tech's series winning streak, which has spread over three and a half years and counted fifteen teams among its victims. Central was the last team to beat Tech, scoring a 12-to-0 victory in the second game of the 1927 series. Tech, Central and Eastern finished the year in a triple-tie for first place.

Cumberland Back in Central Line-up.

Definite assurances that "Whitey" Cumberland, quarter back, would be in the game Friday heartened Central fans, as the speedy back worked out yesterday. The rest of the back field, Frank Koscis, Hank Gibbins, and George King, are in tip-top shape, as is the Central line. Coach Coggins liked the way Lallonde conducted himself in the Eastern game last week and the boy has virtually clinched a guard's berth.

Central will not have Ed Heflin on end Friday. The fleet wingman who, with Emmett Buscher, made up one of Central's chief threats, was hurt in the Newport News game and has not been able to return to school since.

Tech went to work in serious fashion yesterday to cull a measure of teamwork out of its big squad. Their play in the Western game, while winning 32 to 0, was extremely disappointing to Coach Hardell, who can prove that the score really was 6 to 0 if Tech had not received all the breaks which were dispensed that day.

Jack Rhodes, who suffered a broken nose against Western, will get in the game with the aid of a mask. The Tech back field of Edwards, Sachs, Hatos and Gormley, will prevail, although Foley, the team's leading punter, may replace Edwards.

Pyles, Ex-Eastern Ace, Is Star at Dartmouth

Chester Pyles, the former Eastern High School grid star, is back in football harness at Dartmouth after a leg injury, which kept him on the bench all last year. He has appeared in all of Dartmouth's games to date this year. He is in his junior year.

Pyles is playing this year with a specially constructed leg brace fitted so that it bends to the natural movements of the limb. His work against Holy Cross was noteworthy. Besides football, Pyles is captain of this year's lacrosse team and has won three letters with the stickmen.

SYRACUSE GRIDMEN TOIL.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Syracuse University football squad received a long workout this afternoon as Coach Vic Hansen supervised a dummy scrimmage between a freshman team using Michigan State plays and his first-string and reserve elevens. The Orangemen will leave Syracuse Thursday night to play State at East Lansing Saturday in one of the outstanding intersectional games of the day.

FORDHAM WORKS HARD.

New York, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—Fordham's varsity was sent through a heavy scrimmage by Head Coach Frank Cavanaugh today. Satisfied with the Rams' attack, Coach Cavanaugh intends spending the rest of the week in perfecting the team's defense.

BENNING GIRLS WIN.

The Benning A. C., girls' crack basket ball team, defeated the Roxie A. C. girls last night, 29-17, in a game played at Eastern High School gym. The winners were better in all departments of the game, and led from start to finish.

PALACE-COLUMBIA MEET.

Palace and Columbia will clash Sunday in a preliminary to the Mercury game. The Palace outfit will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth and B streets.

10 MAT ACES ON CHARITY PROGRAM

Steele, Jones, Dusek, Szabo See Action Tomorrow.

TEN of the most picturesque showmen in the wrestling game will bring their bags of tricks here today to tune up for tomorrow night's giant mat rally at the Washington Auditorium for the benefit of the District's jobless and hungry.

The main event tomorrow night brings together Ray Steele and Paul Jones. Steele's real name is Pete Sauer. He hails from Glendale, Calif., where he was a football player of note. Over 6 feet tall and weighing 220 pounds, Steele is a perfect example of the new order in wrestling. He is lightning fast and strong beyond the dreams of avarice.

He is a likely winner over Paul Jones, who is older and more orthodox. Jones' best bet is a figure 4 hook body scissors, which he invented himself. Jones, who lives in Houston, Tex., is vice president of a huge florist concern in that State.

Szabo Favored to Throw Pierotti.

Sandor Szabo, Hungarian champion, is the best looking man in the game. Two hundred pounds even, and a perfectly proportioned body, he is unmarked by his trade. He meets, and is favored to beat, Al Pierotti, former Washington and Lee football and baseball player, who later saw service with the Boston Braves as a pitcher. The former big leaguer goes in for flying tackles, the most spectacular form of throwing an opponent.

Rudy Dusek, possessor of the greatest neck and fastest footwork in wrestling, and rated in the first five leading wrestlers, is a pupil of old Farmer Burns, great matman of another day. A former fighter, Dusek will need to combine both arts to subdue Matros Kirilenko, the ironmuscled Russian.

Others on the bill are Karl Pojello vs. Justo Geraldi and Benny Ginsberg vs. Tiger Nelson, all four of them noted showmen. Tickets, ranging from $1 to $3, are on sale at Matchmaker Turner's office at the Annapolis Hotel.

Princeton Reinstates Three Banned Gridders

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—As a reward for hard work, three of the five members of the Princeton Football Team who were suspended early in the season for infraction of the training rules have been returned to the varsity squad.

All five were suspended from the squad for one week and then demoted to the scrubs. Three of them have done such good work with the scrubs since that they probably will figure in Nassau line-ups for the remainder of the season.

The identity of the five suspended players never has been revealed.

PALACE PREPS WIN.

The Palace Preps trimmed the Maryland Park 125-pound gridders by the score of 25-0 on the Monument Grounds yesterday. The winners' attack started functioning in the second quarter when they scored two touchdowns.

HOCKEY TEAMS READY.

Montreal, Oct. 27 (U.P.).—The National Hockey League today announced its playing schedule for the ensuing season. The league is composed of eight clubs—Montreal Canadians, Montreal Maroons, Toronto Maple Leafs, New York Americans, New York Rangers, Boston Bruins, Detroit Falcons, and Chicago Black Hawks.

ST. STEPHEN'S DRILLS.

St. Stephen's will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue.

New Business High Stadium Doomed by Budget Shortage

School Building Absorbs Appropriation for Field Is Disappointing Decision; Congressional Action Now Only Hope.

THE fond hopes Business High School's current and future athletes had of transferring to the new Roosevelt High and its promise of a stadium, football, baseball, track, and tennis-playing surfaces are doomed to disappointment, it was learned yesterday from Maj. H. L. Robb, District Assistant Engineer.

The school building itself, in which is included a gymnasium as large as Tech High's, absorbed the entire appropriation and efforts on the part of the school authorities to increase it to allow for an athletic plant have met with failure. It was understood that several weeks ago the District Commissioners were asked to authorize the shaving off of certain stadium by-products — namely, the tennis courts and a brick fence—in an effort to salvage the stadium itself, but the budget was found still not flexible enough to permit the expenditure.

Congressional action will be necessary for the erection of Roosevelt's stadium, Maj. Robb stated, and he doubted whether it would be provided for in the next several years. The bowl was to have been erected on the site recently vacated by the Iowa Avenue Playgrounds and Thirteenth and Upshur streets, adjoining the school. Plans for the plant were suggested to the architects by Lynn Woodworth, director of athletics of Business High, and accepted in the original blue prints. The school itself will be ready August 1, 1932.

The present field on which the stadium would have rested may be improved in minor ways, but will not be sodded. Central, Tech, Western, and Eastern, the remaining public high schools, have stadiums and complete athletic plants.

Maryland Foxhunt On Card at Rockville

The Maryland Fox Hunters Association opened its thirteenth annual field trials yesterday at the Rockville Fairgrounds, Rockville, Md. The first half of the Derby stake was run yesterday and it will be completed this morning. A bench show will be staged tonight at the fair grounds.

The annual business meeting and election of officers will be held tomorrow night and a horn blowing contest will be held Friday. The annual ball will be held Friday night in the Rockville High School.

The three silver trophies awarded in the Derby stake will be awarded this afternoon based on the highest general averages. The hound rating the highest will be awarded the Abbe Challenge Cup.

Entries for the all-age stake will be received this afternoon and it will be run tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, with the Crawford Memorial Challenge Cup as the grand prize and silver trophies for the three runners-up.

Gallaudet, American In Scrimmage Today

American University and Gallaudet College Football Teams will conclude hard training for their respective games this Saturday in a scrimmage this afternoon on the American Field, Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues northwest.

Gallaudet, having idled last Saturday, is to meet Pennsylvania Military College at Chester, Pa., this week-end, while American encounters Shepherd College, from Shepherdstown, W. Va., in its last home game of the season.

Ed Parke, former Central High School star, and one of American's most valuable players, will be shifted from the full-back position to an end if an experiment planned by Coach Young proves successful in today's scrimmage.

Hitting The Head Pin

BILL WOOD, the big maple-smashing mogul of Lucky Strike Alleys and grand potentate of the first D. C. Boys Junior Bowling League, announced the schedule for the adolescent loop last night. The league opens Saturday afternoon on four sets of alleys, with ten teams toeing the foul line, or exceeding it, as the case may prove to be.

Shopping News meets Takoma at Lucky, Hyattsville plays Temple at Hyattsville, Georgetown vs. Bethesda at Georgetown, King Pin vs. Silver Spring at King Pin, and Lucky Strike vs. Rendezvous at Lucky.

The King Pin Business Men's League high team game and set was broken last night by the Chestnut Farms Dairy outfit of Logan, Wood, Royal, Kashub and Mosely, who amassed a 588 game and a 1,686 set. The boys batted the wooden bottles down at the rate of 361, 340, 353, 325 and 307, respectively.

The Dairy boys, while they were ringing up their record, beat the Union Wall Paper outfit, 2-1. Hecht's Annex took two from Maccabees in the other game on the list.

* Led by Margaret Miltner and Sarah Updike, the Hilltoppers took a 3-0 decision over the Veterans Bureau last night at Columbia in the Washington Ladies League. Miltner and Updike rolled 318 and 315, respectively, and amassed a 1,548 set. Eva Lieverman, with 314, led the Vets.

Columbian took all three from the Keenos and Shamrock did the same to University Park. The Beeques could take only two from the Cardinals. The lowly Cards, who have won only two games this year, looked good as they took the third game, 485 to 472, from the league leaders. May Morgan clinched the Cardinal win by rolling a double-header strike.

Tip Tops took three from the Columbias last night in the Ladies' Independent League at King Pin No. 2. Kann's took the odd game from Lansburgh's and Navy forfeited all three.

Hecht's crack team in the District League improved its standing in no mean way last night by downing the Hyattsville pinmen, 3-0, bowling a team total of 1,761. Maxie Rosenberg was high man with 132, 144, 107—383.

The Picas, Ionics, Gothics and Quads were victorious in The Washington Post League yesterday afternoon.

Census Federals Plan 2 Court Teams

The Federals of the Census Bureau have organized two basket ball teams for local competition this winter. One team will play in the unlimited class, while the reserves will play in the 140-pound class. Several former high school and college players are among the candidates for the teams. Epiphany Church Gymnasium has been secured for workouts which will begin tomorrow night.

The following players have been requested to report for practice: Zahn, Stevens, Kearney, Driscoll, Sheehy, Payson, Del Cignore, Ham, Curley, Bradley, Clarke, Cook, Berger, Plunkett, Sewell, Briscoe, Hoffman and Ouradnik. Games are being arranged by H. L. Holmes, Apt. 507, the Alabama, 1015 N street northwest.

THE RAG ALLEY

FOR SHE IS THE PRIN-CESS OF PET-TI-COAT LANE —
IS MAYME — THE DAME FOR ME —
WITH THE STYLE OF A QUEEN
SHE IS SURE-LY A DREAM AND A GIRL YOU OUGHT TO SEE —
SHE'S THE BRIDE OF THE JOHNNIES
THAT STROLL ON THE STREET — AND THEY SHOWER AT-TEN-TIONS
WHEN SWEET MAYME THEY MEET —
THIS PRIN-CESS OF PET-TI-COAT LANE —

OCTOBER 28, 1906.

At least 50 persons perished in a wreck of the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad at Atlantic City. The three-coach electric train was crossing the bridge which separates Atlantic City from the mainland when it plunged fifteen feet into the water below, drowning and crushing many of the passengers. A defective rail was believed to have caused the catastrophe.

With congressional elections only a week away predictions were being made that the Republicans would control the House by a majority of about 50, "quite a reduction from the former majority of 112."

William Randolph Hearst was believed to be making gains in the New York gubernatorial race. Secretary of War William H. Taft issued a statement in which he said: "If Hearst is elected Governor of New York I believe he will be the Democratic candidate for the Presidency in 1908. I do not see how they could keep the nomination away from him. However, I do not expect him to win."

The Minister of Ecuador and Senora de Carbo plan to introduce their three daughters to society during the coming winter.

FOUR RETIREMENTS, THREE PROMOTIONS ORDERED FOR POLICE

Two Sergeants and Two Privates Leave Force by Action of Commissioners.

MORGAN MADE CAPTAIN TO SUCCEED EMMERSON

Plea of Senator Is Overruled in Case of Fireman Held in Wreck of Auto.

Two sergeants and two privates in the Metropolitan Police Department were ordered retired yesterday afternoon by District Commissioners as result of examination last week by the board of police and fire surgeons of all policemen over 55 years old.

Sergt. John E. Thompson, Ninth Precinct, and Private Horace R. Crawford, clerk, had made application for retirement, whereas Sergt. Minor E. Furr and Private Frank M. Dierkoph were found to be physically disabled. The sergeants were granted pensions of $114.58 a month and the privates $100 a month.

Commissioners appointed Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan, administrative assistant at detective headquarters, captain to fill vacancy created by automatic age limit retirement of Capt. Walter Emmerson, Thirteenth Precinct.

Others promoted to fill gaps are Sergt. William M. MacDonald to the rank of lieutenant and Private William M. McDuffie to be sergeant.

Overriding appeals from Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, and others, Commissioners dismissed Charles G. Limerick from the Fire Department upon charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Evidence was that Limerick was arrested on such a charge but that the case was dismissed in Police Court. The fireman admitted having had a drink of home brew prior to arrest but he said he had wrecked his car in an effort to avoid a collision. Dr. John A. Reed, member of the board of police and fire surgeons, reported that Limerick's breath showed odor of alcohol.

Cigar Fires Fluid; Man, 42, Is Burned

Father of Ten Is in Serious Condition; Clothing Was Ignited.

Severely burned when his cigar ignited a pail of gasoline he was carrying, Edward Richards, 42 years old, father of ten children, of 1817 First street southwest, was in a serious condition last night at Mount Alto Hospital.

Richards was walking along Washington Boulevard yesterday afternoon at the time of the accident.

Passersby helped out his clothing which caught fire, and he was hurried to Emergency Hospital. There it was found he had suffered third degree burns. Later he was transferred to Mount Alto.

2 in Padlock Case Jailed 10 Months

Violation of an Injunction at Anderson Place Brings Term.

For violation of an injunction placed upon them for breaking the prohibition law, James Anderson, colored, and his wife, Rosetta Anderson, were sentenced to jail for ten months yesterday by Justice Jennings Bailey.

The Andersons were enjoined at the request of Capt. Harold W. Orcutt, in charge of padlock cases, on August 19, 1930. Following the shooting of Policeman Charles D. Poole on August 4, in the vicinity of the Anderson place on Fort Totten road northeast, the two were arrested for violating the terms of the injunction, and were released on $1,000 bond.

Yesterday, through Attorney George E. McNeil, they pleaded guilty and were sentenced.

Capt. Ira Eaker, Army Flier, To Wed Miss Ruth Apperson

Engagement Is Announced by Parents of Teacher in Capital School.

Harris & Ewing.
MISS RUTH HUFF APPERSON.

Capt. Ira C. Eaker, well-known Army Air Corps speed and endurance pilot, now stationed at Bolling Field, will be married within the near future to Miss Ruth Huff Apperson, 23 years old, of 112 C street northeast, a graduate of George Washington University and at present a teacher in the Washington School for Secretaries, according to an announcement yesterday by the girl's parents.

Capt. Eaker is at the present time returning from the West Coast by train, having flown there last week with Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of Air Corps.

Miss Apperson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Huff Apperson. She was a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority at George Washington. It will be Capt. Eaker's second marriage. He was divorced some time ago from his first wife, who later married Capt. Harrison W. Flickinger, of the Air Corps.

Capt. Eaker gained considerable prominence as copilot of the Army transport Question Mark under Maj. Carl Spatz, when the first refueling endurance flight record was made.

During the past year he has attempted several cross-country speed flights, but has been forced down on each occasion by motor trouble.

SIGN REGULATIONS PLACED IN EFFECT

Commissioners Will Begin to Eliminate Unsightly Advertising.

Strict sign regulations designed to rid the District of unsightly advertising before the inauguration of the Washington Bicentennial celebration were adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of a special sign committee, headed by Maj. D. A. Davison, acting engineer commissioner.

The regulations place the authority of passing upon all billboards directly in the hands of the Commissioners and provide for the gradual elimination of all present authorized signs in residential districts and those confronting public buildings and public parks. All billboards and signs for which no permits have been issued must be removed within 60 days.

The licensed billboards in residential areas are to be removed over a period of three years, 40 per cent during the first year, 30 per cent the second, and 30 per cent the third year.

No new billboards may be erected unless approval is given by the Commissioners.

Each newly authorized billboard will be conspicuously marked so that police can detect whether or not it has been approved before being erected. Many unlicensed signs are said to be scattered over the city at present.

One of the sign regulations may result in the prohibition of advertising displays on spare tire covers. This rule prohibits vehicles from advertising products other than the business of the owner.

The regulations represent the work of several months and are the outgrowth of legislation enacted by the last Congress.

Some of the principal regulations, other than those dealing with billboards, follow:

Advertising of products sold on the premises is limited to 50 per cent of the area of the sign.

Signs which no longer advertise a business conducted on the premises must be removed.

The Fine Arts Commission must pass upon all applications for permits to erect signs on buildings or land in areas falling within the Shipstead zones.

More stringent requirement of roof signs; restriction of signs on show windows to 20 per cent of the area of such windows.

Inspector of buildings authorized to make safe or remove dangerous signs.

Victim of Motor Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Louise C. Prince Was Struck October 19; Student Is Arrested.

Mrs. Louise C. Prince, 50-year-old Veterans Bureau clerk, of 3503 Fifteenth street northeast, died at Emergency Hospital yesterday morning as the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile October 19 as she crossed Sixteenth street just south of I street.

Charles William Pickeral, 17 years old, of 635 G street southwest, driver of the car, was arrested by Third Precinct police last night and held for action of the coroner's inquest today. Pickeral is a student at Central High School.

The dead woman is survived by her husband, Loren Prince. She was a member of the Brookland Chapter, No. 11, Order of the Eastern Star. It was said last night that the funeral would be held Friday and that interment would be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Murder Hearing Set in Marlboro

Prochazka to Be Arraigned Tomorrow in Death of Marine Private.

A hearing will be held in Marlboro tomorrow on the murder warrant sworn out against Frank Prochazka in connection with the death of Emanuel Thorne, Marine private whose shot-torn body was found in a shallow grave in Greater Capitol Heights last April.

The hearing will be held by Judge Thomas D. Griffith, who issued the warrant on the oath of a deputy sheriff. Prochazka, who formerly operated a garage about a quarter of a mile from the grave, was arrested last Sunday. Police have not been able to break his story that he knew nothing of the death and did not even know the dead man.

Police are said to be looking for two other men, one of them a relative of Prochazka, for questioning. One is said to be on a fishing trip, while the other is said to have left the vicinity shortly after the body was found.

SIEGAL OWN LAWYER AT BRIBERY HEARING

Accused Attorney Fails to Shake Story of Guard at District Jail.

Acting as his own lawyer, and referring to himself as "the defendant" Abner Siegal, criminal attorney, yesterday launched a vigorous attack on Government witnesses by whom United States Attorney Leo A. Rover hopes to prove that Siegal was guilty of bribing a guard at the District Jail, for which he has been indicted.

Because of the minute cross-examination through which Siegal put each Government witness, only three were examined in the day. They were Harry S. Dean, the guard who allegedly was bribed; Col. William A. Peake, superintendent of the jail, and Special Agent Jacobson, of the Bureau of Investigation at the Department of Justice.

While Dean was on the stand he related a story of how he was approached by Siegal, who wished him to place in the jail records a card that would show that a man wanted elsewhere for murder, was actually in prison here at the time, thus establishing an alibi. Despite a severe cross-examination, Siegal was unable to shake in any material degree Dean's story.

Following Dean, Col. Peake took the stand and told how Dean had come to him and told him about the "conversations" he had had with Siegal. Dean and Col. Peake went to the Department of Justice, and later to Mr. Rover's office, where they again told the story.

The $250 that was allegedly given Dean was exhibited in court yesterday and was identified by Dean as that given him by Siegal. The trial is expected to last two days.

Woman Poisoning Victim.

Emily Grant, colored, 31 years old, of 1456 Church street northwest, is in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital after swallowing a quantity of poison. Nelson Kelly, colored janitor at 3002 Rodman street northwest, told police he found the woman screaming in the basement at that address.

POLICE MYSTIFIED BY ABDUCTION AND ALLEGED DRUGGING

WOMAN, DAZED, FOUND NEAR RAILROAD TRACKS

Declares She Was Told Her Husband Was Seriously Ill at Walter Reed.

Baffled by an apparent lack of motive for the abduction of Mrs. Louise MacIntyre, who was lured from her home at 1104 Eighth street northwest, allegedly drugged and left in a Maryland field, District and Prince Georges County police were at a standstill last night.

Mrs. MacIntyre said last night she did not believe she had been attacked after losing consciousness, and that her two captors had not ill-treated her. Her husband, Private Carl MacIntyre, made arrangements to have her brought to Walter Reed Hospital, where he is stationed.

Short Acquaintance.

Mrs. MacIntyre told reporters last night she had married her husband after an acquaintance of less than 24 hours, and that she married him on the day which had been set for her wedding to E. H. Melvin. She was to have married Melvin, a patient at Walter Reed, on Monday, but he was placed in the guardhouse the day before. That night she met MacIntyre, and married him the next morning. She stated definitely that neither of her abductors was Melvin, however, and her husband does not believe him concerned in this affair.

Mrs. MacIntyre was at her home Monday night when two men called at the house, telling her that her husband had become sudednly ill at Walter Reed Hospital. They offered to drive her there, but instead, took her into the country. Not knowing the city, she said, she did not remonstrate with them.

Had Little to Say.

They did not attempt to molest her on the drive, but "had little to say," she said. In the midst of fields, she said, they offered her a drink to calm her nervousness over her husband. A colorless liquid was poured into a glass, and she drank it. Almost immediately, she said, she lost consciousness and remembered nothing more.

She was found yesterday morning near the tracks of the Chesapeake Beach Railroad, near Ritchie Station. Her clothing was disheveled and dirty, and she was unable to talk coherently. Later she recovered and told her story. According to Dr. James I. Boyd, who examined her at Marlboro Jail, where she was taken, she had been drugged.

Man Who Shot Foreman At Post Is Held on Bond

John A. Kennedy, 34 years old, was ordered held in $10,000 bond yesterday when arraigned in Police Court on a charge of assault with intent to kill George W. Brandt, composing room foreman of The Washington Post.

The case was postponed for a week to see how Mr. Brandt recovers from the attack. He was shot as he sat at his desk in The Post composing room, and five bullets struck him. He is still in Emergency Hospital, where physicians believe he will recover.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SENATOR BORAH CONSENTS TO AN INTERVIEW BY FRENCH JOURNALISTS.

SENATOR—I am happy to have a visit from you gehtlemen, of course, and I will answer any and all questions, personal or political, on any and all subjects. I also read palms, forecast the future, commune with spirits and remove warts and wens.

Reporter—I am sure there would be a thousand questions we could ask you.

Senator—Only one thousand? I thought this was to be a regular interview.

* * * *

Reporter—Are you in favor of disarmament, Mr. Borah?

Senator—It all depends on my last speech. If I came out for disarmament then I am against it now. If I opposed disarmament then I am heartily in favor of it today as the only solution of the world's problems.

Reporter—But in the case of France, suppose she thinks she faces constant danger of attack?

Senator—Of course, it all comes down to the matter of the Polish corridor.

Reporter—What about the Polish corridor?

Senator—Well, what about it?

Reporter—I asked you first, Senator. What would you do about the Polish corridor?

Senator—Well, you take the Czechoslovakians * * *

Reporter—Who takes the Czechoslovakians?

Senator—Some of you gentlemen should take the Czechoslovakians if we are to get anywhere with this discussion.

Reporter—All right. I'll take the Czechoslovakians. Now what?

Senator—I double.

Reporter—I redouble.

Senator—Go ahead and lead me.

* * * *

REPORTER—One of the things we would like to know, Senator, is how you stand on the question of debt payments.

Senator—You have read my public statements on that topic during the last two or three years, have you not?

Reporter—Absolutely. That explains why we want to know how you stand.

Senator—What am I on record as last saying on that matter?

Reporter (consulting clippings)—In a statement about six weeks ago, Senator, you came out emphatically against any cancellation of war debts and declared unreservedly that America must be paid.

Senator—How long ago was that, did you say?

Reporter—Six weeks.

Senator—Are you quite sure I haven't said anything to the contrary in six whole weeks?

Reporter—Quite positive.

Senator—It seems incredible. Then put me down at once as declaring unequivocally that I favor immediate cancellation of all the war debts.

* * * *

REPORTER—Senator, do you believe the Poles should have permanent guaranties of access to the sea?

Senator—I would prefer to go over my last speeches before answering that question. I don't want to be accused of consistency, and, beside, some of my best friends are Poles.

Reporter—Would you mind telling the people of France whether you favor recognition of Russia by the major powers?

Senator—I thought my attitude on that was well known. I am against recognizing Russia from January through March. With the coming of spring I become somewhat more charitable and believe Russia might be recognized with reservations. From Labor Day to October 15 I am for recognizing Russia without reservations. What day is this?

Reporter—This is October 27.

Senator—(consulting his reference book)—This is one of my days for recognizing Russia.

* * * *

Reporter—On behalf of France, I thank you for this splendid interview.

Senator—Not at all. I have spoken frankly, hazily, and perhaps undiplomatically, but it is up to you gentlemen to try to make something out of it. Your judgment on what I stand for is better than mine. I greatly appreciate this little chat.

Reporter—Thank you. We agree with you that the new golf ball will clear up the present dissatisfaction and unrest.

WINNER OF PRIZE FOR ESSAY

Margaret Grant, 12, 4218 Thirteenth street northeast, a pupil of St. Anthony's School, winner of first prize for her essay on Irish history in a contest conducted by the Ancient Order of Hibernians in schools throughout the United States and Canada, received her prize, a check for $50, yesterday. Patrick J. Haltigan (left) makes the presentation. The Rev. T. N. MacCarthy, chaplain of the order, is on the right.

BRAZILIANS LEASE HENDERSON HOUSE

Embassy to Occupy Home Proposed as Residence for Vice President.

The palatial home that Mrs. Mary F. Henderson Sixteenth street dowager, attempted to give the United States as a home for the Vice President, will be occupied for the next three years by the Brazilian Embassy.

It was this gesture by the lady of Henderson Castle that precipitated the maze of court litigation culminating in the disinheritance of Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, reputed adopted granddaughter of the widow of the senator. Holding Mrs. Henderson of unsound mind, Mrs. Wholean sued to prevent the gift to the Government.

The order ratifying the agreement between the collectors for the Henderson estate, on renting the Fifteenth street home, Ralph B. Fleharty and Harry L. Rust, was signed yesterday by Justice Jesse C. Adkins. It calls for a rental of $9,000 for the first year and $10,000 for each of the next two years.

The collectors are authorized to expend $6,000 in renovating the place, according to an agreement with R. deLima e Silva, Ambassador from Brazil. The building is at 2437 Fifteenth street northwest.

The collectors also notified the court that the building now occupied by the Nicaraguan Legation, 2401 Fifteenth street northwest, is to be leased to the Persian government. Y. Azodi, charge d'affaires of the Persian Legation, has negotiated the lease, which will take effect when the Nicaraguan Legation moves out of the building the last of this month. The new lease runs one year from the coming November. The rental is to be $5,000 annually. All those interested in the probating of the Henderson wills concurred in the rentals.

SALESMAN'S BODY FOUND IN BATHTUB

Firemen Break Open Door of Gas-Filled Room and Make Discovery.

The body of Gordon B. Van Lear, 31-year-old salesman, was found reclining on carefully arranged cushions in the bathtub in his apartment, at 1601 A street southeast, yesterday afternoon by neighbors investigating gas fumes coming from the apartment. Friends said they had been anxious about Van Lear recently. His wife took her life early in September at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. D. Miller, 5124 Kansas avenue northwest.

Mrs. Mae Neiss and Mrs. Lillian Armstrong, residents of the apartment house, detected the gas odor and getting no response at Van Lear's apartment called police and the fire rescue squad. Responding, the firemen broke in the door of the apartment and the door to the bathroom. All apertures were stuffed with towels and rags. Resuscitation measures were unavailing.

Acting Coroner Joseph D. Rogers, notified by police, examined the body and after hearing the circumstances indicated he would issue a verdict of suicide. Van Lear's body was removed to the morgue, and his mother, who lives at Clifton Forge, Va., was sent word of the death of her son.

Senator Fess to Talk To Young Republicans

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, will speak on the founding of the Republican party at an open meeting of YoungR epublicans tomorrow night in new clubhouse of the National Capital Republican Club at Sixteenth street and Scott Circle.

The talk will initiate a series on eras of Republican party history to be delivered by leading partisans Charles F. Scott, publisher of the Iola (Kans.) Register, will address the group on current politics.
